Banker Elected as Chairman

Takes Over Crown Father Placed on Brow of Elbert H. Gary

Taylor to Direct Finances; Ferrell Still President and Real Chief

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—John Pierpont Morgan, international banker and income [illegible] nominal head of the United States Steel Corporation, founded by his father.

J. P. MORGAN.

The board of directors, meeting here today, elected him as chairman of the board to succeed Elbert H. Gary, who died August last. Myron C. Taylor, attorney and corporation executive, was named as chairman of the finance committee, a post also held by Gary. James A. Farrell continues as president of the corporation and becomes its chief executive officer, under direction and supervision of the finance committee and board of directors.

The action virtually places the control of the corporation in the hands of a triumvirate representing banking business and steel. While Morgan is titular head of the corporation as the chairman of the board he is not an executive officer. Farrell, executive, is under direction of the finance committee of which Morgan, Taylor, George [illegible], William J. Filbert, [illegible] Miller and Percival Roberts, Jr., are members.

GETS ONLY TITLE

The election of Morgan as chairman of the board, it is explained by friends will not add to his executive responsibilities, he having accepted a title and not an office. His election of the post is viewed as a means of continuing the close interest of the Morgan family in the affairs of the corporation.

In the first titular position held by Morgan outside his own banking house which he entered three years ago, he succeeds Elbert H. Gary, although he has been a director in other corporations, notably the Pullman Company.

Morgan will not relinquish his many affiliations; neither will he move headquarters in the offices of the Steel Corporation at 71 Broadway. It is understood he agreed to act chairmanship only with the stipulation that he will have no routine duties to perform, and that the few duties he has been gradually has been relieved of the responsibilities of his own firm and turning them over to younger partners in order to have more time to recreation. He will practically six months of the year in Europe, being particularly fond of [illegible] hunting.

TAYLOR REAL CHIEF

Taylor, regarded as a financial genius and organizer, has been closely associated with the First National Bank of Boston, headed by George F. [illegible]

A SONG AS A MEMORIAL—

None of the standard reference books of biography contains the name, station and record of Walter Kittredge, who wrote the song called "Tenting On the Old Camp Ground." But New Hampshire has not forgetful than the remainder of the nation, has dedicated a memorial tablet to him. The surmise correctly that he was a native of that State, although sometimes said that a prophet is not without honor save in his own country. Where else exception to the rule one finds a dozen instances in which it is the home folks that kept him and remembered.

The Civil War produced many singers and great songs. The one of the songs of the period and its melancholy device may appear now to be too obvious. But it has been followed by songs. Kentucky songs, mammy songs, and if these are not obvious, then what are they? This song of Kittredge's, one safe in declaring, embodies no lofty sentiment of a poet perceived the pathos of war, the longing, the regret. It rises above common-place hokum to the dignity of truth.

Yet few of us nowadays have heard of the author. It has been well said that if a poet is neglected to write the songs of a people, it should matter little who writes the laws. A memorial for Walter Kittredge seems his memory really needs no other.—[Portland Oregonian.

SEARCH FOR 'BIG HUTCH' REDOUBLED

Gov. Young Asks Police of New York City to Locate Fugitive Bunko Man

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 27. (AP)—Search by New York police detectives for E. A. (Big Hutch) Hutchings, fugitive paroled Los Angeles bunko operative, has been renewed with vigor at the request of Gov. Young, the California executive was notified today by Joab H. Banton, District Attorney of New York.

The New York Commissioner of Police, Banton wrote to Gov. Young, has detailed additional detectives to hunt the fugitive and the police also are watching the mail of his friends. The District Attorney also announced he has asked the New York Supreme Court to punish Hutchings's lawyer for contempt for failing to deposit bail which had been ordered.

Hutchings was freed from San Quentin prison two years ago on a secret parole and went to New York. Gov. Richardson immediately revoked the parole, declared Hutchings a fugitive and asked New York officers to arrest him. This was done and the Governor sent an officer east to return him.

Gov. Smith of New York granted the extradition but Hutchings carried his case to the courts. The lower court upheld the extradition, but further appeal brought Hutchings his freedom. Later, on a further appeal, the Supreme Court upheld the extradition. Since then all efforts to locate Hutchings have failed.

DAWN HUNT DUNAVAILING

Dirigible Scans Sea in Vain

Los Angeles and Five Ships Find No Trace of Plane in All-Day Search

New Signals Reported Heard by Station on West Newfoundland

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—The graveyard of the Atlantic, that turbulent stretch of water around Sable Island, N. S., failed to divulge today whether or not it had added to its list of victims the names of Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson and her three-man crew of the amphibian plane Dawn.

All day the navy dirigible Los Angeles sailed above the waves, two navy destroyers and three Coast Guard destroyers ploughed through them, but not a sign was seen of the plane.

Last Friday evening Mrs. Grayson, joint owner of the Dawn, hopped from Roosevelt Field with Oskar Omdal, pilot, Brice Goldsborough, navigator, and Fred Koehler, engine expert.

OVER CAPE COD

Two hours later they were heard passing over Cape Cod, bound for Harbor Grace, N. F., where Koehler was to leave the expedition before it started on a flight to Europe.

From the time they left Cape Cod until Sunday night, more than forty-eight hours, no word was heard of the flyers. Then the Canadian government wireless station at Sable Island picked up part of a message signed with the Dawn's code letters saying "something wrong here." All efforts to re-establish contact and get more information were unavailing.

The Sable Island operator judged the sender of the message to be about eighty miles distant and it was on this slender clew that searchers on the sea and in the air proceeded on their fruitless hunt.

VISIBILITY GOOD

The Los Angeles reported by wireless that visibility was good and it covered an area sixty miles wide and yet it saw nothing. But the search was to go on. The destroyers requested the Sable Island operator to give them the weather since Christmas Eve so they might estimate drift and include in their search area the waters into which the plane might have been washed by wind and wave after landing.

The flight to Newfoundland was preparatory to Mrs. Grayson's attempting to achieve her ambition of becoming the first woman to fly the Atlantic. That ambition had not been diminished by her knowledge that four women had set forth upon ocean flights this year, that all had failed to reach their objectives and that two had lost their lives.

OPERATOR REPORTS PICKING UP MESSAGE

ST. JOHNS (N. F.) Dec. 27. (AP)—The Western Union Telegraph Company announced tonight receipt of a report from their operator at Heart's Content, N. F., declaring that he had picked up at intervals yesterday a radio message signed either "WHU" or "WPU."

"Where are we? Can you locate us?" the reiterated call asked, according to the operator's report to headquarters.

The signals were unusually strong, he said, indicating that the sender must have been within fairly close range.

The text of the report received here from Electrician Stentaford at Heart's Content follows:

"One of our operators, Hillyard, told me this morning he picked up a call yesterday afternoon signed 'W,' next letter unreadable, but sounding like 'H' or 'P,' then letter 'U.' This call was 'Where are we? Can you locate us?' and was signed as I said. It was repeated every three or four minutes for nearly half an hour and sounded very loud on set. Don't know if it might be Dawn or not. If so she must have been very close as signals were loudest he ever heard."

Heart's Content is on Trinity Bay on the opposite coast of Newfoundland from Harbor Grace, the destination of the plane carrying Mrs. Frances W. Grayson and a crew of three men. The plane's radio call was WMU.

'Kidnaped' Iowa Girl Found and Suitor Seized

MANLY (Iowa) Dec. 27. (AP)—Object of a search in Iowa and Missouri for twenty-four hours Pauline Thompson, 20-year-old Unionville (Mo.) school-teacher, was found here today, and her kidnaper-suitor, Joey Reynolds, 22, was arrested and taken to jail at Northwood.

It is reported that Reynolds had threatened to kill himself because his attentions to the girl had been refused.

Pupils of the school, located midway between Unionville and Cincinnati, Iowa, said the teacher had stepped from the room without coat or hat and had been forced into an automobile at the point of a pistol.

Beached Vessel Lashed by Gale

DEAL (Eng.) Dec. 27. (AP)—The Italian steamer Capovado was ashore here tonight on the Goodwin Sands in great danger and exposed to a fierce gale.

Lifeboats have gone out to the vessel but the wild sea probably will prevent assistance until the gale abates.

JOHN D. CHANGES STANCE

So He Beats Old Friend at Golf But Loses Nickel "Bet" on Particularly Hard Shot

ORMOND BEACH (Fla.) Dec. 27. (AP)—John D. Rockefeller, at 88 years of age, has discovered his greatest weakness in golf—he stands too close to his ball. He had a chance to correct this today in a close six-hole match with his old friend, Gen. Adelbert Ames, and despite the fact that he lost a nickel "bet" on his ability to make a certain difficult shot, he won from the Civil War veteran, 1 up.

The matter would have gone further, but the general's tre became aroused when the oil magnate won the sixth hole. After Mr. Rockefeller had counted up the score, Mr. Ames bundled his clubs into his automobile and drove off, shouting as he departed, "An honest man hasn't got any chance in this game anyway."

"That is life, general," said Mr. Rockefeller.

GETS GOOD DRIVE

Then, as if reflecting after his opponent's departure, he said, "Oh, life has its ups and downs, just like a friendly golf game and the lapping waves of the ocean. The golf course is a place to see others as they see us and is the meeting-place of many beautiful people."

Mr. Rockefeller experienced a well-played round, managing to get an average drive of 100 yards for the six holes and staying out of the rough.

Once he was on the green in 1, his tee shot sailing 165 yards. This brought a joyous "Yoi, yoi, yoi!" from him which caused Gen. Ames to burst into laughter.

At another hole, Mr. Rockefeller had a drive of 135 yards, but was unable to find his ball for several minutes.

"That's the way you do," said Gen. Ames. "If you wouldn't drive so far, you wouldn't be losing your ball."

"Yes, and if you didn't talk so much, general," good naturedly retorted the oil magnate, "I'd be able to beat you much worse than I intend to do today."

"There you go with that old dog story stuff, again," the general returned. "How many times do I have to tell you about that?"

"I don't believe I know what dog story you're referring to, general," Mr. Rockefeller replied.

BOTH HAVE A LAUGH

"Why, you know if the dog hadn't stopped to rest he'd have caught the rabbit, and if you wouldn't pat yourself on the back so much every time you made a good shot, you'd be able to play a better game."

Here they laughed loudly, patted each other on the back and continued play.

Once Mr. Ames stopped Mr. Rockefeller and bet him a nickel that his next shot would not be satisfactory.

SHOT FROM COACH'S GUN INJURES MAN

Oregon Football Mentor Accidentally Hits One of Hunting Party

EUGENE (Or.) Dec. 27. (Exclusive) According to information divulged here today by Jack Benefiel, graduate manager of the University of Oregon, Ham Montgomery, Upper McKenzie River resident, was shot accidentally by Capt. John J. McEwan, Oregon football coach, at the Montgomery cabin near Vida. The shooting took place one week ago and no announcement of it was made at the time.

Montgomery, who was rushed immediately to the Eugene Hospital, was declared to have been not seriously hurt, although he has not yet been discharged. According to Benefiel, Capt. McEwan was cleaning his automatic shotgun when the piece was accidentally discharged. The charge of bird shot passed through the window and lodged in the back of Montgomery, who was outside.

Other members of the party were Montgomery's brother and Harry Ellinger, former member of the Oregon coaching staff.

McEwan, it was declared, unaware the gun was loaded, snapped the trigger preparatory to taking the piece down. No one knew, Benefil said, that Montgomery was in the yard. McEwan, Benefiel and Ellinger were on a fishing and hunting trip at the time of the shooting.

WIND HALTS WORKING ON SUNKEN S-4

Relays of Divers Half Complete Second Tunnel Before Sea Grows Rough

PROVINCETOWN (Mass.) Dec. 27. (AP)—Work on the second tunnel under the sunken submarine S-4 was halted late today when a strong southwest wind and a choppy sea forced navy divers to suspend operations for the day.

Six divers working in relays, descended during the day and half-completed the second tunnel, located about ten feet forward of the S-4's gun. Given favorable weather tomorrow, the divers should complete this tunnel and then Capt. Ernest F. King and Lieutenant-Commander Edward Ellsberg, who are directing the diving operations, will be able to determine the buoyancy of the sunken craft and whether a tunnel for a third cable beneath her keel will be needed for the pontoons which will be used to raise her.

It is the intention of the salvage officers to seal the hole made by the Coast Guard destroyer Pauling in the submarine's hull and pump out the boat with compressed air.

BOSTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—A message from Secretary of the Navy Wilbur saying that members of the crew of submarine S-4 have been declared officially dead as of the 21st inst., was received today by Rear-Admiral Andrews, commandant of the First Naval District.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Representative L. M. Black, Jr., Democrat, author of a resolution asking for a Congressional investigation of naval affairs as a result of the S-4 disaster off Provincetown, today called upon Curtis D. Wilbur to resign as Secretary of the Navy.

SUIT SEEKS DAMAGE FOR EXPERIMENT

Estate of Dewitt, Late Medicine Maker, Attacked in $500,000 Action

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Suit for $500,000 against the $20,000,000 estate of the late Elden C. Dewitt, patent-medicine manufacturer, was filed today by Mrs. Mae L. Brearton, who asserted Dewitt used her as the subject of experiments in seeking a cure for an "infectious disease."

The suit is based in part on claims to a contract through which Mrs. Brearton said Dewitt agreed to pay her $1000 a month for life. The amount asked was said to represent her natural expectancy plus damages for mental anguish.

Mrs. Brearton, who said she first met Dewitt at the home of her father, S. J. Gibison, in Wyoming, Iowa, when she was 11 years of age, said she voluntarily submitted to the experiment and charged Dewitt inoculated her with the germ of an "infectious disease" in February, 1919, promising a cure within six months. She received $7000 at the time of the inoculation, she said, and $200 a month thereafter until December, 1925. She charged Dewitt failed to cure the disease and the most eminent physicians also were unable to do so.

She asserted that in February, 1926, Dewitt signed a contract agreeing to pay her $1000 a month for life "for services rendered in tests and experiments in my patent medicines," and that she received the amount for three months, but payments stopped when he became ill. Dewitt died last March.

HEARST AIDE BRANDED

Avila Scored as Paid Purveyor

Engineer Tells Senate of Other Deals Offered on Documents

Newspaper Go-Between Held Up as "Notorious" by Inquiry Witness

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—Miguel Avila, procurer of the Mexican documents published in Hearst newspapers, was described to the Senate investigating committee today as a "notorious purveyor of documents" by Frank Y. McLaughlin, civil engineer of Mexico City.

McLaughlin, who said he knows nothing of the papers published in Hearst papers purporting to show creation of a $1,215,000 fund for four United States Senators, told the investigating committee that Avila has peddled "twenty or thirty worthless documents" to him, including one purporting to have come from the American Embassy.

Avila was missing today although he had been asked by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee, to be present.

AVILA ABSENT

McLaughlin also made the request that Avila be present when he told his story but hurried attempts to reach him were unsuccessful and the committee adjourned until January 4.

The American Embassy document, McLaughlin said, was brought to him by Avila in Mexico City. McLaughlin then was vice-president of the El Sol Petroleum Company, which has a contract with the Mexican government. The document consisted of a single typewritten sheet of American Embassy stationery offering to disclose for $10,000 with $1000 down, what transpired between Secretary Kellogg and Ambassador Sheffield upon the envoy's visit to Washington.

Although the paper was unsigned, McLaughlin related that Avila told him Arthur Bliss Lane, first secretary of the American Embassy, was outside the building in an automobile and would furnish the information. McLaughlin said he did not believe Avila's story and told him so "in no uncertain terms."

LANE PART DENIED

That Lane had any part in such a scheme was denied on behalf of the State Department today, although the department itself declined to dignify the story with a formal denial. Lane now is chief of the Mexican affairs division of the department.

McLaughlin, whose home is in Superior, Wis., testified he has negotiated several private contracts with the Mexican government and a $5000 forfeit now is pending on one of these. He volunteered his information to the committee, he said, "to show up Avila in the true light."

He and Avila are on friendly terms so far as he knows, said McLaughlin, who told of making numerous loans to Avila.

Octogenarian Judge to Wed Family Nurse

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27. (AP)—United States Circuit Judge William W. Morrow, 84 years of age, and Miss Julia Neill, 51, trained nurse who attended his wife during the illness which caused her death in August, 1926, today applied for a license to marry. They said the wedding date will be set later.

Judge Morrow was appointed a Federal judge in 1891 by President Harrison and was elevated to the Circuit bench by President McKinley six years later. Miss Neill accompanied him on a recent trip to Washington, D. C., whence they returned the 22nd inst. They plan a wedding trip to Honolulu.

OIL LAW TO BE EASED

Lindbergh Flight Bears Fruit

Mexico Acts to Alter Thorny Statutes as America Moves to Lift Arms Embargo

Calles's Action to Relieve Tension Between Republics Surprises Washington

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 27. (Exclusive)—The Chamber of Deputies tonight approved unanimously President Calles's bill amending the petroleum clauses of the Constitution to meet objections raised by American and other foreign oil producers. The measure will go to the Senate for action tomorrow. The Senate is expected to act speedily, completing the legislation before Congress adjourns on the 31st inst.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—Executive acts tending to crystallize into definite form the atmosphere of approachment between Mexico and the United States that surrounded the Lindbergh flight from Washington to Mexico City came to the surface today in both capitals.

President Calles moved toward the amendment of his republic's oil laws in conformity with the recent decision of the Supreme Court of Mexico in the Mexican Petroleum Company drilling permit case, apparently with the purpose of eliminating retroactive features of Articles XIV and XV against which American companies have appealed to the Mexican courts.

President Coolidge made it known that the Washington government is preparing to ease the arms embargo against Mexico to permit importation by the Mexican government of airplanes and other munitions from the United States. The State Department announced that a license has been issued to permit the Mexican government to purchase the Ford plane in which Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh flew to Mexico City to join her son for the Christmas holiday.

ACTIONS CAUSE SURPRISE

The action of the Mexican President came as a complete surprise not only to the State Department but to the Mexican Embassy here. No authorized comment on the significance of the proposed amendments to Mexican oil laws that have been the main bone of diplomatic contention between the two governments for the last two years was available either at the State Department or the Embassy.

The fact, however, that President Calles has seen fit to take prompt measures for bringing those laws into conformity with the court ruling that the cancellation of drilling permits in the Mexican petroleum zone was unconstitutional, obviously has further relieved tension. Presumably, if the Mexican Congress completes the enactment of the administration amendments, it will mean that at least the remaining drilling-permit cases before the Supreme Court and involving American oil companies will fall to the ground of their own weight. In the absence of such a legislative treatment of the problem, four additional similar decisions by the court would have been necessary to establish a precedent of nonconstitutionality in regard to the sections of the oil laws involved.

EASEMENT OF EMBARGO

Whether the language either of the decision in the Mexican petroleum case or of the proposed amendments is broad enough to solve the whole controversy over attempted retroactive application of the Mexican doctrine of nationalization of natural resources, no official in Washington cared to say. The written text of the court decision has not been received either by the State Department or the Embassy although it is understood to have been signed and probably to have prompted President Calles's move to amend the laws.

In connection with the easement of the arms embargo, it was said at the White House that the State Department is exploring the whole question. The department amplified this with a statement that there will be a distinct relaxation of restrictions, which have prevented the purchase and exportation to Mexico of American aircraft. It also was disclosed that the Mexican government has had pending requests to buy in the United States arms or other munitions of an undescribed character. Each case, it was explained, would be decided on its own merits.

The general effect of this modification of American policy appears to be that while the arms embargo continues in full force, the Washington government is preparing as a [illegible]

LINDBERGH READY FOR HOP

Hero Will Leave Mexico for Central America Tour as Mother Takes Air for Return Home

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 27. (AP)—Away on another aerial voyage of almost 3000 miles to the Central American capitals Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who brought a message of good will and amity from the United States to Mexico, will take off for Guatemala City soon after dawn tomorrow morning.

The Spirit of St. Louis is ready, the airman is anxious to be aloft again, and he hopes to traverse the intervening space between the two capitals, a distance of a little less than 800 miles, in nine hours. To accomplish this, he must cross dangerous mountain ranges and will fly high.

Mrs. Lindbergh, his mother, will see him go, and, soon after, will disappear into the cabin of the tri-motored Ford plane, which brought her here, for her return journey to Detroit. The mother and son will wing along in almost opposite directions.

The first stop of the Ford plane probably will be Tampico, and Mrs. Lindbergh should reach Detroit Friday evening.

Col. Lindbergh will spend about two days in each of the Central American capitals, proceeding from Guatemala City to Belize, San Salvador, Tegucigalpa, Managua, San Jose and Panama, and thence to Havana.

Last touches were put on the famous Lindbergh plane today, the flyer supervising the job. Like its pilot, the plane now stands forth as the most famous in the world, and when it returns to the United States, it

FORMER CONVICT STEALS LITTLE OAKLAND GIRL

Kidnaper Makes Promises of Help to Get Her from Needy Parents; Missing Since Sunday

OAKLAND, Dec. 27. (Exclusive)—California's third kidnaping mystery in ten days assumed major proportions tonight, when State-wide assistance was sought by Oakland police in finding Evelyn Wilhelmina Smith, 11-year-old schoolgirl, who has been missing since Sunday after leaving her home with a man asserted to be a paroled Folsom convict.

At the request of the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Smith of 1202 Fifty-firststreet, a warrant was issued for the arrest of Robert McClelland, 27 years of age, who has an estranged wife in Pasadena and a mother in Altadena.

Aroused as never before by the Marion Parker case and the latest Los Angeles mutilation-murder, that of the unidentified "woman in the sack" at San Fernando, local police wired requests tonight to other police departments for aid.

PARENTS GAVE CONSENT

The most peculiar phase of the asserted kidnaping is that the parents of the girl consented to her departure with the man they now accuse, but when investigation failed to substantiate the information McClelland is said to have supplied, they asked for a complaint and warrant for McClelland's arrest.

The man and girl drove away from the Smith home at 2 p.m. Sunday. No trace of their whereabouts has been uncovered to this time.

McClelland is said to have told the child's parents that he was taking her to visit his mother in Pasadena. At first he attempted to persuade Ethel Smith, 14, to accompany him, but Ethel—the details of Marion Parker's fate fresh in her mind—flatly refused to go. According to the charges, McClelland told Evelyn's father his wealthy mother would give him work, if he moved south with his wife and ten children. Smith, who has been ill and out of work for some time, was delighted. Then McClelland is declared to have insisted that his mother wanted the eldest Smith girl to go south immediately. After much discussion and Ethel's refusal Evelyn agreed to go.

GOES TO POLICE

On Monday, Mrs. Smith became worried and reported the affair to the Oakland police.

According to the mother's story, McClelland first appeared at the Smith home in company with Seth W. Cushman, son of Mrs. Olive Reed Cushman, well-known East Bay musician. Cushman had been detailed by his mother to deliver a Christmas basket to the destitute Smith family. This was the first occasion anyone in the family laid eyes on McClelland, Mrs. Smith said.

An hour later, according to the distracted mother, McClelland again called at their home. This time he was alone. He told Mrs. Smith he intended to wire his mother in Pasadena and ask her if she could make a place there for Smith. He said that he was certain she would have some "light work" Smith would be able to do.

On Sunday afternoon, McClelland drove up to the door in a Chevrolet touring car, saying his mother had wired that Smith could have a job as watchman, if he cared to move his family to the southern city. McClelland added that he was motoring south that very day and would take Evelyn along as his mother had requested.

Discussions ensued—but these were stilled when McClelland produced a check for $125 which he gave to Smith "in token of my good faith" and "as your first month's wages." Evelyn's clothes were packed and the couple drove away.

The car was discovered to be the property of Mrs. Mary Daily and carried the license number 440-229. Mrs. Daily told the police that McClelland had boarded with her for two months and had asked to borrow her car Sunday afternoon, saying that he wanted to drive to San Jose, but would return that same night. She said he had a suit case with him, but not until after he had left, did she find out that he had taken all his belongings. He left behind a soiled work suit.

ASSERTED RECORD

McClelland, according to Ed Whyte, State parole officer, was convicted in Tulare county in 1925 for forgery. He had forged a check for $56.63 on a Dinuba bank and was sentenced to Folsom after it was learned he had served a previous term in the Federal prison at Paris Island, S. C., for desertion from the Army.

McClelland was admitted to Folsom, October 18, 1925. He was released on parole two years later—last October 18—upon the promise of William H. Swales, Oakland building contractor, to give him a job.

Through Swales, a cousin of Seth Cushman, McClelland first met Cushman. Swales told police today that McClelland had been a model workman—sober, industrious and pleasant.

Swales explained his cousin Seth Cushman's connection with McClelland as follows:

"Knowing that McClelland was broke Cushman used to stop in his machine at McClelland's boarding-house each morning, and take him out to the job. He did this Saturday morning. When they got out to the job, I told them to take the day off and finish up any Christmas shopping they might have to do. On the way downtown Cushman told McClelland he had to stop off at the Smith home to deliver the Christmas basket, which his mother and my mother had prepared for the family. McClelland got out of the car at Smith's house and with my cousin, went into wish them a Merry Christmas. To our knowledge, this is the first time he ever saw or heard of the family.

CHECK COMES BACK

"He told Mrs. Daily, she said, that his wife had property in Pasadena and that she and their two children lived on the income from it. But, she added, he sent money south all the time and sent Christmas gifts for the children. On Saturday, he gave Mrs. Daily's children presents which he bought at a drug store at the corner of Seminary avenue and East Fourteenth street. He gave the druggist a check for these articles. Today the check was proven worthless as was one for $28.50 he gave to Mrs. Daily for two weeks' board, plus $5 for Christmas.'"

An investigation of his bank balance showed it totaled 40 cents—which had been standing for several days prior to his first visit to the Smith home. On Friday last, he drew his pay, amounting to $22, making his entire capital $27, although he had previously told Mrs. Daily that his mother had sent him a $100 check for Christmas. This was the first occasion he had ever spoken of his mother, Mrs. Daily said.

THEIR DESCRIPTIONS

Police are at a loss to account for a motive in the case. Ransom, they pointed out, is absurd because the Smith family is without funds.

Evelyn's description is:

Height 4ft. 8in.; weight, ninety pounds; fair complexion, blue eyes. She wore, when last seen, a white dress with rose design and two ruffles at the hem of the skirt; blue sweater, buttoning at the neck; black coat with brown fur collar and cuffs; white stockings and patent-leather shoes; green straw hat.

McClelland's description:

Height 5ft. 6in.; weight 151 pounds; ruddy complexion; blue eyes, blond hair. When last seen he wore a dark blue suit, dark overcoat and plaid cap.

MOTHER NOT WEALTHY; WIFE EXPRESSES SURPRISE

Robert E. McClelland, asserted kidnaper of Evelyn Smith, 11-year-old Oakland girl, is not bringing the girl to Pasadena to his mother, nor is his mother the wealthy woman pictured to the kidnaped girl's parents. She is Mrs. C. M. Basore, 347 Acacia street, Altadena, the wife of a gardener.

Neither his mother nor his wife, Mrs. Jessie McClelland, 900 Worcester street, Pasadena, know anything of his plans and both professed surprise when informed he obtained the custody of the Smith girl to bring her to Pasadena.

PHONE TO TURN TO PHONOGRAPH

New Device Records Words of Caller in Owner's Absence and Repeats Them

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (Exclusive)—"They do not answer," the telephone operator's reply to a customer when the person being called is not in, soon may be a thing of the past.

J. G. Larshon of Copenhagen, Denmark, one of Europe's foremost telephone engineers, arrived today with an invention that records messages during the absence of the person being telephoned and repeats the messages when the owner returns and lifts the receiver off the hook.

Larshon will demonstrate the instrument here to American telephone engineers. The invention can be attached to any phone set in five minutes. The average cost is 15 cents per 100 messages.

TEXAS BANK ROBBERS IN GUN FIGHT

Two Survivors of Cisco Battle Shoot Way Out After Hold-up and Escape

SOUTH BEND (Tex.) Dec. 27. (AP) Holding at bay scores of officers and citizens, two bank robbers covered their retreat with sweeping gunfire and at noon today had succeeded in crossing the Brazos River near Bunger, into the dense underbrush of Young county.

The gunmen, the two remaining bandits who Friday held up the First National Bank of Cisco and escaped after fatally shooting G. E. Bedford, Cisco Police Chief, and wounding eight other persons, are believed to have eluded capture for several hours.

One of their number was shot by the posse earlier in the day when they abandoned an automobile and began a retreat into the rough country. He was taken to Graham, where he was identified as the leader of the gang who masqueraded as Santa Claus in the spectacular hold-up. He is suffering from two old bullet wounds believed to have been received in the battle at the bank, and two fresh wounds in the arms received this morning.

The other bandit was wounded fatally in the hold-up and died in Tarrant County Jail at Fort Worth. One or both of the fleeing robbers are believed to be founded as a trail of blood was followed to the river banks.

The only hope of capture now is that posses from Graham may head them off in Young county, it was pointed out. The pursuers from South Bend evidently lost their trail at the river, for shortly after noon no traces of the fugitives had been found.

GIRL FINDS CORPSE NOT THAT OF KIN

Error in Identity of Living Instead of Dead Blamed for Needless Trip North

FRESNO, Dec. 27. (AP)—Mistaken identity of the living rather than of the dead tonight loomed as the explanation of the mystery which developed here this morning when Miss Evelyn Mann of Los Angeles received the body of an utter stranger when she expected the body of her father.

Relatives of the girl in Los Angeles telephoned her tonight that another Evelyn Mann is being traced there. It is believed that a telegram from Portland, Or., sent a week ago Monday, stating that Harry G. Mann, a brother, was seriously ill, should have been received by the Evelyn Mann now being sought. The girl who came here to receive what she thought was her father's body has no brother.

Miss Mann said here tonight that the telegram from the Portland hospital was addressed to "Miss Evelyn Mann, Real Estate Business, Los Angeles." It was delivered to her at her business address, the Mortgage and Loan Corporation, 727 South Spring street.

MORGAN GIVEN STEEL THRONE

Takes Over Title Held by Late Judge Gary

President Farrell Becomes Corporation's Pilot

Baker, Sr., in the last few years. He became a member of the board of directors of the Steel Corporation three years ago and his special talent won for him a place on the finance committee. It was only recently he was prevailed upon to take over the chairmanship of the finance committee, a position which, by action of the directors today in releasing the chairman of the board from executive responsibility, becomes in effect the highest active office in the corporation.

Farrell is now free to concentrate his efforts on manufacturing operations and foreign and domestic sales, in which he has been eminently successful. He is recognized as the steel industry's greatest expert on foreign sales, and is reputed to be possessed of an encyclopedic mind because of his fund of knowledge regarding trade statistics and methods. While in direct charge of the corporation's personnel of some 250,000 employees, his decisions on corporation policy are subject to approval of the finance committee and the board of directors.

MANY CONFERENCES

Mr. Farrell, under the by-laws, has been acting as chairman of the board and chairman of the finance committee since the death of Mr. Gary. Little was done toward the selection of Mr. Gary's successor until the return of Mr. Morgan from Europe in November. Since that time frequent conferences have been held by directors in addition to the regular weekly meetings of the finance committee, but the final slate was not decided upon until a few weeks ago.

Today's meeting lasted less than half an hour, indicating the course of action had been determined in advance. Typewritten slips with the official announcement of the board's action were distributed shortly before 3:30 p.m.

Mr. Morgan, always shy in the presence of newspaper men, was cornered by reporters outside the directors' room. Someone offered congratulations and he murmured "thanks" as he endeavored to make his way to the elevator. Newspaper men pressed around him, asking for a statement.

"There is nothing more to say," he said. "Everything has been said there is to say."

Except to state that today's action of the board will necessitate a change in the by-laws, Mr. Farrell also declined to make any statement.

Mr. Taylor succeeded in leaving the building without encountering newspaper men, but was trailed to his offices at 120 Broadway, where he graciously received reporters, but asked to be excused from making any quoted statement until he had an opportunity to acquaint himself with his new duties. He promised to carry out the policy of Mr. Gary in making public corporation news of public interest. It is expected Mr. Taylor will move to offices in the Steel Corporation Building.

WORKED IT OUT

The Morgans have been intimately identified with the United States Steel Corporation ever since its inception in February, 1901. It was J. P. Morgan, the elder, who worked out with Elbert H. Gary the details of the first "billion-dollar corporation" in the history of the country.

The great Steel Corporation was made possible by the banker's confidence in Mr. Gary, then president of the Federal Steel Company, itself a combination of smaller units. As general counsel for the Illinois Steel Company, Mr. Gary had been consulted frequently by interests close to the Morgan bank. On one occasion he was called in by Mr. Morgan for advice on a railway matter involving questions of Illinois law and practice. On hearing the details, the Illinois attorney is declared to have given an opinion that Morgan's plan could not be carried out legally.

"Well," the financier retorted, "I don't know as I want a lawyer to tell me what I cannot do. I hire him to tell me how to do what I want to do."

As president of the Federal Steel Company, Mr. Gary conceived the idea of a steel combination so stupendous that it taxed the imaginations of financiers of that day. It was to be an organization large enough to produce all kinds of steel, and at the same time to specialize in each one of the various phases of the industry.

GOES TO CARNEGIE

When Mr. Gary took his plan to the elder Morgan, he failed at first to arouse the banker's enthusiasm. Undefeated, however, Gary enlisted the aid of Andrew Carnegie, at that time the largest of the American steel operators. Carnegie was ready to sell; the idea of a super-corporation such as was outlined to him was appealing. Together they laid a plan to win over the Morgan support. Their method proved to be one of the outstanding romances of American business.

A dinner, nominally a social affair, to which Mr. Morgan had been invited, was selected as the scene. Charles M. Schwab, now chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, but then president of the Carnegie Steel Company, was assigned to make a speech, outlining the plan for the huge steel merger, its possibilities and benefits.

Mr. Schwab was described as a young man with a "tongue of gold." His eloquence had a far-reaching fect. Morgan was so impressed that he adopted the idea with all the energy worthy of a project which he afterward characterized as the greatest achievement of his career.

To Gary was assigned the task of working up the details. He worked with such zeal and received from Morgan such thorough co-operation that the United States Steel Corporation was chartered two months and a half after the epoch-making dinner, and in April, 1901, it began business operations as a corporate unit.

Mr. Gary became chairman of the board of directors of the new corporation, and its chief executive officer. This position he held until his death. Mr. Schwab became the first president of the corporation and Robert Bacon, a Morgan partner, was the first head of the finance committee. The elder Morgan continued as a director until his death in 1913, when his son, the present J. P. Morgan, took his place on the directorate.

BIDS CALLES FAREWELL

Col. Lindbergh bade President Calles farewell at a meeting which witnesses said was replete with emotion.

When the American flyer left the chief executive's office the President's eyes followed him, it is said by those who were present, as a father might watch the departure of a dear son.

Accompanied by Ambassador Morrow, Lindbergh motored from the American Embassy to Chapultepec Castle to pay his respects and thank the President for courtesies extended to him. President Calles shook hands with both warmly.

Lindbergh bowed and told the President through an interpreter that he wished, in calling to say farewell, to let the President know how much he had enjoyed his visit to Mexico, how much he liked the country and its people, and how much he appreciated the President's honors, courtesies, kindnesses and those of the Mexican government.

GOOD LUCK AND ADIOS

President Calles took Lindbergh's hand firmly in his own, looked steadily into his eyes for a moment, and then a tender expression swept over the ordinarily stern, firm face of Mexico's ruler. He said:

"Adios. Mexico admires and loves you. Your visit has meant much to us. Good luck and good-by."

Those present say that a little tremor came into the President's always husky voice. He gave Lindbergh an embrace in the Mexican fashion, patting him affectionately on the back.

"Good luck and adios," he repeated.

Lindbergh shook the President's hand, said, "Thank you," and went away with the President's eyes upon him.

JOHN D. TRIES NEW GOLF POSE

The oil magnate accepted, swung and topped the ball.

"You win," he said, reaching for the nickel, "but don't tell anyone that I'm out here making such big wagers or people will think I'm a regular gambler."

After the game, a party of Vermont tourists asked Mr. Rockefeller if they could take his picture.

"Sure," he replied, posing with one of his golf clubs.

"Now here's a nickel for each of you—I haven't any new dimes left—I'll pay you the other nickel the next time I see you."

CHRISTMAS PARTY

After his golf game, Mr. Rockefeller returned to his winter home to rest up for his annual Christmas party tonight.

On this night for several years the aged oil magnate has played Santa Claus to his friends and neighbors and their children, and in keeping with this custom more than 100 guests were invited to the informal affair.

A dinner, musicale and presentation of gifts by Mr. Rockefeller from a large, electrically lighted Christmas tree in the drawing-room of the Rockefeller home, The Casements, constituted the program.

Those invited included members of the immediate household and those residents of Ormond and Daytona Beach whom he has come to know well since his winter home was established here.

Nation Receives Japanese Dolls

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. Jane Davis, daughter of Secretary of Labor Davis, received the dolls on behalf of the children of the United States.

Speakers included Ambassador Matsudaira, Secretary Davis, Dr. J. J. Tigert, Commissioner of Education and Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, chairman of the Federal Council of Churches, committee on world friendship among children.

The dolls are to be distributed to museums throughout the country after a formal reception for them in New York.

Pope Expresses Grief in Christmas Message

[Copyright, 1927, by the Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, Dec. 27. (Exclusive)—Declaring that the condition of priests and sisters of charity herded in Mexican concentration camps is worse than that which caused the United States armed intervention in Cuba thirty years ago, the Vatican State Department today began an active campaign to arouse the temporal powers of the world to intervene and prevent the persecution of priests in Mexico and China.

The campaign, which is to be taken up by the Vatican organ, Osservatore Romano, today follows the Pope's Christmas allocution to the College of Cardinals in which the Pontiff himself expressed wonderment that Christian nations allow the Mexican and Chinese atrocities to go on. The Pope is known to be grievously distressed as a result of the letters he just has received both from China and Mexico which, it is believed, caused his outspokenness in his Christmas speech.

DOCUMENTS PUBLISHED

Osservatore today begins the lengthy publication of documents describing Mexican conditions, which were printed in Washington in the National Catholic Welfare Council news sheet on the 12th inst., and now being reproduced here. The documents are letters received from priests. Commenting on them, Osservatore says, "These letters, coming from all parts of the country, tell of a priest being hanged, a sister shot, another sister being given to soldiers, a village burned and a concentration camp in which conditions are worse than the conditions that caused the intervention of the United States in Cuba."

The paper then describes how religious rites must be practiced secretly, and refers to "the insensate system of terror of the present government."

ARTICLES TO BE BROADCAST

The Vatican organ also prints a long article describing the findings of the inquest made by a missionary in the Province of Honan, China, where there was a duplication of the atrocities by the Chinese bandits, says Osservatore.

Osservatore's articles are to be reproduced in all Catholic papers throughout the world, and it is believed that special church organizations will be instructed to arouse the conscience of the world against the persecutions.

CATHOLIC WOMEN PROTEST TO COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—In a communication to President Coolidge, the National Council of Catholic Women protested today against what was termed the "un-Christian and the uncivilized persecution carried on in Mexico by the Calles government."

The communication, signed by the president of the council, Mary G. Hawks, requested that our "own government take effective steps to show before the world its disapproval of such tyranny."

"The intimate relations established by our ambassador with President Calles, and the visit of Col. Lindbergh, are widely interpreted as condoning, if not approving, the method by which the Calles government seeks to destroy liberty of religion, liberty of the press and liberty of education," according to the letter.

Asserting that the press is strangely silent on "outrages and mutilations," the communication cited "instances of brutality" toward priests, nuns and members of the Catholic church.

"In reply to former protests against the un-American, as well as uncivilized, tyranny of the Calles regime, our government has stated that it is not within its province to interfere in the internal questions of another country," it said.

It concluded with the request for some "statement that will reassure our people that our own country stands true in its international relations to those principles of human rights and human liberty which we know to be our own salvation and which we have always claimed to champion before the world."

MEXICO TO EASE OIL REGULATION

BOTH NATIONS GIVE COL. LINDBERGH CREDIT

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 27. (AP)—To Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's goodwill flight to Mexico, in the opinion of both Mexicans and Americans, may be attributed President Calles's unexpected move for amendment of the petroleum laws. This amendment aims at removing from the law points considered retroactive and confiscatory by the foreign oil companies and by the United States government in its formal diplomatic notes to Mexico on the subject.

The President sent a message to Congress saying in effect that the oil law should be amended, thus removing these objectionable features for the reason that the Supreme Court in the recent Mexican Petroleum Company decision declared them unconstitutional. Technically and literally, Senor Calles is asking Congress only to make the oil law conform with what the Mexican Supreme Court has said is constitutional.

But public opinion here in its first reaction seems convinced that the good-will flight — the gesture of friendship from the United States which in the Mexican mind that flight betokened—Ambassador Morrow's policy of friendship and his establishment of close personal relations with President Calles and President Coolidge's seemingly warmer policy toward Mexico—all combined to form influences leading the President of the Mexican republic to take this important step.

The enactment by Congress of President Calles's recommendations, which is expected, will remove one of the most vexing if not the most difficult of differences which have existed between the two governments in recent years. The bill calls for the amendment of Articles XIV and XV of the oil regulations, and also amendments would do away with confirmatory concessions for 50 years in exchange for rights acquired by oil companies before May 1, 1917.

The Supreme Court decision in the Mexican Petroleum Company case declared unconstitutional, as far as the company is concerned, Article XIV, which, in effect, substituted fifty-year confirmatory concessions to be issued by the Mexican government to oil-land titles acquired before the 1917 constitution. The decision also declared unconstitutional, so far as that company is concerned, Article XV, which gave the foreign oil companies one year in which to comply with the law an dapply for confirmatory concessions.

The Calles amendments read:

"Article XIV—There shall be confirmed without expense by means of concessions the following rights:

"(1.) Those derived from titles which oil exploitation works were commenced prior to May 1, 1917.

OTHER PROVISIONS

"(2.) Those derived from contracts made prior to May 1, 1917, by owners of the surface of land under contract to them for the purpose of oil exploitation:

"(3.) To owners of electric oil refineries at present working under concessions or authorizations issued by the Department of Industry, Commerce and Labor; and in regard to those concessions or authorizations:

"Confirmation of these rights will be granted without limitation of time when on behalf of surface owners and for the time mentioned in contracts reached by surface owners and other parties.

"Article XV—The term of one year is fixed from the day following the publication of these reforms and the same day, inclusive, of the following year in which must be made confirmation of the rights to which the foregoing articles refer, and who have not been the subject of confirmatory petitions within the period fixed in this article.

"Regarding confirmations sought within the year 1926 and in respect thereof titles have not been issued, these shall be granted in accordance with present reforms.

"In the terms of the same shall be rectified confirmatory titles already issued."

which is expected, will remove one of the most vexing if not the most difficult of differences which have existed between the two governments in recent years. The bill calls for the amendment of Articles XIV and XV of the oil regulations, and such amendments would do away with confirmatory concessions for fifty years in exchange for rights acquired by oil companies before May 1, 1917.

The Supreme Court decision in the Mexican Petroleum Company case declared unconstitutional, so far as that company is concerned, Article XIV, which, in effect, substituted fifty years confirmatory concessions to be issued by the Mexican government for oil-land titles acquired before the 1917 constitution. The decision also declared unconstitutional, so far as that company is concerned, Article XV, which gave the foreign oil companies one year in which to accept the law an dapply for confirmatory concessions.

The Calles amendments read:

"Article XIV—There shall be confirmed without expense by means of concessions the following rights:

"(1.) Those derived from lands on which oil exploitation works were commenced prior to May 1, 1917;

OTHER PROVISIONS

"(2.) Those derived from contracts made prior to May 1, 1917, by owners of the surface or persons under contract to them for the purpose of oil exploitation;

"(3.) To owners of oleoducts and refineries at present working under concessions or authorizations issued by the Department of Industry, Commerce and Labor; and in regard to those concessions or authorizations;

"Confirmation of these rights will be granted without limitation of time when on behalf of surface owners and for the time mentioned in contracts reached by surface owners and other parties.

"Article XV—The term of one year is fixed from the day following the publication of these reforms until the same day, inclusive, of the following year in which must be sought confirmation of the rights to which the foregoing article refers, and which have not been the subject of confirmatory petitions within the period fixed in this article.

"Regarding confirmations sought within the year 1936 and in respect thereof titles have not been issued, these shall be granted in accordance with present reforms.

"In the terms of the same shall be rectified confirmatory titles already issued."

BIOLOGY OF MAN URGED AS STUDY

Scientist Lists Problems That Face Race

Cites Demand to Diminish Number of Defectives

Control of Sex Ratio Also Listed as Vital

...RSVILLE (Tenn.) Dec. 27. (AP)—...broad program for pushing out ...boundaries of man's knowledge ...f man was laid before the scientific ...orld tonight by Dr. Clarence Cook ..., world-famous geneticist and ...sident of the University of Mich-...

...Dr. Little delivered the annual ...ton Xi lecture on the program of ...e American Association for the Ad-...ncement of Science, using as a sub-...t the field of research, which has ...s object discovery of those nat-...l laws which can be applied to ...e human race in mind and body. ...There is no doubt that medicine, ...sociology, the clergy and educa-...rs have all become much more in-...erested in and considerate of the ...ndings and possibilities of research ...n human biology than they were ..., five or even ten years ago," he ...

CONTROL DEFECTIVES

...alling attention to the fact that ...re is a growing insistence "that the supply of defectives of various sorts should be controlled and diminished by preventing their reproduction," he emphasized the importance of turning from insects to mammals, such as cats, dogs, rabbits, mice and rats, in the laboratory phase of experimental genetics. There is, he explained, "a real gap" between the fundamental life processes of man and of insects, which heretofore have been the principal subjects for study.

He suggested "at least five great divisions of genetic problems which are capable of successful investigation in laboratory mammals:" The genetic bases for size and growth; fertility and sterility, susceptibility or resistance to disease, lethal action of genes during development, and psychological differences.

CONTROL OF SEXES

Within these fields, among other objectives, the research worker will seek the possibility of controlling the ratio between the sexes, or developing resistance to infectious diseases and elimination of hereditary defects, and of gaining new light on the inheritance of mental characteristics.

The possibility of developing strains and races immune to ailments which afflict less carefully-bred members of the same species, Dr. Little said, "is capable of much more interesting analysis than has yet been given it."

EMOTIONS ANALYZED

Analysis of the human emotions is being brought steadily closer to the status of an exact science. Psychologists at the University of Iowa, working under the direction of Prof. Christian A. Ruckmick, have established in the laboratory emotional situations comparable to those of every day life.

"Our observers state," said Dr. Ruckmick today in addressing the psychology section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, "that they are surprised at the reality of the emotions created under controlled situations. On the other hand, the experimenters are surprised to find that the observers are able to report their experience so consistently in analytical terms while undergoing even the most drastic emotions.

"So far we have accumulated nearly 150 complete descriptions of typical emotions, like anger, fear, surprise, amusement and joy."

Fear, the psychologists found, is marked by muscular tension throughout the body, a momentary halting of the breath and "clammy sensations" in the hands and feet. Anger is accompanied by a flushing of the face and "a mass of verbal ideas centering on some aggressive action."

BRAIN GIVEN TO PANTHEON

Great Russian Psychologist, Founder of Unique Institution, Wills It His Remains

MOSCOW, Dec. 27. (AP)—The "brain pantheon" founded by Prof. Vladimar Bechtereff, Russian psychologist, for the purpose of studying the source of talent and genius, soon will have a fourth brain added to the three already preserved—that of Prof. Bechtereff himself.

The scientist, who has been devoting much time in recent months to organizing the brain pantheon which had been approved by the soviet government, died late Saturday from paralysis of the heart after a short illness. New of his death shocked the Russian scientific world deeply.

Prof. Bechtereff willed his brain for scientific study and before his death expressed the wish that his body be cremated. At the pantheon his brain will rest along with the brains of three other noted men which form the nucleus of the "museum of talent."

THOSE PRESERVED

The brains already in the collection are those of Anton Rubinstein, the famous pianist and composer, who died in 1894; Dmitri Mendeleff, naturalist and chemist, whose works on periodic law brought him world fame before his death in 1907, and Alexander Kohni, writer, jurist and ranking member of the Academy of Science, who died last September.

The plan of Prof. Bechtereff, as announced on October 21, last, called for the establishment of a brain pantheon where the cerebral tissues of dead celebrities would be kept in glass bowls labeled with gold plates bearing descriptions of their peculiarities. Before being so displayed, the brains were to be dissected and microscopically examined and their characteristics tabulated in the hope that they might continue to serve humanity after death.

IDEA EXPLAINED

In explaining to a correspondent of the Associated Press his idea, Prof. Bechtereff said: "Our brain pantheon sets itself two aims: first, to preserve the brains of immortals as sacred relics, thus satisfying the emotions; second, to study the relation between high gifts and the formation of brain cells and glandular secretions."

Declaring that what is now known about the brain are but the mere vague beginnings, Prof. Bechtereff held that scientific study may enable the world to determine what genius really is.

Dolly Sisters Will Quit Stage

NICE (France) Dec. 27. (AP)—The Dolly sisters announced today that they have decided to retire from the stage and to spend most of their time on the Riviera.

They had intended to retire next year, Yancsi Dolly said today, but the illness of Roszika, who has been under the care of four doctors at a local hotel, caused them to decide to announce their immediate withdrawal. Roszika suffered from an intestinal poisoning which prevented her taking food, but this is cleared and she is slowly regaining strength, but probably will undergo an appendicitis operation when sufficiently recovered.

The sisters, who long have been headliners as a singing and dancing team, expect to buy a home on the Riviera.

Army Warehouse Attacked by Fire

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—A fire thought by army officials to have started from defective wiring or an overheated hot water heating system did damage estimated at slightly less than $500,000 today at Bolling Field. The blaze was confined to the Air Corps and Quartermaster warehouse where $5,000,000 worth of service uniforms and airplane parts were stored. No planes were in the warehouse.

The goods destroyed were mostly quartermaster supplies, including uniforms for 250 men, airplane wings, motors, tail surfaces and other parts.

A board of inquiry was appointed to investigate the fire.

RICH LUMBERMAN AND PHILANTHROPIST DIES

CHIPPEWA FALLS (Wis.) Dec. 27. (AP)—William Irvine, 76 years of age, civic benefactor and millionaire lumberman, died at his home last night after a six-months' illness. Mr. Irvine was general manager of the Chippewa Lumber and Broom Company for forty years until 1911. At the time of his operation the company was the largest saw mill under one roof in the world. Mr. Irvine was a director of the Soo Line Railway.

FOURTEEN KILLED BY ALCOHOL IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Fourteen deaths from alcoholism since Friday are reported by the police today, while sixty-five persons are receiving treatment in the alcoholic wards of the city hospitals. Hospital officials said this number is not abnormal and that most of the cases are due to drinking of excessive quantities of liquor rather than wood alcohol.

LONDONERS OUT ON SNOWSHOES

Record Storm Brings Novel Sight to British

King Credited With 'Hunch' in Extra Holiday

Country Buried in White as Blizzard Continues

LONDON, Dec. 27. (AP)—It has been fortunate for King George's subjects, snowed up in a most unprecedented manner this Christmas-tide, that the fates decreed that His Majesty, as though in anticipation, should have proclaimed one extra day national holiday. This extra day has been a real boon, not only for humble workers, enabling them to stay at home until the worst aspects of the blizzard partly are obliterated, but also for the wealthier classes, marooned in distant parts of the country by snow-clogged roads, impassable for motors.

By the time business resumes tomorrow locomotion, at least in the towns and cities, again will be possible without extreme discomfort such as was experienced yesterday and today. Though the blizzard continued in some of the southern and eastern sections of England this afternoon, a sharp frost set in tonight and the snow ceased.

STORY CROP LARGE

Many stories are coming to hand of automobiles, omnibuses and other vehicles stranded in the country roads in huge snow drifts, remote villages isolated and suffering from lack of food supplies, of farm animals needing to be dug from the drifts; while the strange sight was witnessed, even in London, of adventurous souls walking the streets on skils and snowshoes.

In a few short days England has experienced rain and snow, a silver frost and a blizzard. In some distant places drifts as nigh as twelve to sixteen feet are reported. For a day or two there was skating on the ice that covered the roads and the streets of many towns, and the hospitals attended to hundreds of cases of fractures and bruised limbs in London alone.

SEA AND AIR LINES QUIT

The coast towns have suffered severely from the force of the gales and conditions prevailed today on the French as well as the British shores of the Channel which compelled stoppage of various sea and air services. There still is danger of serious floods in the Thames Valley and elsewhere when the snows melt.

Although there has been a large number of minor accidents and a few deaths, no accidents at sea or on the land are reported involving a heavy death toll.

STORM STRIKES FRANCE WITH WINDS AND RAIN

PARIS, Dec. 27. (AP)—Transportation lines in France have been hard hit by storms which are general along the coast and scattered interior regions of the country. Service between Calais and Boulogne and the English Channel ports was suspended today, while all air lines northward from Paris ceased running.

Wire communication with England is extremely limited because of storm conditions.

There have been a few minor railway accidents, chiefly because of landslides and falling telegraph wires, as well as other accidents caused by heavy winds and floods.

Small coastal shipping is remaining inside protected harbors.

The temperature, which has been generally mild with sharp winds and rain, was dropping tonight with freezing or lower temperatures generally predicted except on the Riviera, where continued rain was forecast.

Boy Totes Gun to Get Skates

DETROIT, Dec. 27. (AP)—Nine-year-old William Jahrinanis, who said he was "sore" because Santa Claus neglected to leave him a pair of ice skates as he had requested in a letter, obtained his father's pistol today and sallied forth to a municipal pond where he relieved two more fortunate youths of their skates at the point of the weapon. He was apprehended by a policeman and taken to headquarters but later released to his father.

RELIGIOUS CULT HEAD ACCUSED OF MURDER

OAKLAND, Dec. 27. (AP)—Edmond R. Cook, head of a religious cult here, was arraigned today on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Betty Buckles in the office of "Dr." Irvin Cole, after an asserted illegal operation. Saturday was set as the date for the preliminary examination. Cole is a fugitive from justice.

STOCKYARDS BLAZE DESTROYS 1800 HOGS

EAST ST. LOUIS (Ill.) Dec. 27. (AP) Eighteen hundred hogs were burned to death in a fire of undetermined origin which destroyed a hog barn in the National Stockyards here today. Damage to the building was $50,000 and the animals destroyed were valued at $36,000.

CHICAGO TO HAVE DOG REFUGE

Former Irene Castle Gives Fund to Build Haven for Canines

CHICAGO, Dec. 27. (AP)—A haven for homeless dogs is to be founded in Chicago with money given by Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin, formerly Irene Castle, the Anticruelty Society announced today. Mrs. McLaughlin, a director of the society, it is announced, has donated sufficient funds for building a refuge for homeless canines found wandering Chicago's streets.

Plans for the home were discussed today at a meeting of the society.

At present dogs for which homes are not found are put to death.

RED DEPUTIES TIRE OF CELLS

French Lawmakers Serving Time Hide Out Over Holiday Period

PARIS, Dec. 27. (Exclusive) Life is just a series of trips from prison to Parliament and back to prison again, four Communist Deputies moaned on Christmas morning when the Chamber finally adjourned at 6 o'clock after passing the budget. They are serving time in prison and being released by the law whenever the Chamber sits.

But when the Chamber adjourned until January 10 the Red Deputies failed to return to the lock-up. Instead they retired stealthily to the homes of friends to pass the holidays. Efforts by police to locate them have proved unavailing.

WORLD GOLD POOL URGED AS REMEDY

Learned Societies Hear Plan to End Depression by Supplying Deficiency

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—An international pooling of gold reserves as a cure for recurrent business depressions brought on by underproduction of new gold was suggested today by Dr. L. D. Edie of the University of Chicago, speaking before the American Economics Association, which is in session here in conjunction with other organizations making up the American Council of Learned Societies.

This plan, Dr. Edie said, would involve the establishment of a "Gold League of Nations." He pointed out that the production of new gold has been falling far short of the annual 2.7 per cent increase which economists insist is necessary to the maintenance of a stable price level over any considerable period.

Although of the opinion that nationalistic tendencies in current political thought make improbable the establishment of a system under which other countries would obtain a share in the control of our gold, Dr Edie declared that economic pressure might compel the nations to adopt such a plan.

The manner in which the income-tax law is applied to the larger and more complicated cases was criticised by Prof. Thomas Sewell Adams of Yale, president of the association. He declared its application to these cases "has been characterized by vacillation, delay and demoralizing uncertainty."

He asserted that there are more than 19,000 undecided cases before the Board of Tax Appeals, and that these cases involve aggregate deficiencies of $550,000,000, with upward of 200 more cases than are decided monthly being added to the list.

DRY LAW'S BIRTH TO BE CELEBRATED

Churches of Land Asked to Participate in Jubilee on January 16 Next

WESTERVILLE (O.) Dec. 27. (AP)—Church congregations throughout the country have been asked by Bishop Nicholson, national president of the Anti-Saloon League, to participate in a two-day demonstration celebrating the eighth anniversary of the Eighteenth Amendment's enactment.

On January 15 all ministers are urged to preach sermons invoking observance of the prohibition law and support of the government in enforcement work.

The next day, January 16, the eighth anniversary of the date the law became effective, church bells will ring for eight minutes—one minute for each year of national prohibition.

Plans to make the demonstration an annual affair were announced today by Bishop Nicholson and Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

League officials say the two-day celebration will be one of the largest reform demonstrations ever witnessed in the country.

The bishop also urged ministers to read to their congregations parts of President Coolidge's recent message to Congress on prohibition enforcement.

ONE DIES IN CRASH OF TRAIN AND OIL TRUCK

WASHINGTON Pa.) Dec. 27. (AP)—Two enginemen were burned today, one fatally, when a Pennsylvania passenger train struck a gasoline tank truck at a grade crossing near here. Gasoline ignited from the fire box and trapped Engineer Robert J. Ellis, 60 years of age, who died several hours later, and Fireman Cornelius H. Willard, 45. The truck driver was unhurt.

Explosion Fatal to Berlin Dancer

BERLIN, Dec. 27. (AP)—Injured in a benzine explosion, Lucie Kieziehausen, one of the most popular dancers in Germany, died today. She was using benzine in her bathroom to cleanse her hair. She had been associated with Max Reinhardt, the producer.

The Pacific Coast is a world center of tourist interest. Your friends in other States will enjoy reading about it in the Midwinter Number of The Times, out January 3.

AUTO INCREASE FOR YEAR LOW

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Automobiles registered in the United States in 1927 showed the smallest percentage increase since the infancy of the industry, and the smallest numerical increase since 1916, the annual survey by Motor Magazine shows.

Withdrawal of the Ford car from the market during the last half of the year and more widespread junking operations were held responsible for the poor showing. An increase was forecast for 1928.

Registrations as of January 1, 1928, the survey indicated, will show 23,236,191 automobiles registered, an increase of 1,224,798 over January 1, 1927. Passenger cars now in use number 20,982,000 and trucks 2,994,000. The increase was smaller by 7500 than in the depression year of 1921, and 61,000 smaller than in the war year of 1918.

Eleven States showed a larger gain than in 1926, but there was no change in the relative standing of States in the number of registered vehicles. New York increased its lead over California, setting a new mark of 1,953,280, as against California's 1,714,936.

INTERCOUNTY TUNNEL PLANNED

OAKLAND, Dec. 27. (AP)—Application for a franchise to construct an intercounty tunnel from the Joaquin Miller road in Oakland to join the Walnut Creek highway in Contra Costa county was filed with the Alameda County Board of Supervisors today by E. J. Fitzpatrick, real estate dealer.

LEGION BREAKS IN DOTY

American Boy Meets Terrible Sergeants and Gets First Taste of Hard Discipline

[This is the third of a series of articles by Bennett J. Doty, American boy, whose valiant service in the French Foreign Legion and his subsequent desertion, imprisonment and release have made him a figure of world interest. Doty will relate his remarkable experiences and describe life in the famous legion from the "inside" as it is lived by the private.]

BY BENNETT J. DOTY

[Copyright, 1927, in All Countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

The little depot at Oran, Algeria, where I was sent from Paris after my enlistment, as told in my article yesterday, is for legionnaires coming and going, namely those to be released and those just arriving. Also "permissionaires (men on leave) pass through here for France.

The depot is a beautiful little Moorish building with verendas around both stories, and is spotlessly clean. While there I did my share to keep it clean. The floors and staircases are of tile and are scrubbed twice a day. Heaven knows how many times they are swept.

WOE TO UNTIDY

This was the beginning of my acquaintance with the spotless cleanliness of the French Foreign Legion. I never saw a post, barracks or camp not scrupulously clean and inspected twice a day.

Woe to the man with dirt under his bed or dirty clothes in his paquetage. His number was up. He was due for four days of extra duty the first time and eight days in the "boitedebolte" or prison, the second time. Cleanliness is the legion's claim to kindship with Godliness.

At Oran my hair was all clipped off and I had to take a hot shower. All men going to Sidi-Bel-Abbes, Legion headquarters in Algeria, must arrive with a shave, a bath and short hair.

GOES TO HEADQUARTERS

After several days at Oran, I left for Bel Abbes, as it is called briefly by Legionnaires. There were fifty or sixty other recruits along. After a wearisome journey we arrived at the P.L.M. station. It was nearly dark. We were formed by threes and marched outside of the walls by a back way to the real home of the Legion. Suddenly we debouched into a large street which ran straight through the middle of the town. This is the main street of Sidi-Bel-Abbes and the barracks of the Legion are on each side. We passed the sentinel who stood outside the gate with his bayonet fixed to his Lebel rifle and the chin strap of his kepi down to show he was on duty. Once inside we were kept waiting half an hour or so until we were fixed up for the night.

We were marched over to the Caserne, or barracks and up three flights of stairs to the chamber of the "Bleus," recruits. In each chamber were twenty-eight small iron beds and on every bed a complete change of uniform. We each stood at the end of our bed and were told to change into the clothes whether they fitted or not, for the present. Then we received a cup of black coffee, meat and bread. Shortly afterward taps sounded and we gladly went to bed.

"ALLEZ DEBUT"

I was awakened at 5:30 a.m. by the bugle and shortly afterward a corporal shouted: "Allez debut." (Get up.) We wearily rolled out and each had a cup of strong black coffee with very little sugar. Then the corporal showed us how to make our beds in the regulation manner. Blankets, sheets and mattress are folded with the pillow laid across. After that each man swept his place and washed it with a wet rag. Thus always it is done in La Legion.

Suddenly a whistle shrilled. "Allez au rassemblement," cried the corporal, meaning "go to assembly." We dashed madly down the stairs and assembled for roll call.

The sergeants in the Legion are persons of majesty and power. They wear gold stripes and eat in a mess apart with their own cooks, barmen, waiters and staff generally. Each has his orderly.

REAL SERGEANTS

But it is the sergeants who also bear the brunt of training and leadership. They are indefatigable. They seem to glory in their work and are really the mainstay of the regiments.

The sergeants are all martinets, and of course there are good and bad among them. But I never encountered one of the type of Lejaune, the brutal sergeant in "Beau Geste." A sergeant of that kind wouldn't live long in a hard-boiled outfit like the Legion. But I did find some who seemed to punish men for the sheer joy of it.

I well remember the first sergeant I saw. When he appeared the corporal sprang rigidly to attention, crying "Guardez vous." (Attention.) Everybody quickly copied the corporal. I likewise, thinking the newcomer must be a commissioned officer, he was so wonderfully dressed. After asking a few questions he left the room.

I turned to my neighbor, who spoke a little English. "What is he, a lieutenant or a captain?" I asked. He looged at me pityingly. "Nom de Dieu," he exclaimed, "merely a sergeant."

TESTS VERY SEVERE

That same day we went before the "medicin major" for final physical tests. These are very severe. A weakling or a disabled man could not make the grade in the Legion. Long, tiresome marches, guard duty in rain, wind and bitter cold are only a few of the hardships.

When the Legion marches it shakes a mean foot, and they are marches with a wicked load on the back. One in bad physical condition is better off if he is turned down before he gets on active service. There were seventy men to take the test. We were in our underwear. Most of the men were very nervous. Every time we talked loudly out dashed a corporal and threatened us with prison if there was not instant silence. We had learned that a "cabo" (corporal) was a person to be dreaded, so we shut up promptly.

Finally they called "Clare," (I had enlisted as Gilbert Clare) and in I dashed. The doctor put me through the usual performances, and then, as I stood panting, asked: "Are you an American?"

"Yes, my captain."

LAUDS YANK ARMY

"I served near the Yankees during the war and know many officers of your young and splendid army," he said. "You are in excellent physical condition. Try to remain so. Beware of pinard (canteen wine.) Good day and bon chance (good luck.)"

Next day came the injection against typhus and typhoid. Then all of us who had passed were marched off to a separate room where out sergeant addressed us. What he said I got through an interpreter.

"You are now commencing your career in the Legion," he began. "Before you can see active service you must pass through three or four months of instruction, depending on your quickness to learn. During this period you will be called upon to endure many unaccustomed hardships and the rough side of the instructors' tongues. But remember one little thing and let it sober you when you begin to see red. I, the instructor, corporals, sergeants, adjutants, adjutants-chef and all the men who have joined the Legion as volunteers have been through the same mill. So keep a stiff upper lip." Here the sergeant grinned reminiscently.

GLORY AND HARDSHIP

"You will get your share of glory as well as hardships," he went on. "Our motto is 'Valeur et discipline,' and you must get that firmly in mind. Romoen." (Dismissed.)

We were sent to the magazin and got a complete new uniform, kepi, overcoat, suit of khaki, puttees, two suits of underwear, two shorts, ceinture bleu (a long piece of blue woolen cloth a foot wide and ten feet long, wrapped about the waist to prevent cholera, dysentery, etc.) a pair of marching shoes, a "bidon" (water bittle of nearly two quarts,) and musette (small sack for personal equipment.)

(Next—Doty's first painful march.)

GROWTH OF CHAIN-STORE IDEA SEEN

Economist Convention at Capital Hears Prediction of Billion-Dollar Merger

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—Department-store chains, comparable in size to the General Motors Company or the United States Steel Corporation, with an annual business exceeding $1,000,000,000, were predicted as a development of the near future today by Edward A. Filene of Boston in addressing the opening session of the American Economic Association's annual convention.

Such chains, Filene said, will be accomplished either by combinations of existing department stores or by combinations of various groups of chain stores. Properly organized chains of department stores, he said, would greatly reduce the cost of merchandise to consumers and would cause a corresponding increase in the general prosperity of the country.

Selling Sugar Expected to Be Cuba's Real Test

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Col. J. M. Tarafa, chairman of Cuba's sugar commission, said today the real test of the Cuban effort to regulate sugar production will be the degree of success achieved in marketing the bulk of the Cuban crop in the United States at a satisfactory profit.

Col. Tarafa, who returned from Europe, where he negotiated agreements between Cuban and European sugar interests for control of the supply, said, "It is not the purpose of the President and Congress of Cuba to do anything that will contribute to a scarcity of sugar or bring about a high price." That, he explained, would stimulate production the world over and cause disastrous overproduction.

Senator Jones's Body Arrives in New Mexico

EAST LAS VEGAS (N. M.) Dec. 27. (AP)—Accompanied by an escort of his associates in the Senate, the body of the late United States Senator Andriens A. Jones, Jr., of New Mexico, who died last week in Washington, will arrive here early tomorrow. Funeral services will be conducted in the afternoon with Bishop F. B. Howden of the Episcopal church officiating.

The body of the Senator will lie in state tomorrow from early morning until an hour before the funeral service.

The Masonic lodge, of which the Senator was a member, will be in charge of services at the cemetery. An escort of former service men will accompany the body from the church to the cemetery.

CHICAGO POLICE CHIEF REPORTS CRIME DROP

CHICAGO, Dec. 27. (AP)—Reduction of crime more than 50 per cent is shown in a report to Mayor Thompson by Chief of Police Hughes for the eight months he has been in office. Merchandise valued at $16,839,095 has been recovered by the police, the Chief reported. Murders and manslaughters totaled 288 up to the 21st inst., as compared with 300 last year, and included 111 offenses committed before Chief Hughes took office. Of this number he said 182 had been solved through the capture of those responsible. The report shows 158,147 arrests during the year. The number of automobiles stolen is 6497. Exactly 6302 were recovered, which included many stolen before he took office.

CONTRACTOR STARTS ON CUBAN HIGHWAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Contruction of Cuba's great central highway, extending 700 miles and representing an investment of $75,000,000, has been started by Warren Brothers, engineers, who have a contract to build 500 miles of the highway.

YOUTH SHOT TRYING TO BURGLARIZE SAFE

WALLA WALLA (Wash.) Dec. 27. (AP)—Kenneth McLeod, 18 years of age, is hovering between life and death in a hospital here today with three asserted confederates in County Jail, the result of McLeod's attempt to rob the safe in the C. J. Breier Company store here today. He was shot by a deputy sheriff.

Naumkeag Steam Cotton Company et al vs. Joseph E. Hubbard, Pitser M. Crawford and Pullman Linen Company

JUDGMENT in favor of the Plaintiffs on the pleadings in the above case having been ordered by Hon. William P. James, Judge in the United States District Court, Southern District of California, Southern Division, a Final Decree of Court was entered therein on the 28th day of October, 1927, in substance as follows:—

ORDERED, ADJUDGED and DECREED that plaintiff, Naumkeag Steam Cotton Co., is owner of trade mark "PEQUOT" as set forth in the Bill of Complaint, both at common law and under registration thereof in the United States Patent Office. No. 94923, dated January 13, 1914. That said trade mark and registration thereof is good and valid in law and in fact.

ORDERED, ADJUDGED and DECREED that defendants, Joseph E. Hubbard, Pitser M. Crawford, and Pullman Linen Company, have and each of them has, infringed said trade mark both at common law and under the aforesaid United States registration thereof, by counterfeiting and imitating the same on labels and applying said counterfeit and imitating trade mark to goods of the same descriptive properties as plaintiffs' goods, when said goods were not in fact goods of plaintiffs' manufacture, and also by use of labels simulating the distinctive shield design and coloring of plaintiffs' "PEQUOT" labels, and bearing the name "Peabody".

ORDERED, ADJUDGED and DECREED that a permanent and perpetual injunction issue under the seal of this court against the defendants, Joseph E. Hubbard, Pitser M. Crawford and Pullman Linen Company, enjoining and restraining the said Joseph E. Hubbard, Pitser M. Crawford and Pullman Linen Company, and each of them, their and each of their officers, agents, servants, attorneys and employees, and all persons acting under, through or by them, from selling, or otherwise disposing of, as well as displaying or advertising for sale or offering for sale, any cotton fabrics, sheets and pillow cases not of plaintiffs' manufacture as and for plaintiffs' "PEQUOT" cotton fabrics, sheets and pillow cases, or using in connection therewith the trademark "PEQUOT" or any colorable imitation thereof; and from using the name "PEQUOT" in any manner or form in infringement of plaintiffs' exclusive rights in and to said trade mark both at common law and as arising under the trade mark registration of plaintiffs, including the use of labels simulating the distinctive shield design of plaintiffs, or bearing the name "Peabody" printed in such style as to simulate the plaintiffs' trade mark "PEQUOT".

ORDERED, ADJUDGED and DECREED that the plaintiffs recover profits and damages with the costs of the suit.

Joseph E. Hubbard, Pitser M. Crawford and the Pullman Linen Company were also prosecuted criminally in the Municipal Court of Los Angeles and, pleading guilty, were all fined a total of Nine Thousand Dollars, and in the case of the individuals, the judgment included jail sentences as an alternative to the fine.

We hereby serve notice that in the interest of all dealers in and consumers of our "PEQUOT" brand, we will vigorously prosecute any and all infringements of this trade mark.

bstitute Judge to Hear Indictment Motion

ury Trial Jurors Given Severe Reprimand

CINNATI, Dec. 27. (AP)—John S. w, Los Angeles, exposition pro- and a friend since boyhood of Remus, former "king of boot- ," was released tonight on a bond obtained from the Court als, after occupying a cell in ton County Jail for several for contempt of court.

ase on the contempt charge nounced today by Common Judge Shook, in whose court was tried and acquitted.

er Berger was taken to jail Slattery, his attorney, filed ng in error in the Court of s, which granted a stay and bond at $1000.

Shook announced that he ot pass on the motion to the indictment against Berger, ll pass this on to Judge Ryan, will take charge of the criminal on of Common Pleas Court for n-ninths commencing next week.

JUDGE INDIGNANT

perjury indictment was a re- of his testimony in behalf of parts of which the Remus ers declared false, and the ment charge was the result of ort attempt to have the indict- quashed.

the exposition promoter was ed before Judge Shook today there were in the courtroom the ten and two women who found not guilty of the murder of ch Imagene, last October. They ained a petition presented to e Shook by Berger in which declared they believed all of r's testimony and had based r acquittal verdict upon it.

ntly rejecting the offering of this as an "intolerate" attempt ence the court, Judge Shook ly reprimanded first Berger then the jurors. In addition ail sentence he fined the ex- n promoter $250 and ordered to begin serving his term im- ely.

STUPIDITY ADMITTED

ger previously had apologized e Shook, saying that he never ed the offering of the petition improper. One by one Judge alled the jurors before him and reprimanded them. Each n his apologies.

ank Lambert, one of the jurors, he had signed the paper through most stupidity," not knowing it contained, and the court ked his opinion that such was "characteristic of the actions of all."

"The court is convinced that if Berger had left the jurors alone they would not have interfered," the judge said.

Judge Shook ordered a committee of the Cincinnati Bar Association to investigate the actions of three of the jurors, Harry Byrd, foreman; Robert Hosford and John Trautman, who were said to have gone to the County Jail, where Berger was held, to sign the petition.

COUNT TAKES BRIDE

Alfred De Niezychowski, Naturalized American, Weds Baltimore Girl

BALTIMORE, Dec. 27. (AP)—A Baltimore family was linked with one of the oldest houses in Poland today when Miss Nanine H. Ulman was married to Count Alfred De Niezychowski, a nephew of Baron Hengelmueller, for many years Austrian Ambassador and dean of the Diplomatic Corps at Washington.

Rear-Admiral Walter McLean, U.S.N., retired, was best man. The bride had no attendants.

After a wedding trip, Count De Niezychowski, who became an American citizen in January, 1926, and the Countess, will live in Detroit, where the Count is in business.

FUNERAL OF NEGRO WOMAN HALTS COURT

CHICAGO, Dec. 27. (Exclusive)—Probably for the first time in history, Federal court wheels of justice halted today during the funeral of a negro woman. Federal Judge Carpenter adjourned the morning session of his court until 2 o'clock this afternoon in order that he and other court attaches might attend the funeral services of Mrs. William Bell, 65 years of age, who died Friday. She was the wife of the personal colored messenger to Judge Carpenter.

PRINCESS TRICKED BY FATE

Ex-Kaiser's Sister, Twice Unhappily Wed, Faces Life of Sorrow as Crash Maims New Mate

[Copyright, 1927, by Chicago Tribune]

BERLIN, Dec. 27. (Exclusive)—Princess Victoria Schaumburg-Lippe, sister of the former Kaiser, snatched at happiness, giving up titles and family when she married young Alexander Subkoff, and again life has tricked her. The young husband still is in the hospital after a motorcycle accident. He suffered severe lesions of the spine which condemn him to spend his life stretched out on his back.

The Bonn scandalmongers, unaware of the tragedy lurking in the background, gleefully recounted how Princess Victoria, in a fit of jealousy typical of newlyweds, refused to give the house keys to M. Subkoff when he insisted on the right to come and go as he pleased.

She finally flung the keys to her spouse, who departed to cool his anger, racing wildly on a motorcycle. The machine was wrecked and he injured his back when he drove into the wall of a house he failed to see in the darkness.

The ill star that reigned over Princess Victoria's romance with Prince Alexander of Battenberg, broken by the ambition of her brother Welhelm, still pursues her. The second crown of suffering was added by a life spent at the side of the half-witted Prince Schaumburg-Lippe, and now the doctors believe she is sentenced to see the man she chose as a consolation a cripple for life.

ARBUCKLE PAY TO BE ATTACHED

"Fatty's" Wife Complains in Court That He Failed to Divide Earnings

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (Exclusive)—Sheriffs of two counties will be on trail of Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle here tomorrow, ready to grab every valuable possession of the former screen comedian. Even the Arbuckle pay check for theatrical work in Brooklyn will be attached, under plans formulated today.

All because Minta Durfee, Roscoe's wife, told the New York Supreme Court a story of the earnings of her husband and a reputed promise, unkept, she says, to share them with her.

Supreme Court Justice Churchill today issued a warrant of attachment to all the Arbuckle possessions in New York State.

The actor will be sought also for service of summons and complaint in an action for $25,000 in cash which Minta asserts he owes her.

In her affidavit, Mrs. Arbuckle says she and Fatty signed an agreement in August, 1924, whereby he was to pay her 15 per cent of his gross earnings for one year and 20 per cent each year thereafter for the life of the agreement. Furthermore, Mrs. Arbuckle says, a minimum weekly payment of $200 was fixed in the agreement. She admits she is getting the $200, but insists he has consistently overlooked the percentage agreement.

COURT MOVES IN OKLAHOMA ROW

Gov. Johnston Takes Trick in Impeachment Game

Senators' Meeting for Trial of Charges Enjoined

Executive Ordered by Writ to Back Its Enforcement

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 27. (AP)—A temporary injunction against a meeting of the Oklahoma self-convened Senate to act on impeachment charges against Gov. Johnston was granted the executive in District Court here tonight. The injunction is returnable January 3.

The temporary injunction is designed to prevent the meeting of "an asserted impeachment court to consider certain charges" against the Governor and to prohibit the Senators from holding further meetings or receiving additional charges. It was issued by District Judge Clark, who has not previously been involved in the numerous court actions directed by the Governor against the proceedings of the self-called special session of the Legislature.

MAY SUMMON GUARD

The injunction, which was being served on members of the Senate tonight, directs Ben B. Dancy, Sheriff of Oklahoma county, to enforce its dictates and orders the Governor to lend all assistance at his disposal for enforcement.

Senate leaders expressed belief that it indicated the Governor again might use the National Guard at the Capitol, to which he summoned it to disperse a meeting of State Representatives several weeks ago but which has been withdrawn during the Christmas holidays.

FORESTALLS ACTION

The District Court action, coming on the eve of a proposed meeting of the Senators to consider impeachment charges which have been preferred with them by a House meeting against the Governor, Chief Justice Branson of the State Supreme Court and Harry Cordell, president of the State Board of Agriculture, added one more legal block to the proceedings of the self-convened Legislature.

The District Court here already had enjoined the House members from filing or prosecuting impeachment charges and from collecting payment for the period of their session.

Crash Smashes Auto-Theft Plan

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27. (Exclusive)—James P. Noonan's scheme to obtain an automobile for Christmas fell down, police say, when he crashed into a taxicab last night. When he did, he tried to run and the taxi driver overtook him and had him arrested.

At a branch police station Noonan is said to have been identified by C. V. Branch of 3309 Wood Terrace, Los Angeles, as the man who leaped on the running board of Branch's car in this city Monday night, frightened Mrs. Branch so that she leaped from the car, kidnaped Branch, robbed him of $100, ejected him and drove off with his car.

Noonan, giving an Oakland address, is held for robbery and theft charges to be heard on the 30th inst. Bail was set at $10,000.

VERDICT UPHELD AGAINST BANKER

Conviction of Mitchell and Two Others Approved

Fresno Group Found Guilty in Stock Sale Scheme

Valley Bank Receiver Named by Bay City Court

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27. (AP)—Conviction of W. D. Mitchell, former president of the Valley Bank in Fresno, J. M. Bruere and S. E. Whiting for fraud in connection with a stock-selling scheme, was upheld here today by the United States Circuit Court. Thirty-five hundred acres of timber land in Sonoma county was the basis of the stock issue.

Attorneys for Mitchell, Bruere and Whiting had asserted error and cited 106 points. In affirming the conviction the Apellate Court found there was no error and declared that a "dragnet assignment of error" should not have been filed.

Mitchell was sentenced to fifteen months in Leavenworth prison and fined $1000; Bruere's penalty was a $3000 fine, and Whiting was sentenced to six months in the County Jail and fined $2250. Charles E. Virden, another defendant, was fined $1000. He paid the fine and did not appeal.

Use of the mails in a fraudulent enterprise was charged against the defendants, who were convicted in the United States Court at Fresno.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR VALLEY BANK

FRESNO, Dec. 27. (AP)—Announcement was made here today of the appointment of George S. Smith, Fresno business man, as receiver of the defunct Valley Bank of this city. Smith succeeds Edward Sherer, Los Angeles attorney, who was named temporary receiver. Smith's appointment was made by the San Francisco Superior Court.

As receiver of the bank properties, Smith will have charge of collection of $1,066,000 in Valley Bank paper turned back to the stockholders by the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank and the Bank of Italy after the expiration of a liquidation period.

SHIP FLEET MAY GO TO TWO LINES

Board Expected to Act Today on Plan to Divide Operation of Vessels

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—The nineteen ships of the government owned American-Australia-Orient line will be divided between the Dollar line and Sudden & Christenson for temporary operation if the Shipping Board approves a recommendation by the Merchant Fleet Corporation. The board meets tomorrow and probably will take action then.

The contract for operation of the line was taken from Swayne & Hoyt of San Francisco three weeks ago after an investigation by the Department of Justice of a loan made by J. L. Bley, Washington representative of a shipping concern, to W. S. Hill of South Dakota, former board commissioner.

U. J. Gendron, an official of the Merchant Fleet Corporation, is in San Francisco ready to sign contracts with the two new companies as soon as the Shipping Board approves them.

The divided operation will continue until the ships are sold. The American-Australia-Orient operates out of San Francisco and Los Angeles to Australian, oriental and British-Indian points.

MILLION GIVEN TO UNIVERSITY

Masonic Council Endows School of Government

Washington Institution Fund Available at Once

Move Called Timely Blow at Radicalism

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (Exclusive) Perry Weidner of Los Angeles, one of the most widely known Masons in the United States, was one of a committee of four who today announced the gift of $1,000,000 to George Washington University to endow a school of government. The gift was made through the generosity of the Supreme Council of the Scottish Rite, southern jurisdiction.

The other members of the committee who arranged the gift were Grand Commander John H. Cowles, Edward C. Day of Montana and Thomas J. Harkins of North Carolina. The committee was appointed and the gift approved by the council at its meeting here in October. Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, former president of the University of Arizona, and lately made president of George Washington, today made the announcement of this gift.

The money will become available at once and the school will be in operation at the start of the fall semester in 1928, it was announced. The disposition of the fund will be entirely in the hands of the university trustees.

LARGEST GIFT RECEIVED

Not only is this gift the largest ever received by George Washington, but it is among the largest ever made to a local educational institution.

The establishment of the school of government is expected, according to Dr. Marvin, to bring about a very considerable increase in the university enrollment.

Such a liberally endowed school of government is expected to make Washington the center for students of the science of government.

The gift, which is in line with the educational policy of the supreme council, is in the form of a memorial to "George Washington, the Mason." Final steps were completed at the Scottish Rite temple here this morning at a conference between President Marvin, Grand Commander Cowles and members of the committee.

The gift, it was emphasized, comes from the supreme council itself and not from wealthy individuals through that body. It is entirely apart from the efforts of the Masonic body for the establishment in Washington of a national university, supported by the government in line with the desire expressed in the will of George Washington and for the fulfillment of which he left some money.

ONLY ONE OF PROJECTS

George Washington University, now serving a student body of more than 5000, has been almost on a self-supporting basis in the past. The largest single gift has been the Corcoran endowment of $312,000 made in the early 80's. A large part of the available funds of the institution, however, has been derived from the tuition payments.

The establishment of the school of government, Dr. Marvin said, is only one of the projects which the university hopes to materialize eventually thus becoming one of the major universities of the country.

In receiving the gift Dr. Marvin said:

"The resolution which forms the basis of this discussion is not only one of the most generous documents of the history of education in America but one of the most significant.

"George Washington intended to endow a university within the limits of the District of Columbia and set aside certain securities for that purpose. From what we know of his ambitions and aims we can only conclude that his desire was to see a strong influence in developing fundamentally sound citizenship.

MOVE CALLED TIMELY

"The supreme council now makes that ambition possible by offering an endowment for a school of government that will me in scope and in purpose the great principles enunciated in the Constitution of the United States. The establishment of such an institution at this time is not only fitting but peculiarly appropriate and timely.

"In these days when pernicious influences are at work to spread throughout the land subversive types of governmental ideals; when false social and political ideals are being engendered and fostered by partisan organizations and when our own prosperity tends to make us careless of our sacred trust of American ideals mere theoretical teaching of political science and mere exhortation to good citizenship do not and cannot achieve such purposes.

"Young men and young women must not only study political theory but they must also study our governmental procedure and know how it really works to realize the fundamental principles of the Constitution. Such practical study of the government in action can best be accomplished in Washington."

ANGELENO ASKS WATER

With Stockton Man He Plans Huge Power Project

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 27. (AP)—Supplementing previous requests to the State division of water rights for a flow of water for a mammoth power project in Trinity county, Robert L. Little of Los Angeles and George E. Waggoner of Stockton today filed applications for 100 cubic feet of the flow of Stony Creek, Stuart's Fork and Deer Creek. The project will cost approximately $5,000,000 and will be near Weaverville.

In one application twenty-five cubic feet is sought from Stony Creek for 1400 horsepower of energy and in the other seventy-five cubic feet from the other streams for 20,000 horsepower.

The applicants have plans to generate the electricity in connection with a mining venture and make use of four power houses in all.

TWO BODIES FOUND UNDER BURNED BOAT

CHARLESTON (Miss.) Dec. 27. (AP)—Sunk beneath the ruins of a dredge boat, the charred bodies of Lowrey Kilhnal, 30 years of age, and George Spencer, 14, were found in the waters of the Tallahatchee drainage ditch ten miles north of here, late yesterday. Officers believe that Kilhnal at least was killed before fire was set to the boat, but that the boy may have been trapped by the flames. A party that had been searching since the two disappeared Saturday made the grewsome find.

FORTY LOST AS TURKISH SHIP SINKS

Two Vessels Reported in Gulf of Mudania Crash; One Carried 130 Aboard

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 27. (AP)—Forty lives are feared to have been lost in the sinking of the Turkish steamer Svied) at the entrance of the Gulf of Mudania yesterday, after a collision with the Turkish steamship Marmara. The vessel carried 130 passengers. Among those missing are two teachers from the American school in Brousa, Anatolia, Norah Ward of England and Mlle. Hiller of Switzerland.

An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Constantinople gives the name of the steamship which sank as Sevintch. There is no steamship Svied) listed in Lloyd's register, but there is a Sevintch, a steel steamer of 591 tons gross, whose home port is Constantinople.

Charge Against Prof. Perkins Set for Hearing

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 27. (Exclusive) Charges of undue familiarity toward girl students, preferred against Glen O. Perkins, former principal of the San Diego High School, will be heard by the State Board of Education at its quarterly meeting here on January 3 and 4. William John Cooper, State director of education, said today the charges were filed by Edgar Hastings, president of the San Diego Board of Education, which believes the former principal guilty of unprofessional conduct.

Perkins has denied the accusation and will be represented at the hearing by counsel. He resigned as principal of the school at the request of the city school superintendent after the students had paraded in his behalf.

Boy Tortured by Abductors

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—Police today were investigating the activities of three 16-year-old adventurous but barbarous youths who seized 12-year-old Elmer Nash on his way home from a store, gagged him with a necktie, trussed up his legs with ropes so they touched his head and held him prisoner in a field for five hours before depositing him on the doorstep of his home in a cold and frightened condition.

The boy was with a companion when seized, but the latter escaped.

While he suffers from exposure the Nash boy otherwise appears unharmed. During his five hours in captivity he was forced to "wait on" his young abductors, he told his parents.

Free India Still Country's Goal

MADRAS (India) Dec. 27. (AP)—The forty-second Indian National Congress has opened here with a large attendance from various parts of India.

In his Presidential address, Dr. Ansari restated the objects of the Congress "to achieve the goal of a free, self-governing India."

The committees of the Congress already have adopted resolutions which will be submitted to the full body in favor of boycotting the recently appointed commission under the Presidency of Sir John Simon to investigate Indian affairs, demanding the recall of Indian troops from China and other eastern countries and condemning Great Britain's "militarist aggression against Russia."

Emergency Aid Sum Proposed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (Exclusive) To prevent future delay or difficulty in giving Federal financial aid to stricken sections of the United States in case of disaster, a bill will be introduced in Congress by Representative Curry carrying an authorization of $50,000,000 under which the President of the United States could draw from that amount in rendering immediate emergency aid to stricken districts.

Curry is dean of the California delegation and ranking member on the committee on flood control.

The bill would cover flood, fire, earthquake, epidemic and other disasters of sufficient magnitude to need national emergency aid.

Phoenix Bandits Seize $35,000

PHOENIX, Dec. 27. (Exclusive)—Thirteen thousand dollars in cash and $22,000 in securities was the plunder torn this morning from the hands of Joseph W. Strickling, cashier of the Arizona Grocery Company, as he was starting to deposit with a downtown bank.

He had just left his office, accompanied by two armed guards, when two men stepped from a car at the curb and, with leveled pistol and rifle, ordered the trio to throw up their hands. From the windows of the office building a number of other employees witnessed the hold-up and rushed out with firearms as the bandits sped away.

Canada to Build New Destroyers

OTTAWA (Ont.) Dec. 27. (AP)—Authority for the building of two modern destroyers for delivery within three years will be sought by the government at the coming session of Parliament. The new craft will replace the Patriot and Patrician, which are to be retired.

RESERVE MAN PROMOTED

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 27. (AP)—Promotion of Second Lieutenant Thomas J. Holmes, Jr., of Los Angeles, Engineer Reserve, to be a first lieutenant of infantry in the California National Guard was announced today by Adjt.-Gen. R. E. Mittelstaedt. Holmes will succeed Lieut. Ralph Cook as a member of the headquarters detachment of the Seventy-ninth Brigade.

CAVALRY WILL BE REGROUPED

Machine Gun and Rifle-Fire Power to be Increased

Regiments Will be Modeled After Kansas Unit

Order Also Calls for Motor Vehicle Assignment

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—All Regular Army cavalry regiments will be reorganized to increase by one-third the machine-gun and rifle-fire power of the mounted units. Announced today by the War Department, the order will become effective February 1. Mounted regiments will be changed in the same manner as the Thirteenth Cavalry at Fort Riley, the Thirtenth Cavalry at Fore Riley, Kan., which recently was regrouped in a test of the new theory.

The order provides each cavalry regiment with a machine-gun troop and abolishes the present brigade machine-gun squadrons and service troops. Each machine-gun troop will be equipped with eight instead of four guns now assigned to each machine-gun squadron.

MOTOR CARS ASSIGNED

The order also calls for assignment to cavalry regiments for the first time of motorized transport vehicles. Each regiment is allotted three motor trucks and three cross-country cars, and the number of horse-drawn escort wagons is reduced from twenty-one to fifteen, and the number of spring wagons from twelve to six.

The cavalry has two machine-gun brigade squadrons and one machine-gun troop, the latter a part of the Philippine scouts. The First Squadron is at Fort Clark, Tex., and the Second at Fort Bliss, Tex. As compared to the present total of eight machine-gun troops of four guns each, the new organization provides for fourteen machine-gun troops of eight guns each.

FORT CLARK GETS ONE

One troop of the First Machine Gun Squadron will be attached to the Fifth Cavalry at Fort Clark, one goes to the First Cavalry, Camp Marfa, Tex., another to the Twelfth Cavalry at Fort Brown, Tex., while the squadron headquarters will be absorbed into the First Cavalry Division organization.

In breaking up the Second Machine Gun Squadron, one troop goes to the Seventh Cavalry and another to the Eighth Cavalry at Fort Bliss and one to the Tenth Cavalry at Fort Huachuca, Ariz. The Machine Gun Troop in the Philippines will be come part of the Twenty-sixth Cavalry.

To provide the other necessary machine-gun troops, Troop C or G in each regiment will be converted into a machine-gun force.

A similar reorganization of National Guard cavalry is anticipated by War Department officials.

M'Andrew Trial in Chicago Held Smoke Screen

CHICAGO, Dec. 27. (AP)—Declaring that the "trial" of Supt. William McAndrew is a smoke screen designed to distract and confuse citizens of Chicago, representatives of more than a score of civic and religious bodies have organized the public school emergency committee "to use every influence at its command to save the schools from domination by politicians."

"The committee is determined to find out what is going on behind this smoke screen and to bring together for common counsel and action all those who want to see the Chicago public schools administered in the interests of the children themselves," Rev. Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, chairman, announced.

Perfect Hand Held in Bridge

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 27. (AP)—A perfect bridge hand was held last night by Lee Carter. He had thirteen spades. His original modest bid of one spade was increased to seven when his opponents bid up to seven clubs. The contract was doubled and redoubled. The hand scored 677 points.

BOSTON TO HAVE HUGE BUSINESS BUILDING

BOSTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—Ground will be broken next month for the largest office and business building in the world to be erected within a year in the Park Square district, William J. McDonald, Boston real estate promoter, has announced. The proposed structure, which will be known as the "New England Building," will occupy 130,000 square feet of land, he said, and its cost is estimated at $21,000,000. The building will be twenty-five stories tall and will have more than 20,000 tenants and employees when fully occupied, McDonald said.

ANGELENO STILL HELD BY BANDITS

Embassy in Mexico Thinks Release of L. F. Barber Will be Effected Soon

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 27. (AP)—Lyman F. Barber of Los Angeles, American mining engineer who was kidnaped by Mexican bandits two weeks ago, still is held a prisoner, but the American Embassy believes his release will be effected soon.

Acting upon representations of the American Embassy, the Mexican government has sent troops to pursue the bandits.

The Embassy's information is that Barber was kidnaped near the town of Zacualpan, which is on the border of the States of Guerrero and Mexico. He was taken to the mountains by the bandits, who at first demanded ransom of 1000 pesos (about $500.) This was raised by Barber's friends, but the kidnapers then increased their demand to 5000 pesos. Again friends of the kidnaped man raised the amount, whereupon the bandits increased the demand to 15,000.

The Embassy is informed that the Mexican government is making energetic efforts to obtain Barber's release.

Writ Sought to Force Paying of Five Dividends

CLEVELAND, Dec. 27. (AP)—A petition asking a mandatory injunction to compel directors of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Akron to pay $16,000,000 in unpaid back dividends and asking that a $60,000,000 first mortgage bond issue now in distribution be held up until the dividends were paid was filed in Common Pleas Court today by Kent P. Johnson, Akron, holder of fifty-seven shares of common stock.

Attorneys for Johnson, in presenting the suit, said the action was based on the assertion that the $60,000,000 bond issue was launched without consulting the company's 60,000 stockholders.

This was denied by company attorneys and its directorate of sixteen, against whom the injunction was directed. The company and directors contend that "96 per cent of the company's stockholders approved the $60,000,000 issue."

In answer to a plea for an accounting, the company declared that it would mean a "great expenditure of money in litigation and that the company and its stockholders would suffer an irreparable loss."

The suit is only another one of the many that have been filed in the last two years by minority stockholders over reorganization plans of the company.

PERMIT GIVEN TO END ANAHEIM RAIL SERVICE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27. (AP)—road, a subsidiary of the Union Pacific system, was authorized to discontinue passenger service over its Anaheim branch by the State Railroad Commission today. In issuing the order, the commission refused to permit the road to substitute motor-bus transportation, asserting that the area was adequately served by the Motor Transit Company. The Anaheim branch was operated between Pico station and Anaheim, Orange county.

NTA, ILL, DEFERS NDURANCE FLIGHT

Division of King's Estate Indorsed

BUCHAREST, Dec. 27. (AP)—Rumanian courts have indorsed the act of division of the late King Ferdinand's estate which was signed November 3 by Queen Marie and all the members of the royal family. The estate is divided among five beneficiaries, who each will receive approximately 76,000,000 lei, with the exception of Princess Ileana, who will receive 5,000,000 additional in consideration of sums given to the late King's other children on their marriage. King Michael will have, in addition to his allotment, the castle at Sinaia.

(One lei under the present rate of exchange is about two-thirds of one cent.)

GUN DUEL VICTIM'S BROTHER SENTENCED

REDWOOD CITY, Dec. 27. (AP)—Justin Larrecou, brother of the late Undersheriff E. J. Larrecou, killed in a gun duel four months ago, today was sentenced to nine months in the County Jail on a charge of selling liquor.

"King of Kings" Exhibit Limited

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Alfred M. Cohen of Cincinnati, international president of the Independent Order of B'nai B'rith, today announced that the owners of a film version of the life of Christ, "King of Kings," have agreed not to present it in certain European countries. Its exhibition, it was feared, would cause anti-Jewish disorders.

The film recently was denounced by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise.

AMERICAN MONEY FLOODS IRELAND

DUBLIN, Dec. 27. (AP)—Within a period of ten days before Christmas Eve, 234,000 money orders reached the Irish Free State from the United States, representing approximately $2,500,000. On Thursday and Friday there were 1,180,000 American letters, of which 13,400 were registered. Yesterday 25,000 more American letters arrived at Cobh.

Children's toy sets have been exempted from duty by Great Britain.

BATTLE FOR BREATHLESS GIRL FAILS

Child Kept Alive Month by Artificial Respiration Conscious to End

OCONTO (Neb.) Dec. 27. (AP)—The stubborn fight to save the life of Alma Overgard, the 16-year-old high-school girl who had lived for thirty-six days through the aid of artificial respiration, ended today. The girl died, remaining conscious to the end.

Failing since Christmas Day the girl's strength was almost gone last night. She no longer joked with her parents and for the first time during her fight for life complained she was in pain. Death ended the thirty-six-day-and-night fight wherein friends and relatives had unceasingly assisted in artificial respiration, alternately pressing the girl's body and raising and lowering her arms.

Alma did not know she was dying and those making the fight to save her life did not tell her. More than a month ago the child was stricken with paralysis.

World Flight Aviator Hurt

HICKSVILLE (N. Y.) Dec. 27. (AP)—Maj. Frederick L. Martin, commander at the start of the United States Army round-the-world flight in 1924, and a companion escaped with cuts and bruises when a plane piloted by Martin crashed tonight in an attempt to land in a plowed field.

The machine, a Curtiss observation plane, was demolished. Martin suffered cuts on the face and body and William R. Ives of Washington a few bruises.

Maj. Martin dropped out of the round-the-world flight after his plane crashed in Alaska.

BOY'S DEATH CAUSED BY CHRISTMAS TOY

WILLOWS, Dec. 27. (AP)—Walter Raymond Grow, 3-year-old son of W. J. Grow, died today as the result of injuries received Christmas Day while playing with a set of Christmas gift tools. The child died from spinal meningitis that resulted when he fell on a screw-driver.

Move to Halt Standard Oil Suit Opposed

CHICAGO, Dec. 27. (AP)—The government today filed exceptions of the recent report of a special master in chancery recommending the dismissal of a suit asserting violations of the Sherman antitrust law against the Standard Oil Company and other leading oil companies.

The conclusions of Charles Martindale of Indianapolis, the master, that the agreements among oil companies involving patent rights does not restrain trade, were attacked by the government.

H. R. Lamb, special assistant Attorney-General, and Edward J. Hess, assistant District-Attorney, further contended that Martindale's findings are inadequate and insufficient.

A motion that the case be recommitted to Martindale also was filed.

ROBBERY, MURDER MOTIVE

MULLENS (W. Va.) Dec. 27. (AP)—Robbery is advanced by authorities as the motive for the slaying of Enoch Tolliver, 85 years of age, and his wife, whose battered bodies were found yesterday in their store at Pierpont, near here.

Morocco Hit by Severe Floods

RABAT (Morocco) Dec. 27. (AP)—Disastrous floods are devastating Northern Morocco today. The great Rarb Plain east of here is a sheet of water. The Fez-Tangier Railway is cut. All communication lines between the French and Spanish zones are severed.

A torrential rain continued to fall this morning.

In view of the growing gravity of the situation, the resident general sent his assistant military secretary to the region. Detachments of military engineers with pontoons and collapsible boats also were sent.

A pictorial air journey of the Pacific Coast, showing the principal centers and their attractions is a roto-gravure feature of the Mid-winter Number of The Times, out January 3.

COMPROMISE ON FARM AID URGED

All Elements Seek Bill That Coolidge Will Sign

Presidential Hopes Bound Up in Vexing Issue

Party Lines Disregarded in Line-up on Relief

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (Exclusive) Efforts are being made strenuously by all elements of the Republican party to obtain a compromise bill for the relief of farmers that President Coolidge will sign. All Republican leaders in the Senate and House agree that no bill containing the equalization fee and the various proposals for a subsidy which brought about the Presidential veto early this year will be permitted in the new bill. A majority vote in either House or Senate or both might pass such a bill with those provisions in it but it would be sure to get another veto and in neither House nor Senate are there enough votes to pass it over the Presidential disapproval.

If such a bill is agreed on early it will take out the principal argument of the Lowden forces and eliminate him from the Presidential race if a legal relief can be made applicable to the farm industry long before the Kansas City convention is held. This would not please Vice-President Dawes and his friends either as he and they hope to benefit by the collapse of Lowden and appropriate all his delegates all over the United States where he has strength —principally in the middle central States.

FEE STILL CARRIED

Senator McNary of Oregon, chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, and Representative Haugen of Iowa, chairman of the House committee, sponsors for the bill vetoed earlier this year by President Coolidge, have introduced measures in their respective houses, modifying in many respects the old bill, but still carrying the equalization fee principle.

Efforts to reach a compromise continue. Negotiations looking to that end are under way but so far without result. It is the hope of opponents of the McNary-Haugen bill that within a short time it will be possible for a supporter of the McNary-Haugen bill in the last Congress to offer a compromise measure which will satisfy the farmers and at the same time be such as can be signed by the President.

Both Senate and House committees on agriculture will hold hearings on the farm bill and within a short time. There is a disposition not to bring the farm bill before the Congress until after flood relief and prevention have been considered. Which house will tackle the farm legislation first also is a matter that has not been determined.

SEEK SPEEDY HEARINGS

The Senate put through the McNary-Haugen bill before the House acted upon it in the last Congress. The hearings on farm legislation have been so extensive in the last year or two that the disposition of the members of the committees of both houses is to curtail the coming hearings as much as possible, to bring out a bill promptly and to act upon it with little delay.

Before Congress met there were conferences among Congressional leaders looking to a compromise bill. For a time compromise was in the air and the prospects seemed good. But representatives of the Farm Bureau Federation and other farm organizations hurried to Washington and the compromise plan slumped decidedly. The influence of these farm organizations still is strong.

The problem of meeting in some way conditions of overproduction on the farms, of dealing with the exportable crop surplus still continues a live issue, notwithstanding official reports of the government showing that American agriculture has gone a long way on the road to recovery from the depression which set in after the war period. Farm leaders are convinced that something must be done to prevent similar periods of depression in the future if that is possible. To this idea members of Congress generally are favorable, and so is the administration. The only difference is over the proper method —the right kind of legislation to help the farmer.

FIGURES CITED

Secretary Jardine of the Department of Agriculture in his annual report has pointed with satisfaction to the fact that on September 15 the farmers' purchasing power stood at 92 with 100 representing the average for the five years preceding the war, which is referred to as "normal." In 1926 his purchasing power was given as 85 and 1921 at 69. But high prices of agricultural products do not give the whole story. High prices for the small crop may net the farmer no more than low prices for a larger crop. There still are many reports from the wheat and corn belts indicating that farmers are by no means "out of the woods."

Party lines in Congress have pretty well smashed over farm-aid legislation. If the McNary-Haugen bill is taken as the yardstick it will be found that it is supported by many Republicans and Democrats and that on the other hand it has been opposed by both Republicans and Democrats. Several members of the Senate are "Presidential possibilities," Republican and Democrat.

PARTY LINES BROKEN

Senator Curtis of Kansas, Republican leader of the Senate, for example, voted for the passage of the McNary-Haugen bill in the last Congress, although he offered a substitute which did not include the equalization fee, and which might have received the approval of the President. Senator Willis of Ohio, another candidate for the Republican nomination for President, is opposed to the equalization fee principle and voted and will vote against any bill that contains it.

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, regarded as perhaps the most outstanding opponent of Gov. Smith of New York for the Democratic nomination for President, denounced the McNary-Haugen bill on the floor of the Senate and voted against it. Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the Senate, on the other hand, supported it. The Republican progressive group generally supported the McNary-Haugen bill, but Senator Borah of Idaho, another Presidential possibility on the Republican side, voted against it.

Los nuevos barcos reemplazarán al "Patriot" y al "Patrician", que serán retirados del servicio.

Todavía Está un Angeleño en Manos de los Bandidos

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, Diciembre 27. Lyman F. Barber, de Los Argeles, ingeniero de minas norteamericano a quien plagiaron hace dos semanas unos bandidos mejicanos, sigue preso de ellos; pero la embajada yanqui cree que pronto será libertado.

El gobierno mejicano, respondiendo a las representaciones de la embajada de los Estados Unidos, ha despachado tropas en persecución de los bandidos.

Según la información rendida por la embajada, Barber fue plagiado cerca de la ciudad de Zacualpan, en los limites de los estados de Méjico y Guerrero. Se lo llevaron los forajidos a la sierra, y pidieron por él, en un principio, 1000 pesos de rescate (como $500). Fue suscripta esa cantidad por los amigos de Barber; pero los plagiarios exigieron entonces 5000 pesos. De nuevo cubrieron la suscripción los amigos del plagiado; pero los salteadores hicieron subir sus pretensiones a 15,000 pesos.

Tiene informes la embajada norteamericana de que el gobierno de Méjico está haciendo enérgicos esfuerzos por conseguir la libertad de Barber.

CAPITAL FEARS FIGHT IN CUBA

Pan-American Congress to Open January 16

Latins Expected to Drag Up Many Grievances

Hughes Will Head Party From United States

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—Official and diplomatic Washington is asking itself whether the sixth international conference of American states, or Pan-American Congress, at Havana, Cuba, January 16, next, will be the occasion of a fight or a frolic.

There is a strong possibility that many of the Latin-American delegates will bring their countries' grievances against the United States to the conference floor and into the full glare of international publicity.

The Pan-American Union, official organization of the twenty-one American republics, including most of the territory from the Great Lakes to Cape Horn, was founded following the first international conference, which met in Washington in 1890. The avowed aims of the organization include preservation of peace, facilitation of commercial, cultural and social intercourse between the American nations, and the development of all kinds of communication between North, South and Central America.

JURISTS' REPORT DUE

The most important work of the coming conference will be the consideration of the report of the commission of jurists which assembled this year in Rio de Janeiro. The report includes a complete codification of private and public international law, recommended for adoption by the nations of America.

It is this report that officials fear may be a source of discord. Several of its recommendations, which the conference will be asked to approve or reject, prohibit any kind of intervention by one state in the territory of any other state. It clearly attacks and holds as illegal several recent acts of intervention on the part of the United States. Nicaragua and Haiti are the notable cases.

The United States, however, will not be unprepared to contend with any problems which may arise. President Coolidge will visit the conference on the opening day to address the delegates in the name of the people of the United States, and this act, it is hoped, will have a far-reaching and beneficial effect. It is certain to clear the atmosphere of a great deal of suspicion directed at the United States' foreign policy and its attitude toward the component states of the Pan-American Union.

HUGHES TO HEAD PARTY

An able delegation headed by Charles E. Hughes will represent the United States at Havana. All eight members have been chosen for their individual excellence in the various phases of work to be done at the conference. In the delegation are Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico; Henry P. Fletcher, Ambassador to Italy, one of America's foremost authorities on international law; Dr. James Brown Scott, Judge O'Brien of New York; President Wilbur of Leland Stanford University; former Senator Underwood of Alabama and Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director-general of the Pan-American Union.

FOUR MILLIONS FACING FAMINE

PEKING (China) Dec. 27. (AP)—At least 4,000,000 persons in the Province of Shantung and part of Chihli are facing extreme famine, which must be expected to become more severe as the winter progresses, a committee of observers composed of American and German missionaries reported today.

The report grew out of the Chinese International Famine Relief Commission's appeal to the American Red Cross for aid and the request of the Red Cross for more exact information. A survey then was compiled by competent foreign authorities and observers.

Thousands in Shantung were found to be already subsisting on the bark of trees, chaff and grass. Sixty-five of Shantung's 107 counties were affected. In thirty-five of them the crops are less than 10 per cent of normal.

Obregon Will Resume Tours

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 27. (Exclusive)—Gen. Alvaro Obregon, sole candidate now seeking re-election in the 1928 Presidential race, intends to resume his political campaign and tours, shortly after the beginning of the new year.

He will go to Chihuahua, Durango, Zacatecas and Aguascalientes, as his first State tours, then into the States of Morelos, Guerrero and Oaxaca, finishing his campaign in Tabasco and Chiapas because of the difficulty of transportation in those sections.

If you spent a whole year sight-seeing up and down the Pacific Coast—

Snapped hundreds of pictures of mountains and canyons, forests and deserts, cities and people—

If you took time to investigate resorts—gather travel information—map out itineraries—look up curious sights in out-of-way corners—

Then searched the official records and files—brushed up on facts about the most interesting places—studied geology—interviewed business men and government authorities — attended pageants and fiestas—

And then jotted down your impressions and discoveries in a constant stream of letters to Eastern friends—

If you did all this, it still would fall short in matching the scope of The Times' forthcoming Midwinter Number.

Not in a thousand letters could you describe the wonders and sights as they are brilliantly set forth in the six beautiful magazines comprising this incomparable "Tourist Edition."

PANTHERS ARRIVE AT ST. LOUIS

Pittsburgh Squad in Fine Spirits After Completing First Leg of Journey

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Dec. 27.—In excellent spirits and condition the University of Pittsburgh football squad, en route to Pasadena, Cal., completed the first leg of the transcontinental trip today arriving in St. Louis shortly after 1 o'clock. The party boarded the train at Pittsburgh at 9 o'clock last night and the journey to St. Louis was uneventful. A stop of only forty minutes was scheduled here, the three special coaches being moved to the Wabash railroad, which carries the tourists to Kansas City. They arrived on the other side of the Missouri at 9:30 this evening and there will be a stopover until 1:30 a.m. The Santa Fe will pick up the party for the rest of the trip. A brief stop will be made at Hutchison, Kan., tomorrow morning for breakfast, and Dodge City will be reached at 11:15 a.m. The first limbering up drill is planned for the old prairie frontier town, where the troupe will halt for six hours. Representatives of three railroads are traveling with the party and they are extending themselves to assure the comfort and entertainment of the players and the others in the group.

Fans to Hear New Year Tilt

Graham McNamee will again announce the Tournament of Roses football game from the Pasadena Rose Bowl on Monday, January 2, when Stanford University and the University of Pittsburgh play the East-West gridiron classic. More than fifty stations of the red, blue and orange network chain will carry the play-by-play word description. The program will then be carried over the network of some 25,000 miles of telephone circuits. The radio program will begin at 1:45, when the wire will open from the Bowl to KFI.

Messrs. Stockton and Uhalt in Action

From the top photo, it would appear that making touchdowns is an easy thing to do for Bob Stockton, Bakersfield fullback. Stockton was snapped behind the Fullerton goal line after he had driven 7 yards to the Drillers' third touchdown. The lower shot shows "Frenchy" Uhalt, brilliant Bakersfield quarterback, under full sail and on his way to the initial Driller score. Uhalt rambled 27 yards for the touchdown. He is shown evading Oak Adams, Fullerton safety man.

"THAT Man Stonier," as he is described in an editorial in the latest isue of the Southern California Alumni Review, is coming in for enough notoriety these days to last him a lifetime. The boys of the Ad Club gave him a great send-off at their weekly meeting yesterday, presented him with a traveling bag, a lot of kind thoughts, including an honorary membership, of which only eleven have been passed out in sixteen years, and had Coach Howard Jones and all-American Jesse Hibbs on deck to make it seem more homelike for Harold.

You know Harold is leaving us. Passing us up cold for a big educational position which takes him East. I don't recall that Harold ever broke any athletic records except for long-distance talking, but he has been somewhat of a landmark at U.S.C. like Warren Bovard, and, therefore, the author of this column has to take cognizance in the sports section of his near departure. And as Harold has had to take a stand in several difficult athletic situations which involved U.S.C., it is therefore fitting that he breaks into print here. In all his dealings he has acted with a manly courage and a Solomonesque wisdom. I thank Dr. Jim Carson, a U.S.C. alumnus, that he asked me to hear Stonier's departing speech. It was a silver-tongued gem. If I could talk like "That Man Stonier"

PENN GRIDS DRILL HARD FOR BEARS

Quakers Put in Busy Day While California Warriors Knock Off Work

BERKELEY, Dec. 27. (AP)—While California knocked off practice today, Pennsylvania's big football team rushed through a hard workout for the intersectional game here December 31.

A wet field and slightly unfavorable weather proved no check for Pennsylvania, and Coach Lou Young sent his men through heavy scrimmage. He had his third team running off California plays, while the varsity eleven endeavored to stop them.

LOU YOUNG

The California team lined up for a thorough blackboard talk with Coach "Nibs" Price tracing the defensive and offensive tactics with which he hopes to stop the eastern squad. As the Golden Bears have had a week's more practice than their rivals, Price intends to taper off during the rest of the week. Coach Young will begin to ease up on practice tomorrow.

All of the Pennsylvania squad are in great shape, including John Utz, first-string guard, who was laid up for a few days with a bad cold. The snap and drive exhibited during practice is particularly pleasing to Coach Young. Paul Scull, triple-threat back, Capt. Ed Hake and John Smith, tackles, all of whom have received some all-American mention this

French Tennis Stars in Visit

Jean Borotra, Jacques Brugnon and Christian Boussus, French tennis stars, the two former being members of the French Davis cup team, stopped off in Los Angeles yesterday long enough to limber up before leaving to board a ship that is to take them to Honolulu and other points on their world tour. Under the management of Charles Leferre, the trio, all of whom are members of the Racine Club of Paris, started from the French metropolis some sixty days ago. In the interim they have played in several large cities on the eastern coast of South America. From here they will go to Honolulu, then to Sidney and Melbourne, Australia, before returning to France in time for the next championship matches.

If "Pop" Warner's Stanford Redshirts don't rise up in all their manly glory and skin the Pittsburgh Panthers next Monday at the Rose Bowl a lot of folks are going to begin suspecting that western football isn't all that it should be. It's so long since a Pacific Coast team copped one of these Tournament of Roses wrangles that it almost strains a chap's memory to recall the date. In addition western elevens have taken some severe thumpings at the hands of their eastern or southern rivals in less important games. Only last Monday the West

Coach "Goldie" Griffith's "wonder team" from Kern county was held away from the Fullerton goal line in the first period, but as soon as Uhalt, Bob Stockton and the rest of those Bakersfield backs began functioning behind a bulky, powerful and smart forward wall it was all over for the Indians. The Drillers got started in the second quarter, in which three touchdowns were chalked up, and from then on it was a massacre of the Indians.

"GOLDIE" GRIFFITH

DRILLER LINE SHINES

Fullerton never really had a chance to show a thing, for the Drillers wouldn't let the southerners get started. The whole thing of it was that Bakersfield had too good a line. The Indians never did gain consistently on line plays, most of their six first downs coming as a result of passes.

Uhalt was the bright star of the game, but Stockton showed up as a powerful line plunger. It was Uhalt, though, who started the Indians' downfall in the second quarter, when he slipped off right tackle, side-stepped his way past two Fullerton backs and dashed 27 yards to Bakersfield's first touchdown. "Frenchy" also converted and those 7 points

Tommy Armour and George Von Elm Favored in Golf Classic at San Gabriel Today

MANY STARS IN FEATURE EVENT

Amateur-Pro Tourney Draws Distinguished Field

Cruickshank-Jergins Team Bears Much Prestige

Willie Hunter May Topple Champs in Future

BY BILL WISE

The most distinguished field of the season will compete for cash prizes and valuable trophies in the amateur-professional tournament at the San Gabriel Country Club today.

LEO DIEGEL.

Tommy Armour, Congressional Club (Washington, D. C.) professional, now national, Canadian, Oregon and Long Beach open champ, will team with George Von Elm, former national amateur titlist, in the eighteen - hole drive that will engage more than 100 teams today.

Wee Bobby Cruickshank, Progress (N. Y.) pro, who will defend his Los Angeles open championship at Wilshire next week, the second most colorful golfer in the competition today, will team with A. T. Jergins, Long Beach millionaire sportsman. Harry Cooper, fast-stepping youngster who won the first Los Angeles open title three years ago and who reached the pinnacle of golf fame when he tied with Tommy Armour in the last national open classic, will have the golfing assistance of Howard Hughes, slender Rancho golfer who is rapidly achieving international notice in the motion-picture production world.

Cooper is playing poor golf. Harry is carrying around enough worries to upset the whole tee-and-greens fraternity and his game is naturally suffering. As soon as his present difficulties are ironed out properly, Harry will be right at the top again, causing the best of them to press. Regardless of the quality of his stroking, Harry is a prime gallery favorite—and worth it—so the fans trailing in his wake today will not be disappointed and will have much to talk about for months to come.

Leo Diegel, playing professional of the Fenimore (N. Y.) club and personal instructor to Joseph Schenck and Adolph Zukor, is one of the best and most serious members of the paid-to-play clan. Leo is a nervous wreck by the time he has completed one real round—under difficulties—and the more nervous Leo gets—the better golf he plays.

LEO SINGS BLUES

Leo never complains—that is, he doesn't complain about everything. He spends all of his time worrying about his next shot—be sure he will find trouble—then goes right up and smacks his ball with an automatic precision that is uncanny. Leo will be at his best in the play today—and regardless of the strain of competition, Leon can—and will—always take time out to talk to a friend. Diegel is the longest wooden-shot player in golf—and one of the finest in the fraternity.

Joe Turnesa, noted "honeymoon" golfer, is just about due to win something, too. The new and attractive "Mrs. Joe" hasn't said anything yet, but Mrs. Turnesa knows Joe is one of the best golfers in the world and the slender, dark-haired New Yorker may decide to get started today.

Wee Willie Hunter, the foremost professional golfer on the west coast, ranks with the known favorites in the coming Palos Verdes, Los Angeles and Long Beach affairs. The former British amateur champ scored a "lucky" 72 at Riviera several weeks ago—then went out just last week and electrified the west coast tee-and-greens world by chalking up a 69 over the Mercury Club course—the stiffest and most uncompromising test of golf in this vicinity.

Willie either does, or doesn't—and this promises to be a "does" year for Willie. Fans at the San Gabriel golf fest today should take a long look at Wee Willie's game, for Hunter is going to be up with the leaders in all major competitions to come.

DUDLEY PROMISING

Ed Dudley of the Hollywood Club, picked by this writer one year ago to win the national open championship within the next five years, is also worth a prolonged look. Dudley's golf is so beautiful that it becomes tiresome to watch. Ed rarely makes a mistake and executes his most difficult shots with an apparent ease that is deceiving.

More than 100 local and visiting professionals, including at least a score or more internationally famous golfers, paired with local ranking amateurs, will be in the San Gabriel competition today. Winning professionals will share in a purse of more than $1000 while low-scoring amateurs will receive suitable club trophies.

A partial list of advance entries, with starting times for today, is as follows:

8:30 a.m.—W. Hutchison and Bill Criswell, Art Roux and G. W. Finch.
8:40—Eddie Loos and Nick Schaefer, Louis Holder and Harold Thompson.
8:45—Ted Barnes and H. H. Planck, Al Ahrens and F. White.

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER
BILL HENRY

PURCHASING agents of our live institutions of learning who are always on the lookout for good halfbacks who are in need of a college education had a chance to look over several head of swell ball toters yesterday when the Bakersfield Drillers were gallumphing right and left over the prostrate forms of the Fullerton team. There ought to be a shower of "scholarships" descending like a Sierra snowstorm on the championship team of Bakersfield High. And, while we're at it, we suggest that the boys don't overlook the Bakersfield line for those Driller forwards opened up such gaping holes, that time after time Stockton ripped through to the safety man without anybody laying a hand on him. For that matter, the Fullerton safety men didn't have much better luck at dragging him down than the forwards did.

In justice to Fullerton we must say that the boys from the orange belt looked pretty much the worse for wear before the game ever started. They appear to have been playing more or less on their nerve in their last couple of games and they wilted early against the terrific charging of the Driller forwards and the dynamic plunging of the Driller backs. The way Bakersfield was playing yesterday made it no disgrace to drop the game to them, although the Fullerton boys were certainly not on top form.

Somehow or other Goldie Griffith always manages to turn out a great football team at Bakersfield. It is true that he has the advantage of drawing all the big corn-fed boys from the country round about that hustling city and that these young men haven't the same ideas which seem to be somewhat prevalent among the city youths that the only way to demonstrate your manhood is to stay up all night and drink drugstore gin, but then it is some feat to keep turning out winners the way Goldie does.

Too bad that Fullerton could not have been raring to go the way Bakersfield was. It looked to us as though Bakersfield had too strong a line and had too many star backs to be handed off, but Fullerton when at its top form, could have provided a closer battle than took place yesterday. At all events, nobody can ever accuse Fullerton of not trying. The boys in red were still battling and still dangerous at the final whistle.

DRILLERS ROUT INDIAN ELEVEN

were all that the Bakersfield steam-roller needed to get under way. However, Uhalt and Stockton kept providing more momentum and the Driller juggernaut rumbled merrily up and down the field thereafter to a lop-sided triumph.

The game was played on a field that was left slippery and in some places watery as a result of the recent rain, but the sloppy going didn't deter the Drillers one iota. In fact, the only inconvenience that the Drillers suffered as a result of the wet going was that their pretty new white jerseys gathered up plenty of mud. However, the Drillers will have plenty of time in which to launder their soiled suits, for yesterday's game wound up the long-winded prep grid season.

UHALT SCORES THREE

Uhalt scored three of his team's six touchdowns, while Stockton plunged across for two others. A substitute by the name of Guzzard accounted for the final Bakersfield score in the last quarter, when he took a 20-yard pass from Uhalt and rambled 3 more yards over the goal line. Guzzard's touchdown was the most sensational of them all, for he snared the ball over his shoulder while on a dead run, reaching up to snatch the pigskin right out of the grasping hands of the Fullerton safety man, who was coming up fast in an attempt to intercept the pass.

Fullerton's chances were sadly handicapped by the absence, for most of the game, of its star quarterback, Oak Adams, who is suffering from an injured shoulder that he hurt in the Santa Maria clash. While Oak was in there, though, he gave the 6000 cash customers on hand one thrill when he almost broke loose running back a kick-off. Adams ran the ball back 40 yards to midfield, where some Driller grabbed hold of him just long enough to allow his mates to pounce on Oak.

Hill's passing for Fullerton in that last-quarter flourish of the Indians was good, but for the most part the southern players were so far outclassed, particularly on the line, that they didn't have a chance to shine.

Before the game was over Coach Griffith shoved in a whole raft of substitutes, several of whom managed to do a bit of starring on their own account. Of these, Harvey Farris, who went in for Uhalt when the regular end was injured, was really brilliant. Farris snagged passes, covered punts, recovered fumbles and in general distinguished himself. Jim Tyack and "Mutt" Muta, the starting halfbacks, also played fine ball for the Drillers, while Nolan and Schutze, their subs, also showed up well.

LINE PLAY REMARKABLE

The play of the whole Bakersfield forward wall, though, was remarkable. Griffith certainly has his linesmen well trained and they showed it by completely routing the hitherto strong Fullerton forwards. "Moose" Muller and Rex Ware were bulwarks on defense and made themselves outstanding all afternoon by their stellar work.

Neither side could make much headway during the opening moments of the game, but after several exchanges of punts the Drillers got in scoring territory when Uhalt ran back a kick to the Indian 29-yard stripe. One first down followed, but the Driller attempt to score ended on the first play in the second quarter when Uhalt's toss over the goal line fell incomplete.

Adams punted out to the 38-yard line, from where Tyack and Stockton made a first down in three plays. Whereupon Uhalt slipped off left tackle and rambled twenty-seven yards to the opening touchdown. The Drillers got the extra point when a Fullerton player was offside.

The Drillers got the ball and started their next touchdown march from the middle of the field, where Muller was downed after he had intercepted Adams's pass. Uhalt and Stockton took turns packing the ball from this point and steadily marched to a first down on the 8-yard line. Stockton smashed guard for two of these yards, and Uhalt then went over left tackle for the score. Uhalt also converted.

The third Bakersfield touchdown arrived soon after, the Drillers getting the ball again when Hershberger fumbled the kick-off after running the ball back to the 35-yard line. Nolan and Stockton took turns punching the left side of the line and finally came up with a first down seven yards from the goal. Stockton took another crack at left tackle, came busting out of a pile of players and dived over for a touchdown. Uhalt failed to convert and the score stood 20 to 0 when the half ended.

STOCKTON RUNS 45 YARDS

Early in the third quarter Adams placed a beautiful punt that went out of bounds on the Driller 5-yard line. However, Stockton soon had the Drillers out of danger for on the first play, he faked a reverse, whirled through an opening at left tackle and rambled 45 yards to midfield before he was brought down.

Uhalt was forced to punt soon after and the desperate Indians started passing again. Farris intercepted one of the tosses and ran it back to the Fullerton 18-yard line. Stockton smashed his way to the 5-yard line in three plays. After Nolan had gained three yards in two more smashes, Uhalt went over left tackle for another touchdown that he failed to convert.

Uhalt ran the Fullerton kick-off to the 49-yard line and then flicked a pass to Farris, who was downed on the Indians' 35-yard stripe. Schoetz and Stockton carted the oval the rest of the way, the Bakersfield fullback making the score from the 10-yard line on another whirl play.

Farris made a sensational recovery of a punt fumbled by Hill to give the Drillers the ball on the 40-yard line in the final quarter. It was from here that Uhalt passed to Guzzard for the final touchdown.

The gossips say "Frenchy" Uhalt of the Bakersfield team which annihilated Fullerton yesterday, is headed for Stanford. That's not bad news for Stanford, but if "Frenchy" wants to do his future alma mater a big favor he'll take young Mister Stockton along with him as well as the whole Bakersfield line.

If you didn't see Bakersfield and Fullerton playing for the State interscholastic football title Stockton may mean just another breakfast food to you. But as a matter of fact he was the gent who pulverized the Fullerton line whenever pulverization seemed to be most essential to bring a score. Stockton is not as elusive in the open field as Uhalt, but he runs so hard and so powerfully that he makes up for a lot of the triple-threat advantages which the lighter Uhalt possesses. Incidentally, the latter is a neat little field general, mixed up his plays just well enough to keep the defense guessing and with a potent line functioning like a machine he had no trouble in directing Bakersfield to a well-earned victory over Fullerton.

I smell a rat. Frank Churchill and his stable of fighters must be headed for this city. The evidence is found in Frank's latest issue of Funchograms, a weekly news sheet he issues from his Chicago office.

In it he writes of Los Angeles—"One of the Greatest Fight Centers"—and then proceeds to explain himself as follows:

First, because of its fine boxing arenas.

Second, because of its sports writers, "second to none anywhere as authorities and experts."

Third, because of its sound boxing law and sane commission.

Last, because its residents have been educated to enjoy boxing at a price that all can afford.

Thank you, Frank. Hope you didn't hear about the Wrigley Field fiasco.

Boxing Board Meets Today

The California Athletic Commission will hold its final meeting of the year at the Hotel Biltmore this morning. Nothing but routine business is scheduled to come up for discussion. It is a sort of a clean-up meeting, the last at which Louis Almgren, the retiring commissioner of San Diego, will be in attendance.

Jim Woods, appointed to the commission by Gov. Young last week, will take Almgren's seat after the first of the year. Charley Traung, San Francisco member of the commission, arrived from the North yesterday for the meeting, and will depart tonight. He did not bring his golf clubs with him, but intends to watch some of the pros play at San Gabriel today, following the adjournment of the commission meeting. Seth Streilinger, the third member of the commission, lives in Beverly Hills.

Soccer Stars Coming South

Back from San Francisco, where they were on the short end of a 4-to-3 score, the all-star team of the Los Angeles Soccer League are being primed for the return clash between the local picked team and the San Francisco All-Stars. The return play is booked for New Year's Day and January 2 at Loyola Field on Venice Boulevard.

Andy Walker, manager of the Hollywood team, who took the team north, and Harry Purnell, league official, who also made the trip, praised the boys for their showing and entered into a conference with other league managers to plan a better offense and defense for the New Year's game. The local soccer satellites are being groomed by this board of strategy to meet the weaknesses found in the northern team play.

At the league meeting held at the L.A.A.C. last night, Bill Simpson, president of the league, stated that several changes may be made in the New Year's line-up, with additional changes made in the line-up for the Monday game. This is being done to permit as many of the local stars as possible to play in the intercity series, and will also enable the locals to furnish a diversified style of play on the two games.

MAIN STREET PAIRS STILL AND CORDOZA

Ray Still of Sacramento and Joe Cordoza, local Mexican, will clash in the eight-round feature event of the weekly mitt card at the Main-street Athletic Club Saturday night. Still won his last two fights at the Main-street, beating Blackie Rosenbabiah in the first and Joe Bitto in a great bout in his last.

Cordoza, who has beaten Eddie Gill, twice, will make his first ring appearance in a month. He beat Tony Tovar at Ocean Park in his last start.

champion, I may be under a wrong impression. It is only fair to concede for Mandell that he was under something of a physical handicap for some time after his victory over Rocky Kansas, that he had shown himself a fearless contestant previous to his acquisition of the title, and that, now that he is capable of again fighting at his best, he will possibly be ready to comport himself as a true champion. Walker is a grand pugilistic machine. Still I think there are quite a number of boys in the middleweight class who surely would prove his master.

We have no clearly established titleholders in the feather, bantam or flyweight divisions just at the present moment, but matters are progressing in each case here so that I am sure you will have a boy at the head of each of these classes and very early in the new year, who will be accorded world-wide recognition as champions.

DEMPSEY SURE TO FIGHT

Whether Dempsey will box again seems to be one question that is agitating boxing fans much more than any other. On the strength of very recent word that I have had from the ex-champion I am prepared to answer with a positive "yes." But those who are trying to create the impression that Jack only will come back with the idea of meeting no one but Tunney, and inspired by the lure of gaining one more big purse, are all wrong.

Dempsey will make one more comeback because he would like to quit the ring as a champion. And he appreciates that he will have to fight himself into shape such as will insure him a real chance against Gene. Dempsey realizes now, more than ever, that Gene Tunney's greatness as a pugilist has been greatly underestimated by a great many, himself included. Jack will have to be very close to his best form to have a real chance of regaining his title, and he will need another hard fight to help him regain something of his form. I expect to have Dempsey fight it out with the winner of the Jack Sharkey-Tom Heeney match early this summer.

From this you may take it that I regard only Dempsey, Sharkey and Heeney as among the first-line challengers for the big title. Paulino Uzcudin, Jack Delaney, Johnny Risko and the rest—they have eliminated themselves, at least temporarily, to the second line of contenders and unless some of them does something sensational they are not likely to figure in the ranks of the genuine Tunney contenders during 1928.

ONE A YEAR

Of course, if Tunney is really determined to defend his title more than once during the coming summer that may somewhat alter my plans. So far as I am concerned I will arrange as many matches for the champion during 1928 as he cares to engage in, providing he will be satisfied to engage in each and every one of them on a strictly percentage basis. In that event he might box the winner of a Paulino-Delaney-Risko, etc., elimination as well as the outstanding contender, which the public must be pretty well satisfied must be settled between Dempsey, Sharkey and Heeney.

In my opinion, and I am sure Tunney is sufficiently intelligent to come to an appreciation of this fact, only one heavyweight boxing championship can be put over successfully each year. And this goes even if it were possible to bring forth two challengers who would be accepted by the public as the outstanding contender in each case. How there could be such a situation is not apparent to me. And in any event it takes months and months to iron out the myriad details surrounding a heavyweight championship match. I still feel that the thing will resolve itself into one big title bout and which will be staged in the Yankee Stadium.

It will be no fault of mine if the championship match for the heavyweight crown is carried outside of New York City and I don't anticipate it will be, this time. The fact that it will be set in the Yankee Stadium is somewhat contrary to my original plans. But with moves for a prohibitive tax and other action by enemies of boxing under way it would be unwise to proceed at the present time with the erection of a mammoth outdoor sports arena such as I had planned for New York.

Under the conditions this would not be a wise financial move, although I have heard some talk of a $5,000,000 enterprise patterned after Madison Square Garden, something which was only put over after monumental work and heavy financial risk on my part, and on the strength of long term contracts with the directors of the six-day race, horse show and other shows of this nature, and that involved ice hockey, franchises and other important manipulations. Yes, under the conditions I have decided conditions are not ripe for the promotion of my outdoor arena and much to my regret.

ALTER STADIUM

As a result, I will have to make extensive alterations in the seating arrangements at the Yankee Stadium so as to make it adaptable for the purposes of a boxing arena. It will mean an engineering feat that calls for a grading of field seats and that will involve an expenditure of not less than $100,000.

STANFORD WARRIORS SENT THROUGH STIFF GRID GRIND

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Dec. 27. (AP)—The rest enjoyed by the Stanford University football team yesterday at the East-West game played at San Francisco, ended abruptly here today when Coach "Pop" Warner sent his charges through an exceptionally stiff workout in preparation for their game with the University of Pittsburgh at Pasadena next Monday.

Every man on the squad is in good condition, and they reeled off the plays with snap and precision. Two more hard workouts, tomorrow and Thursday, will follow before the big red team will leave for the south, Thursday night.

Rivalry for the halfback position is developing between Sims and Don Hill. Sims is receiving the call in the daily workouts but Hill will probably be used because of his experience. Mike Murphy was set at his post at quarterback today, while Dick Ryland will most likely start at the other halfback post. Football fans are looking forward to a great exhibition by Hyland, and "Gibby" Welch of the Pittsburgh team, as both are flashy runners. "Biff" Hoffman, who was showing his best form at the end of the season, was punching the line with all his old-time power today and it is likely that he will demonstrate the same form in the Pittsburgh contest that made him the star of the big game between Stanford and California.

HUSKIES BEAT ILLINOIS FIVE

The University of Washington basketball team defeated Illinois, 34 to 23, here tonight in the first of a three-game series dedicating Washington's new $600,000 athletic pavilion. Seventy-five hundred persons saw the game.

Washington, led by Monty Snider, forward, got away to an impressive lead early in the first half, which ended, 20 to 14, in favor of the Seattle school. The Illini had used a dribbling game while the Coast players employed short fast passes.

A spectacular spurt by the visitors at the opening of the second half carried them to within two points of Washington. But despite close Illinois checking, the Huskies again drew away and were out of danger the rest of the game.

The other two games will be played Thursday and Friday nights.

Line-up and summary:

Illinois (23.)		Washington (34.)
Olson	R.F.	Snider
Rice	L.F.	Baisley
Lindsay	R.G.	Hark
Cann	L.G.	Lamont
Mills	C.	Palmquist

Scoring: Illinois—Field goals, Rice, 1; Lindsay, 2; Cann, 2; Mills, 1; Dorn, sub for Olson, 1; Short, sub for Lindsay, 1. Free throws, Olson, 1; Rice, 2; Dorn, 1; Short, 1. Washington—Field goals, Snider, 3; Baisley, 7; Hark, 1; James, 2; Palmquist, 1. Free throws, Snider, 1; Hark, 1; James, 3; Palmquist, 1.

Mudders Get Coin on Turf

TIA JUANA RACE TRACK, Dec. 27. Over a track deep in sloppy mud they splashed here today with the favorites getting full measure of the mud six of the eight events, with long shots finishing in front of them in that number of races. Ida Newell, a 2-year-old from the stable of Z. Barnett, and a daughter of Motor Cop, a sprinter, which won great fame at Tia Juana, got down in the feature event of the afternoon, the fifth race, a sprint of five and one-half furlongs. Peep O got the place and Master Rock the show. Time for the sprint was 1m. 12s. Results:

First race, five and one-half furlongs, claiming; purse, $800—Shasta Limited (Snider,) won; Lucy Brown (Wilson,) second; Ray Reese (Mundon,) third. Time, 1:13 3-5.

Second race, five and one-half furlongs, claiming; purse, $800—Prinkseay (H. Philpot,) won; Grand Folly (Ballentine,) second; Fangold (Pollard,) third. Time, 1:13 1-5.

Third race, mile and 70 yards, claiming; purse, $800—Araby (Lounan,) won; Mirada Bombs (Mundon,) second; Marion Elizabeth (Snyder,) third. Time, 1:54 2-5.

Fourth race, six furlongs, claiming; purse, $800—Prospect (Kerr,) won; Jola Shot (Collins,) second; Fatching (H. Philpot,) third. Time, 1:20.

Fifth race, five and one-half furlongs, claiming; purse, $800—Ida Newell (Carlisle,) won; Peep O (Jones,) second; Master Rock (Hooper,) third. Time, 1:12.

Sixth race, five and one-half furlongs, claiming; purse, $800—St. Nicholas (Ensalmo,) won; Shasta (Granny (Janney,) second; Ensander (Snider,) third. Time, 1:13.

Seventh race, Clubhouse Course, claiming; purse, $800—Lord Douglas (H. Philpot,) won; The Falconer (Ball,) second; Edward S (N. Stowers,) third. Time, 1:43.

Eighth race, Clubhouse Course, claiming; purse, $800—Castala Guard (Ensalmo,) won; Goodolier (H. Philpot,) second; Conclusive (Carlisle,) third. Time, 1:42 3-5.

SKEEN IN STRONG BID FOR PING-PONG TITLE

Dick Skeen became a potential contender for the Southern California ping-pong championship in the tournament in progress at the Los Angeles Tennis Club by winning yesterday from Ward Johns, 6-3, 6-2, 6-8, 7-5. C. W. Paige, Albert Bennett and Dale Issenhuth also earned their way into the fourth round.

Rene Guetta, French champion, is working his way toward the finals and has had no difficulty so far.

Exception to Charges Taken at West Point

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Exceptions to alleged statements on the use of veteran football players as recruits in the Army were made today by Maj. Philip Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at West Point, through the army information service bureau here. The service statement said:

"Waving the ethical points of a sister service institution conducting a secret investigation of athletic conditions at the United States Military Academy aside, Maj. Philip Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at West Point, who whether or not they have played college football, have resigned from the Army.

"These officers, Maj. Fleming stated, are: McEwan, Oliphant, Vidal, Blaik, Briedster, Garbisch, Mulligan and Storck. Before resigning, however, these officers averaged three years and seven months each in commissioned service.

"Maj. Fleming added that in the past four years a total of 890 captains and lieutenants have resigned from the Army, of which these eight football players represent so small a number as to furnish a negligible percentage."

The army service bureau explained that no resignations were permitted until some time after the war and that conditions were unsettled at West Point until 1922 when upward of 1000 resigned from service. Hence, it was said, to consider that large number of resignations would be improper as they were caused by a multitude of reasons. Therefore, the service bureau pointed out, Maj. Fleming's figures on the past four years served as a reasonable gauge.

WALLACE WHIPS PACO

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 27. (AP)—Roy Wallace, Indianapolis light-heavyweight, outpointed Joe Paco of Toledo in ten rounds here tonight. Wallace broke his right hand in the sixth round after leading all the way. Paco won three of the last four rounds, one being even.

CANADIAN FLYWEIGHT MAY FIGHT IN OLYMPIC ARENA

Fred Winsor, who has his champion boxing Newsboy Brown at the Olympic next Tuesday night, is now hot on the heels of French Belanger, Canadian flyweight champion.

Matchmaker Wad Wadhams received a wire from Belanger's manager yesterday stating that the Canadian would not be available here until after Belanger meets Izzy Schwartz in New York.

Toronto wants the Belanger-McCoy fight staged there. Winsor turned down the offer to go to Toronto when he knew he could get Brown here.

Belanger holds a decision over both Brown and Frankie Genaro. The Canadian has received so much publicity recently that he would be a good card here.

Brown is in fine shape and is lighter now than he has ever been. The Newsboy boxed most of his matches here at 115 to 116. McCoy is weighing 115 pounds and Winsor wants him to keep this weight until two or three days before the match.

Until McCoy went under the management of Winsor he did not know he could make 113 pounds and hold his strength. But the new flyweight champion is assuredly a smaller fellow than Fidel La Barba. McCoy is very thin boned.

Matchmaker Wadhams completed the supporting card yesterday.

Two heavyweights, Tommy Randolph and Joe Woods, will box the semi-wind-up ahead of the half-pint champion and his contender.

Randolph is a newcomer here. He is a strapping, young 190-pounder, and has had twenty-five bouts, scoring knockouts in over half of them. He will have to be pretty good to get by Woods, the George Blake-trained boy.

Woods went over big back east and if he keeps on winning may be given a shot at Tom Heeney, Paolina Uzaudun or some other easterner next year.

Charley Sullivan and Huerta Evans box the special event on 118, and Ben Golden meets Ramon Lugo at 126 in a four.

RUTH STARTS WORKING TO BREAK HOME-RUN RECORD

BY ALAN J. GOULD

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—If Babe Ruth doesn't break his own home-run record next season it won't be because he isn't in condition.

BABE RUTH

Reporting today for the first gymnasium workout of his preseason training campaign, the big Yankee slugger was pronounced by his physical adviser, Artie McGovern, to be "in the best shape he ever has been at this stage of his conditioning."

Mc Govern is confident that Ruth, although nearing the "advanced" age of 34, will have at least as great a season in 1928 as he ever has enjoyed, all because the big fellow has buckled down to year-around conditioning and become a "physical culture fiend."

The more or less monosyllable Babe is less eloquent.

"Yuh! Might do it," he grunted, as his muscles were being briskly massaged, in reply to a query about that home-run record. "There's a possible chance of breaking it again, if they keep tossing 'em at me.

CAN SEE 'EM NOW

"No, don't think there's much change in the ball. Taing that's helped is throwin' so many new ones. Feila can see 'em now.

"The boys have nearly all changed their way of hittin' now. Used to choke their bats. Now they swing from the hips. Only one or two choke hitters left, like Joe Dugan and Dave Bancroft.

"No, there wasn't any pitcher that gave me much trouble last season. All looked about alike. I was just hittin' 'em, that's all.

"Lou Gehrig, there's a great kid. Always working hard. I know I've done all I could to help him, and I hope he has another great season. More competition there is the better I like it.

"Yuh! Don't see why I won't still be goin' strong at 40. Only be 34 next February. They started countin' me out five years ago when I kicked up a little fuss. Feel better now than ever. Yuh. Great.

"Well, s'long, kid."

CONDITION TOGETHER

Ruth and Gehrig, the twin battering rams of the Yankee attack, will get in condition together before departing for the training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla. Both are slated for regular workouts at McGovern's gymnasium for the next two months. They will go south around February 26.

Today Ruth's brisk program included a half-hour of set exercises, twenty minutes of handball, five minutes in an electric cabinet, shower bath and rub-down.

After it was over, he tipped the scales at 222½ pounds, actually a dozen pounds less than he weighed at the close of the American League season and within six pounds of the lowest he has been since coming to the Yankees.

"A lot of the boys wagged their heads when Ruth signed that three-year contract at $70,000 last year," McGovern remarked. "They said the big fellow would take it easy, knowing he had nothing to worry about for that time."

12:15—Harold Long and George Lane, Bill Mathison and George E. Carson.
12:15—Charley Guest and Harry Atwater, Harry Cooper and Arnold Stutz.
12:20—Grant Halsted and Daley Revis, Emmett Killian and B. A. Burton.
12:25—Dallas Jeffers and Andy Getty, G. D. Paulson and R. Westcott.
12:30—Starter's time.

1:10—Dr. L. D. Rankin and Harry Prosser, Leo Diegel and Art Seaver.
1:15—Angel de la Torre and C. W. Haugh, Curley Freeman and L. R. Phillips.
1:20—Leonard Schumeate and L. D. Chaney, Jim Noonan and L. H. Boehl.
1:25—Ed Dudley and Harry Blythe, M. F. Sproul and Hurb Martin.
1:30—Joe Turnesa and E. S. Armstrong, Tom Armour and George Von Elm.
1:35—Larry Nahlotis and Allen Moore, Al Watrous and George P. Shaw.

Jack Sharkey Has Bad Hand

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—While uncertainty continued to shadow the Jack Sharkey-Tom Heeney heavyweight battle, down for January 13 at Madison Square Garden, Dr. W. G. Fralick, Sharkey's physician, stated today that a definite decision on the Boston boxer's condition would be made this week.

Fralick said Sharkey would come here for an examination in three or four days. At the present time, Sharkey has evidenced no trouble with his injured left hand in banging the punching bag. He has done no sparring.

Although Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Ct., has been put forward as a possible substitute for Sharkey against Heeney in the event Sharkey is unable to box, there is a question of Heeney's handlers agreeing to such a match.

O'BRIEN, COTTRELL TO SCRAP

Fast Boys Mix in Main Go at Hollywood Club Friday

Lamar Fights Andrews

The final show of the year at the Hollywood American Legion stadium probably will be rated among the best and Tommy O'Brien is fighting Jimmy Cotrell in the main event.

The O'Brien-Cottrell fight may be the greatest from a ballyhoo standpoint but when it comes to action there will be lots of it. The knockout artist will be O'Brien if the fast stepping Cottrell will have to be cautious if he expects to last ten rounds with Tommy.

The main-event fighters are well-known fighters. That bout is just one of five fights on the bill that should make a very lively fight card. Lee Andrews battles Johnny Lamar in the semi-wind-up. Andrews is making his second start and if it is anything like the fight he put on when he beat Frankie Turnbow six weeks ago the "semi" will be just about as good as the main go.

In the special event Flash Rasmussen will fight Clayton Guoyd. Rasmussen is one of the coming youngsters in the preliminary ranks. Guoyd has never had any fights at Hollywood but he is getting a special event which makes him rate pretty high on the list.

Footballers Gather Today

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Those who watch over the destinies of the collegiate pigskin were arriving here tonight for a series of conclaves, with the stage set for a bitter verbal battle over the drastic changes made last year in football's rules and regulations.

At the annual meeting tomorrow of the Eastern Association of Football Officials, opponents of the revised rules are expected to launch their fight to abolish the new lateral pass rule and at the same time move the goal posts ten yards forward to their old position at the actual goal line. These are not the only rules under fire, but the controversy is expected to center largely on them.

Indications are that the annual sessions on Thursday of the National Collegiate Athletic Association will see more fuel added to the fire. Chief interest in this gathering is manifested in the probable attitude of the rules committee through Edward K. Hall, its chairman.

Jaysee Cagers at Santa Ana Back at Work

SANTA ANA, Dec. 27.—Practice was resumed today by the Santa Ana Junior College basketball team in preparation for a "successful new year" looming for Coach Walter Scott's aggregation during the 1928 season in the western division of the Southern California Junior College Conference which opens January 14 against Pasadena at Pasadena.

The college squad engages in a double-header tomorrow night, playing against Riverside Junior College. The games will be called at 7 o'clock and at 8 o'clock in Andrews gymnasium.

Riverside Junior College, while in the Southern California Junior College Conference, is not in the western division with the Don ensemble. For that reason, the match will have no bearing on the conference. Coach Scott learned today that the Riverside aggregation has four returning letter men on the team, one of whom is Pierce, a burly Indian, who was ranked as one of the best centers in the circuit last winter.

Two different teams from the squad of thirty-one players under the tutelage of Coach Scott will take the floor for the games and substitutes will be sent in constantly to permit as many players as possible to get into the game. Basketball fans of Santa Ana will be afforded their first opportunity to watch the Don ensemble, for which the team is being made of championship prospects with such a galaxy of stars as have never been assembled at the college in one year.

Coach Scott has only two lettermen back from last year. Faris Edgar, star forward, is making a strong bid for the first team regulars, and Wilbur Allee, running guard, is almost conceded a berth on the five, but among the freshmen are such stars as Mearl Youel, Blanchard Beatty, Lawrence Hogue, George Tobias and others who have made reputations in high schools. Besides the game that has been scheduled with the Riverside collegians, a number of other matches are to be played within the next few weeks, it was announced.

McNAMARA AND WINTER PAIR IN BIKE GRIND

CHICAGO, Dec. 27. (AP)—Reggie McNamara, world's greatest six-day bicycle rider, is going to have Charley Winter of New York as his partner in Chicago's nineteenth annual six-day bicycle race, which starts in the Coliseum January 2. Winter, fresh from his victory in the recent New York six-day race, agreed to team with McNamara today.

McNamara has won thirteen races, finished second seven times, been third nine times and fourth six times. He has won the New York race six times and the Chicago grind four.

WILMINGTON PUTS ON TRIPLE MAIN EVENT

Ruling a slight favorite over a lad whom he recently shaded in a six-round fight, Frankie Forbes, latest harbor welterweight kayo sensation, goes to the post tonight at Wilmington against Billy Clark in a fight which comprises one-third of a triple eight-round main event.

Another welterweight scrap between a pair of sluggers, Billy Hoon and Billy (Red) Atkeson, and a light-weight engagement featuring Earl Forse against Al Nelson, completes the three-play attraction.

A four-round featherweight fight between a pair of fast, hard-hitting youngsters, Harry Barrere and Mickey Orosco, also is on tap.

GRAPPLER SEEKS DAMAGES

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 27. (AP)—Robin Reed, one-time amateur welterweight wrestling champion, today filed suit against the Portland-Minnville Coast Truck Service, demanding $130,625 damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained when a company truck struck his automobile last September. Flying glass caused him to lose the sight of one eye, he declared.

...W YORK JUDGES PANNED ...OR TALKING TO REFEREE

...Dec. 27. (AP)—The New ... Athletic Commission to-... all judges of boxing ...ain from addressing ...during a fight unless first ...by that official.

...Judge in the Glick-... who called to Referee ... that Glick was fouling ... before the commission. ... rebuked, but was ... cautioned as to conduct in future bouts. The same advice was suggested to other judges under the jurisdiction of the commission as well.

Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey, notified Secretary Bert Stand of the commission that the Boston heavyweight was in fine condition and that there was no doubt but what he would keep his engagement with Tom Heeney here on January 19.

WESTERN FOOTBALL SKIDDING

...took another boot in the bloomers. The last Tournament of Roses victory chalked up by a Pacific Coast eleven was that achieved by our own Trojans at the expense of Penn State. Gus Henderson was coaching Southern California at that time, which was January 1, 1923. The score was 14 to 3.

Since then the games have resulted as follows: Navy 14, Washington, 14; Notre Dame, 27, Stanford, 10; Alabama, 20, Washington, 19; and Alabama, 7, Stanford, 7. This last game was considered a great moral victory for the South, inasmuch as most critics had favored Stanford to win by anywhere from three to seven touchdowns.

In addition to these defeats the West has dropped some other mighty important games. Southern California got the short end of a 13-to-12 score with Notre Dame last year and wound up one point behind again this season, the count being 7 to 6. Drake ruined U.C.L.A. last month and Iowa State did the same thing a year ago. Hawaii beat Occidental this year and also knocked the Tigers over two seasons back.

According to our statistics the last victory scored by a western team was in 1925, when the Trojans trimmed Iowa, 18 to 0, in the Coliseum. Howard Jones had just taken over the reins that year. The season before that Gus Henderson annexed two games, upsetting Syracuse, 16 to 0, December 6 and beating Missouri 20 to 7 Christmas Day.

So the Trojans seem to be the West's outstanding defenders, be it in Tournament of Roses games or otherwise. All these figures are for contests played only in Southern California. Up North the West has had better luck.

At present Pittsburgh is favored to trim Stanford, which isn't as sad as it sounds for Warner likes nothing better than to be the under dog. Given this position he generally manages to come through victorious.

The Panthers are due here Saturday. They will stay at the Vista del Arroyo Hotel. Practice is slated for Saturday afternoon in the Rose Bowl.

Stanford may arrive Friday morning. That was the latest dope. The Cards will stop at the Huntington.

Last year's seating capacity of 56,000 has been increased to 69,000. This means that there will be a gate of approximately $325,000 if the joint is completely sold out. This will be the largest gate in the history of the Tournament of Roses and the largest on the Pacific Coast outside of the California-Stanford game, where an attendance of 86,000 fans is possible when the tilt is staged at Palo Alto.

BY FRANK T. HARVEY

Several Southern California matchmakers who attended the battle fleet boxing and wrestling championship bouts at San Pedro last week have matched the better boxers at their respective clubs for this week.

Paddy Mullen, former all-Navy featherweight champ, from the battleship Tennessee, who defeated Earl Porter, lightweight champion of the battle fleet, last year for the West Coast, unit title, has been signed to meet Tony Portillo in the main event at Ocean Park tonight.

Mullen, who has been in training for the past few months around the harbor district, is being groomed for bigger shots at local arenas. Earl Porter, the defeated sailor, will appear in one of the ten-round bouts at Wilmington tonight against Al Nelson, former navy fighter, who is considered one of the most dangerous performers in the navy ranks at present. The aviator from San Diego holds knockout victories over "Terror" Kid Mack and Franklin Boldt.

Several other fighters from the battleships have been booked for the next two weeks.

Fleet basketball teams will again commence action this week after a week's layoff. Tuesday the quintet from the battleship New Mexico will collide with the flagship California five. Teams from the battleships Pennsylvania and Idaho will meet Wednesday night. The newly arrived U.S.S. New York will not get action until January 6, when the Knickerbocker outfit engages the U.S.S. Colorado and Ensign Price's eight-man quintet from the battleship Oklahoma, champions of the fleet here last season, but suspended because of the departure yesterday of the Colorado for San Francisco.

Following is the basketball standing to date:

Team	Won	Lost
Colorado	3	0
Idaho	2	0
Tennessee	2	0
Mississippi	1	0
New Mexico	1	0
West Virginia	1	0

Jim Flinker, welterweight boxing champion of the battle fleet last year when he was stationed on the battleship Arizona, is believed to be the first shooting gallery when he scored 124 consecutive bull's eyes. Thirteen targets were used to shoot, according to witnesses. Morrow, who is known as an excellent marksman in the navy was practicing when he ran up the large number of "dead-center" shots.

If present plans carry through, Southland boxing fans are assured of one of the most attractive offerings in years when Holy Trinity parish of Wilmington host, January 9.

Lieut. Jack Kennedy and George Sullivan, who are acting as matchmakers, are combing the battle fleet, the city proper and the "cities," for prospects, celebrated and otherwise, and it is a certainty that a crop of headliners and comers will be gathered for the benefit of the fund.

Among those who are already booked to appear are Frankie Boldt, Long Beach featherchampion of the scouting fleet who has scored consecutive knockouts since coming to the West Coast a few months ago, Jimmy Ryan, lightweight prospect from the battleship Colorado, Jimmy Waterman, former battle fleet middleweight champion, and others.

Jack Dempsey, close friend of Lieut. Kennedy will probably referee some of the bouts.

"Irish" Patsy Mosier, who during the past seven years has fought more ring battles than any other navy fighter, who dropped fro sight last year with the departure of the battleship Nevada, has successfully negotiated a comeback. Mosier, who, it is claimed, fought thirty-eight battles in a little over two months time, is now stationed at the Philadelphia navy yard waiting transfer to the U.S.S. Arkansas. In his first fight in more than eighteen months he knocked out an opponent in three rounds at a smoker staged in Philadelphia.

EXETER CITY HALTS SOCCER TEAM'S DASH

LONDON, Dec. 27. (AP)—After maintaining a record of no defeats in home tilts through twenty-one months of soccer play, Plymouth Argyle lost to Exeter City by 2 goals to 1 today when their goal keeper put the ball through his own goal.

GLOBE LINER TO REFUEL IN PORT

Belgenland Will Load Large Fuel Oil Purchase

Order of Red Star Carrier Sets Local Record

Early Hour Tomorrow Fixed as Arriving Time

Twenty-four thousand barrels of fuel oil, the largest bunker consignment ever placed aboard a steamer at this port, will be placed aboard the British turbiner Belgenland, 33,000-ton Red Star liner due at daylight tomorrow from New York on her fourth successive world cruise. The record load of Los Angeles oil, requiring three Pan-American Petroleum Company barges, will carry the Belgenland on the remaining 20,000 miles of her globe journey.

Three hundred travelers will arrive on the big cruiser this morning and sixty-five additional passengers will board her at this port. The arriving passengers will be taken on a tour of Southern California immediately after the vessel docks at Berth 60, Outer Harbor, returning to the port in time to board her before she sails for the Orient via San Francisco at 5 o'clock.

Angelenos who will make the world cruise on the Belgenland include Mrs. Adelaide Davidson, H. V. Dorsett, Mrs. I. S. Duncan, Mrs. L. Endicott, Mrs. Lydia I. Gaetz, Miss Kate Hanley, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hinckley, Mrs. Virginia Hutchason, Mr. and Mrs. Warren F. McGrath, Misses Margaret, Albertina and Charlotte McGrath, Mrs. Laura Norris, Jack Robinson, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Robinson, J. H. Orton, D. Van Wyngarten, Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Winnard, and Mrs. Marie Ralston Winnard.

Trials of the International Mercantile Marine's newest ship, the Diesel-electric liner California, began yesterday at Newport News, Va., marking the last stage before she is delivered to her owners.

She will sail for this port from New York on January 28, next, carrying 751 passengers on her maiden voyage in the service of the Panama-Pacific Line.

SEAMEN'S INSTITUTE HOST AT FREE DINNER

Santa Claus Nyed again at the Seaman's Church Institute at San Pedro last night, where 225 merchant seamen sat down to turkey dinner, and 600 listened in on the program following and carried away Christmas boxes.

It was a polyglot party in which the institute directors and wives served as hosts, as the guests were of a score of nationalities and pigments—organized sailors of windjams, mer days, and apprentice boys just starting their careers.

All were away from home and friends and this was their only Christmas, an annual custom with the institute, whose mission is affording a home for men of merchant ships.

Following the dinner, Cosmo Morgan, Jr., entertained with music and magic. Senator J. W. McKinley, president of the institute,; Capt. Watt T. Cluverius, U.S.N., and Rt. Rev. W. B. Stevens, bishop coadjutor of the Los Angeles diocese, addressed the seamen.

In the boxes, which were the gifts of Southern California church women, were handkerchiefs, neckties, socks, a pipe to replace the old sour one, a bag of "sewing gear," safety razor, candy and ten other items.

The institute was founded six years ago by the Rev. Harold H. Kelley, and has risen in that period with the assistance of Manager Adam Taft, to the third in the country, with an attendance of 150,000 seamen yearly. It is exceeded only by the institutes of New York, now enlarging its quarters to cost $4,000,000, and the institute at Philadelphia, which recently completed a $750,000 building.

San Pedro's institute is self-supporting, the rest coming from the Community Chest and private gifts. Its buildings are modest, converted barracks, but is more home-like than the great structure at New York, according to Taft, who just returned from there.

Radio telephones will receive their christening aboard the Wrigley liner Catalina today, and will be an added service to Catalina-bound passengers as well as an adjunct to the ship's official equipment.

The sets, sending and receiving, were contrived by R. D. Lemert of the Wilmington Transportation Company, and differ from the usual one-phase sets, in that communication may be carried on simultaneously by parties at both ends.

They have a radius of 500 miles, and can readily be converted for telegraphic use as well as telephonic. Stations have been installed in the cabin of Capt. A. A. Morris and the engine-room, so both may be in touch with points ashore. Compensation for the ship's motion has been met by Lembert by a special device which holds the wave lengths constant.

Similar type sets will be installed on the liner Avalon as soon as she is given a respite from her daily island run. Two tugboats of the company were recently equipped by Lemert with one-phase sets, permitting the parties to talk one at a time. The success of their use, in obviating the necessity of the tug returning to a port telephone before proceeding to a newly developed job, inspired the more elaborate installation on the Catalina.

The Panama Mail intercoastal liner Equador, untroubled by the week-end storms, will put in on schedule this noon with 100 passengers and full cargo of freight from New York and Central America.

Among her passengers is Dr. Grace Peckham Murray, retired, of New York, and one of the earliest of living women graduates from an American medical school, having received her degree in 1883. James W. Bennett is a writer of articles and fiction, whose recent novels include "Manchu Cloud," "Yellow Corsair" and "Dragon Shadows," the latter being in the hands of the binders. He is accompanied by Mrs. Bennett.

Henry Howard of Newport, R. I., national president of the American Merchant Marine Library Association; Otto Schildwachter of Richwood, N. J., a trustee on New Jersey's pension board also are on board.

Just so folks won't forget that the Williams Line has ten steamers on a ten-day intercoastal service, J. C. Hammerberg, Los Angeles manager, yesterday was dispensing 1000 calendar and memorandum pads. The ships' names are printed in gold on lucky, his name is there, too. Incidentally, Hammerberg refuses to concede there is a lull in shipping. His the binding, and if a recipient is Willpolo, dropping 1500 tons of east coast cargo belies it, and the Willangelo is passing Los Angeles up eastbound because she loaded to the brim at San Francisco, although Hammerberg pleaded for space.

Col. A. B. Jackson, U.S.A., division engineer at San Francisco, was down yesterday on a periodic inspection of Los Angeles Harbor with Maj. P. C. Gross, district engineer at Los Angeles. Maj. C. T. Leeds, resigned, former district engineer here, also accompanied the officials on their tour.

FINANCIAL

Situation in Twelfth Federal District Told

General Drift for November Changes Little

Demand and Time Deposits of Member Banks Up

Continuance of previously noted declines in industrial activity, seasonal expansion in trade, and maintenance of sound credit conditions, characterized the business situation in the Twelfth Federal Reserve District during November, according to a statement released yesterday by Isaac B. Newton, chairman of the board and Federal Reserve agent at San Francisco.

Demand for credit has tended to shift from agriculture and industry to trade during recent weeks. Commercial loans of reporting member banks are not now so large in amount as they were a year ago, the report states, but it is probable that industry and trade have been accommodated, to some extent, by proceeds from loans on securities, which are in record volume. Demand deposits have increased since the midsummer low point and growth of time deposits has continued, so that total deposits of these banks on the 14th inst., were $17,000,000 or 0.9 per cent larger than six months ago, and $79,000,000 or 4.6 per cent larger than a year ago.

Discount holdings of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco increased from $29,000,000 to $44,000,000 during the four weeks ended the 14th inst., and were 16 per cent larger on that date than one year ago. Interest rates for commercial paper hardened slightly during the past month.

Reported data on building, lumbering, mining and flour milling show slight declines in activity during November, as compared with one month ago and one year ago, according to Federal Reserve figures. Figures of industrial employment tend to confirm this evidence of a moderate decrease in production. Distribution and trade, on the other hand, have been well maintained during recent months, at levels equal to or slightly above those of a year ago. The bank's index of retail (department store) sales show a slight increase over October and November of last year, the wholesale index remaining the same as last year and higher than October, no allowance being made for a 2 per cent decline in wholesale prices for the year.

ANTIOCH BANK ON UNITED'S STRING

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27. (AP)—Announcement of the purchase of the Bank of Antioch at Antioch, Cal., by the United Bank and Trust Company through the French-American Corporation was made here today by W. F. Duffy, vice-president and controller of the purchasing bank. The purchase of the Antioch institution gives the United Bank and Trust Company its sixtieth banking house and increases its total resources to a figure in excess of $150,000,000.

FOUR NEW ISSUES ON BOND SLATE

Pacific Fruit and Produce to Sell Notes; Power Units in Market Also

Four new bond issues, totaling in excess of $35,000,000, will be placed on the investment market today by underwriting syndicates. The financing is for the account of the New Orleans, Texas and Mexico Railroad, Pacific Fruit and Produce Company, Central States Electric Corporation, and the Peoples' Gas Light and Coke Company.

George H. Burr, Conrad & Broom will offer the Pacific Fruit and Produce Company issue, consisting of $850,000 6 per cent serial gold notes, maturing from 1928 to 1937. The prices range from 100 to 98.50, according to maturity.

Dillon, Read & Co., heads the syndicate tendering the $20,000,000 Central States Electric Corporation 5 per cent gold debentures, due 1948, which will be offered at 96½ and interest. The Peoples' Gas Light and Coke Company issue is in the form of $8,000,000 serial notes, maturing from 1928 to 1930, and bearing interest coupons of 4 1-4 and 4½ per cent. The notes are priced at 100 and interest.

Blair & Co., Inc., will participate in first mortgage financing for the New Orleans, Texas and Mexico Railroad. The bonds are 4½s, and are issued under the same indenture as the 5s and 5½s.

JOY MAY JOIN MORGAN

Dillon-Read Executive Expected to Enter Famous Banking House as Partner; Others Possible

BY EARLE E. CROWE

From eastern dispatches, it appears that one of the choicest plums in the financial world, a Morgan partnership, has gone to Benjamin. Joy, heretofore identified with Dillon, Read & Co., one of the most aggressive rivals of the Morgan group. Mr. Joy, it is reported in New York, will formally resign on January 1 from his existing affiliations to become a partner of Morgan & Cie of Paris, the French branch of J. P. Morgan & Co. He is already occupying a desk in the New York office.

Whether the entrance of Mr. Joy into the Morgan ranks is to replace Dwight W. Morrow, who resigned to become American Ambassador to Mexico, is a question the financial district is asking. John J. Raskob, chairman of the finance committee of General Motors, and Walter S. Gifford, president of American Telephone and Telegraph, have been prominently mentioned as successors to Mr. Morrow, and possibly one of them may yet take a desk in the New York offices of Morgan & Co.

SPECULATION CONTINUES

This possibility is explained by the fact that a partnership in Morgan & Co. does not necessarily bring a partnership in the New York and Philadelphia houses. The New York partners and the partners of Drexel & Co., the Philadelphia house, have, however, an interest in the Paris branch. The financial district has presumed that the successor to Mr. Morrow would be named a New York partner.

Morgan partnerships, according to current gossip, are worth well over $1,000,000 a year to the fortunate individuals occupying these posts. As bankers for many of the European governments in international operations, the Morgan group is the recognized leader in international financing, having headed underwriting syndicates for such governments as Italy, France, England, Germany and others. These affiliations have brought, in addition, a large volume of municipal and corporate financing in European countries, while the domestic operations affecting corporations reach into large figures.

One of the most recent compilations, covering the three months' period to June 30, last, showed J. P. Morgan & Co. ranking first in the amount of financing by syndicates of which it was the head. The total for three months was $213,000,000. Blair & Co., Inc., ranked second.

EXPERIENCE DIVERSIFIED

Mr. Joy, the prospective Paris partner, will bring a well-rounded experience to the Morgan business. He has been connected with an engineering and management company specializing in public-utility operations, a commercial banker, the head of the foreign department of one of New York's largest banks, and identified with the management of the Dillon, Read & Co. investment trust.

His public-utility experience was obtained with Stone & Webster, one of the largest engineering and management companies in the country, of which he was vice-president. As a commercial banker, Mr. Joy served as vice-president of the Shawmut National Bank of Boston, his native city. His training in international banking was obtained with the Bankers' Trust Company of New York where he was vice-president in charge of the foreign department, including the London and Paris branches.

As chairman of the United States and Foreign Securities Corporation, his present post, Mr. Joy has been responsible, in part, for the investment of the funds of this trust, which has a capital of $25,000,000. A substantial portion of the investments, according to recent reports, has been in foreign securities.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Post-Holiday Session Displays Irregularity on Light Volume of Trading

Following a three-day recess, trading displayed considerable irregularity with sales merely nominal on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday. Los Angeles-First National featured the activity of the banking group moving up 1 3-4 points on a turnover of 2110 shares to close at 106, while Bank of Italy declined 1 point to 242 after touching a low of 241½. Bank of Italy rights closed down ½ to 9 1-4.

No losses were recorded in the public utility group, fractional gains of 1-8 being registered by the 6 per cent preferred and the common stock of Southern California Edison, closing at 26 and 43 3-4 respectively. Los Angeles Gas closed up 1-4 to 104 1-4.

The oils were fractionally lower with the exception of Standard of California, which rose 3-8 to 55 5-8. Bolsa Chica dropped 3 points to 55 and light trading in others showed fractional losses, Richfield maintaining its close at 26 3-8 of the pre-holiday session. Union Oil, California and Union Oil Associates dropped 5-8 and 1-4, respectively, to close at 44 and 42 7-8. No changes were recorded in the mining list excepting Sunnyside and United American, which advanced ½ cent to 12 and 2½ cents respectively.

A total of 83,786 shares crossed the board for the day, while total bond transactions amounted to $83,000.

SANTA FE REVENUES DECREASE

Rise in Operating Charges Responsible for Decline in First Eleven Months

An increase of $11,359,720 in the operating expenses of the Santa Fe system for the eleven months ending November 30, last, was responsible for a decrease in net operating income of $9,816,033, compared with the corresponding period of last year, according to figures released by the Los Angeles office yesterday.

Railway operating revenues for the period were $236,148,014 as compared with $235,849,034 for the same eleven months last year, an increase of $298,780. Net operating income amounted to $51,294,500.

Net railway operating income for the month of November, last, amounted to $7,360,632, as compared with $8,415,791, a decrease of $1,055,159. Operating expenses also declined from $14,696,793 in November last year, to $13,534,080 for the last month, a decrease of $1,162,713. Operating revenues for the month were $23,028,356, a decrease of $2,381,114 over November, 1926.

Sale Announced of Utility Group

Standard Gas and Electric Company announces the sale by Mountain States Power Company of the properties of the Tacoma Gas and Fuel Company, the Olympic Gas Company and the Puget Sound Gas Company, to interests identified with the United States Electric Power Company of New York, effective the 31st inst.

These gas companies are distant from the principal territories served by the Mountain States Power Company, the business of which is chiefly electric power and light service. Annual gross earnings of the properties sold, aggregate about $550,000. Gross earnings of the Mountain States Power Company for the twelve months ended October 31, last, were $3,385,059.

STOCK DEAL APPROVED

Four Ten Oil Company Will Take Over Prospecting Permit

Four Ten Oil Company has been granted a permit by J. M. Friedlander, State Corporation Commissioner, to issue all of its 1500 shares of $100 par value stock in exchange for a prospecting permit on 480 acres of land in the Poso Creek oil field and for certain contracts thereunder.

The company's officers are D. G. Vedder, Joseph P. Connolly, R. L. Leonard, Edwin L. Stanton and William B. Joyce, Jr. It is a California corporation with offices in Los Angeles. According to its application, Vedder acquired the prospecting permit from the government and organized a syndicate of fourteen persons to have the land developed. The company, the application states, does no drilling, but has drilling arrangements with operating oil companies, receiving in return royalties and percentages of profits.

RIGHTS ANNOUNCED BY POWER UTILITY

Announcement has just been made by Northern States Power Company that holders of Class A common stock will be offered the privilege of subscribing, on or before January 23, to additional Class A common stock, at $100 a share to the extent of one-fourth of their holdings as of January 3. At the same time holders of Class B common stock will be offered the right to subscribe to additional Class B common stock in the same ratio. Warrants will be mailed to holders of record January 3 as soon as possible after that date.

BANKS SET DATES FOR CONFERENCE

Western Savings Meeting Scheduled for Seattle in March; Program Out

Savings bankers in the western States will meet in the first regional savings conference of the new year in Seattle on March 8 and 9, according to the program announced by George L. Woodward, treasurer of the South Norwalk Savings Bank, South Norwalk, Ct., who is president of the savings banks division of the American Bankers' Association. The Seattle conference will be the first of a series of regional conferences which the savings bankers will hold in Chicago, New York, Richmond, Va., and Seattle.

The coming series will mark the fourth year in which these conferences have been held under the direction of the American Bankers' Association. In the past they have always been attended by several hundred bankers, with a tendency to increase in numbers with the spread of savings banking activities through all classes of banks. It is estimated that 85 per cent of all banks, including commercial banks and trust companies now have savings departments.

Among the topics which will be discussed at the conferences are methods of stimulating new and enlarging old savings accounts, means for increasing the permanence of savings accounts, development of investment services, etc.

New Partner Reported in Morgan House

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Harold Stanley, president of Guaranty Company of New York, will be admitted to partnership in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. of New York, it was learned today.

Mr. Stanley has been president of the Guaranty Company since December, 1921, being the second head of that company since its formation in 1920. He also is vice-president of the Guaranty Trust Company, a position he assumed in 1916, about a year after joining the organization.

The new Morgan partner began his banking career shortly after his graduation from Yale in 1908, with the National Commercial Bank of Albany, N. Y. Two years later he became associated with J. G. White & Co., of New York, with whom he remained until 1915, when he joined the bond department of the Guaranty Trust Company.

Mr. Stanley was born forty-two years ago in Great Barrington, Mass. During his career in New York he has become affiliated with a number of business enterprises, and holds positions as director of S. F. Goodrich Company, Bethlehem Steel Company, Columbia Gas and Electric Company and R. Hoe & Co.

Cotton Market Tone Strong at Higher Levels

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (Exclusive) The cotton market continued firm from the opening today thereby maintaining the strength the general contract list displayed at the close Friday, when business was suspended for Saturday to give the trade an extra Christmas holiday here and at New Orleans. The most important development over the holiday was the much-improved tone of reports of trade conditions from the principal dry-goods centers and also much less curtailment of production by both the New England mills and those in the South, which often occurs at this time of the year to overhaul machinery and for inventory purposes, as well as to reduce production somewhat in both yarns and sheetings.

These developments showed how unduly pessimistic were the unfavorable reports in circulation two or three weeks ago while the market was in the throes of scattered liquidation and a feeling of general pessimism from the long-continued decline in prices for raw cotton from the high levels of 24 1-8 to 25 cents for October to May contracts reached early in September.

There was, therefore, a better class of trade buying again in evidence today and more covering of shorts in both this market and New Orleans, the Liverpool market being closed for an extra Christmas holiday. It was the first day that "notices" could be issued to holders of January contracts for the tender of cotton for actual delivery on January 4.

With the contract stock here close to 200,000 bales and a large speculative long interest outstanding in January, in order to close this out the amount of notices so issued ranged above 180,000 bales. Their circulation for a time had a disturbing effect, sending prices off about 16 points from the early forenoon high, but that was soon overcome. A large number of the notices were taken back by houses who issued them and others were stopped by exporters and brokers acting for mill agents.

ECONOMIC DRIFT UNNOTICED

Drop in Nonagricultural Price Level Overlooked as Farm Product Prices Rise

BY PAUL WILLARD GARRETT

[Copyright, 1927, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—How will commodity prices move in 1928? Here is the question for which an answer is sought eagerly by all those now forecasting the future.

The 1927 upswing in agricultural prices has received so much attention by commentators that an equally significant movement has gone unnoticed. The reference is to the continued decline in nonagricultural prices. The time was when agricultural values ruled far below others, but this year the tables have been turned. Now nonagricultural prices have become the laggards. The official index for November just computed by the Bureau of Labor Statistics shows that agricultural prices averaged 154 (taking 1913 as 100,) whereas nonagricultural values averaged only 144.

To that good level agricultural values have risen from only 143 as recently as June this year. To that low level—and it represents the lowest levels since October, 1916—nonagricultural values have fallen from a high of 173 as recently as April, 1923.

The essential point to note is that nonagricultural commodities have been falling for more than four years, and that now they are at the very lowest position in more than a decade. Evidence is at hand that in the not distant future the trend of nonagricultural commodities will be reversed and that they will follow the leadership of farm products.

Looking at the movement from a broad standpoint the depression in prices during the last few years reflects the return of hard money in Europe. As European countries have substituted gold for paper they have made money relatively more valuable, or to put the reverse, commodities less valuable.

With the European currencies now pretty generally stabilized the assumption is reasonable that the world decline in commodities should be near an end.

Certainly as the new year begins the outlook for an improving price level is clearer than it has been for many years, and in rising prices business always finds nourishment. Corporate profits have fallen substantially in the last six months, but a reversal of the commodities trend would go a long way toward restoring confidence and building up profits.

Cut Approved in Bank Stock Par

Approval for the reduction in the par value of the capital stock of the National City Bank of Los Angeles from $100 to $25 has been given by the Comptroller of Currency in Washington, the bank was notified yesterday. New certificates will be issued in exchange for the old upon presentation, the bank announced.

The National City Bank was organized on July 4, 1923, and in June, 1926, control was acquired by the California Bank interests. The bank has a capital of $1,000,000, surplus of $100,000 and undivided profits of $161,372. California Group, of which the National City Bank is a member, has aggregate resources of more than $120,000,000, divided among the California Bank, California Trust Company, California Securities Company, California Group Corporation and the National City.

EXTRA DECLARED

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Directors of the American Ice Company today declared an extra dividend of 50 cents per share on common stock in addition to the usual quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on common and 1½ per cent on the preferred stock. The dividends are payable January 25 to stockholders of record January 6.

Steel Nervous Pending Report on Morgan Election

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Extensive readjustment of speculative accounts imparted much irregularity to the price movement in today's stock market. Marking up of the call money rate to 5 1-2 per cent appeared to end the calling of stock exchange collateral loans, while regarded as a check to development, nevertheless had a tendency to restrict speculative operations. Trading dwindled to a substantial falling off in volume, today's sales aggregating slightly more than 2,000,000 shares as against a daily average of nearly 3,000,000 shares for the full sessions of the week.

There were no week-end developments to disturb speculative confidence although several prominent houses continued to urge a reduction of commitments on the theory that a "technical reaction" was due after the recent sustained advance, setting this profit taking was a short covering operation of traders who were buying in order to establish losses under the tax laws. With few exceptions, there has been a bad year for professional speculators for the decline as there has been no major reaction to mark the year.

STEEL NARROWS

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Extensive readjustment of speculative accounts imparted much irregularity to the price movement in today's stock market. Marking up of the call money rate to 6 1-2 per cent coincident with the calling of about $25,000,000 in loans, while regarded as a seasonal development, nevertheless had a tendency to restrict speculative operations. Trading showed a rather substantial falling off in volume to-day's sales aggregating slightly more than 2,000,000 shares as against the daily average of nearly 3,000,000 shares for the full sessions of last week.

There were no week-end developments to disturb speculative confidence although several commission houses continued to urge a lightening of commitments on the theory that a "technical reaction" was likely after the recent sustained advance. Considering this profit taking was the short covering operations of bear traders who were buying in stock to establish losses under the income tax laws. With few exceptions, this has been a bad year for professional speculators for the decline as there has been no major reaction to speak of this year.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Prices forged ahead on the curb market today with steel issues taking the lead. Higher call money rates on the stock exchange apparently had no effect on buying of the leading stocks.

American Rolling Mills and Midland Steel products common both climbed high above their previous highs, the former advancing more than 6 points to 104½, the first time this year it has sold above $100 a share. The latter had a gain of 12 points, selling at 115 on buying in response to the heavy accumulation of the preferred issue on the big board.

Oil shares also gave a good account of themselves, particularly Salt Creek Producers and Mountain Producers, both of which went to new peak levels. Some of the pipe lines had substantial advances, but Gulf Oil, which has been moving upward rapidly on the proposed development of a new sulphur field, fell about a point on realizing.

Industrial Rayon was heavily traded in, but heavy offerings around 22 5-8 drove the price back for a net loss of more than a point. Celanese common also was heavy, but the preferred climbed 10 points to a new high for the year.

Mining issues were less active than recently. Newmont reached a new top but later lost all the gain. United States Freight and Warner Brothers Pictures and Firestone Rubber were among the more conspicuous strong spots.

Public utilities were irregular. Electric investors advanced a point while American Gas and Electric was under pressure.

To expedite transmission the closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

Facts About

California Road District Bonds

Every Investor Should Know

—California Road District Improvement Bonds, issued under the 1907 Act, are payable from ad valorem taxes levied annually on all lands in the issuing district.

—This tax is collected as a part of general county taxes on the same tax bill as school and other revenues.

—Bonds are exempt from all Federal Income Tax and California Personal Property Taxes.

—Bonds are issued in $1,000 denominations and serial maturities running to 25 years.

—Road District Bonds thus combine liberal yield, complete tax exemption and a security ranking ahead of all real estate mortgages, present or future.

We are offering the bonds of various Southern California County Road Districts

A 6½% Tax Free Yield From Road Imp. Bonds

BONDS issued under the provisions of the Road District Improvement Act of 1907, cover the financing of essential public improvements—paving, installation of sidewalks, curbs, sewers, etc. Bonds issued under this act are first lien securities against county properties, and rank ahead of first mortgages, present or future, and all other liens except general taxes.

Road Bonds are serial in form, maturing in a lump sum in one, two, five and on up to 20 years. Semi-annual interest and principal are collected from an ad valorem tax levied on all the properties in the improvement district and collected as a part of the annual county taxes.

Our current offering of Road District Bonds issued by San Diego County, is secured by properties valued at over three times the amount of the bonds. Complete details will be furnished on request.

FOR SALE

2,500 Acres of Rich Land

Twenty-five hundred acres of producing Butte County land in the fertile Sacramento Valley are for sale! Not far from the big State Farm Development Project at Durham, this rich land offers a remarkable opportunity either to the ambitious agriculturalist or the wise investor who recognizes the advantages of this region for colonization.

At present the land is planted to crop, one-third of which will go to the purchaser. The rich soil offers great possibilities for the raising of alfalfa, grain, or fruits in abundant variety.

Ample irrigation is provided by a tax-free gravity system without debt of any character. Approximately $60 per acre has been expended in improvements. At its remarkable price of but $100 per acre, this property represents one of the best agricultural investment opportunities available anywhere.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Trading in the bond market today fell to a low ebb and prices exhibited fractional irregularity. Although call money rates advanced there was no change in time loans, and consequently no large increase in offerings was forthcoming. New issues were not in large enough volume to have any particular bearing on quotations for listed bonds.

The domestic department displayed little activity, except in the case of a handful of mortgages which advanced for special reasons. Among these were Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s, convertible into common stock, which had a gain of more than 2 points in new high territory. Liquid Carbonic 6s, also exchangeable for stock, jumped to 125½ for the first time. Little of interest transpired in the railway group. New Haven issues, which have had a firm tendency since the new financing of last week again advanced fractionally, but sales were not large. Public utilities were neglected.

Firmness characterized the foreign division generally with German and French bonds making the best showing. Transactions were few in all sections.

The United States government group had a firm undertone, but business was limited.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite transmission, the zeros is omitted when the same as the low and both low and close when same as the high.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—Active demand developed for the light supply on hand and an early clearance was made of all classes. Prices generally on both steers and she stock, were 15@25 cents higher, while cutter and low cutter cows ruled strong to 15 cents higher, with the small supply of bulls selling at fully steady prices. Only a small portion of the run was steers, the stock being in the majority. Arrivals were about evenly divided from Utah, California and Arizona.

A car and a half of good 1048-pound Utah steers topped at 11.00, while three cars of good 973-pound Arizona fed steers cashed for 11.10, with a car of 1096-pound weights at 11.00. Odd head of medium steers sold down from 10.00@10.50, while several small lots of common steers went over from 8.00@9.25.

A car of good 886-pound Arizona fed heifers cashed for 9.25. Odd lots sold from 8.25@8.50, with a few individuals higher, while the best price for cows was 8.15, paid for a load of 1205-pound Utahs. Other good cows and heifers sold fro m 7.75@8.00, including a car of 816-pound Imperials at the latter price. The price spread of 6.25@7.65 took in the bulk of yesterday's she stock supply, including loads of Arizonas up to 7.60. Very common cows sold down to 5.75. Cutters were in fair supply from 6.50@6.75, with low cutters mostly 5.50@6.25. A few good bulls cashed from 6.75@7.25, with medium kinds from 6.00@6.50 and common bulls around 5.50.

CALVES—The small supply was cleaned up at steady to strong prices. Odd lots of milk vealers sold from 12.00@13.00, while half a load of plain, 325-pound Arizonas made 11.00. A shipple lot of 356-pound Arizona vealers made 11.50, while other sales were of plain light vealers and heavy calves from 8.00@10.00.

HOGS—There were thirty-three loads of butchers offered on yesterday's market and with active demand, all offerings were cleaned up on the morning session. Prices were generally 25 cents lower, with yesterday's top resting at 10.25. Six loads of butchers averaging 165 to 190 pounds made this figure while the bulk of good and choice 150 to 200-pound weights went over from 10.00@10.25. Mixed offerings and the majority of 120 to 145-pound averages went over from 9.40@9.90. Packing sows cleared largely from 7.50@8.00, with a small lot of 396-pound butchers at 9.00. Half a load of 91-pound feeder pigs realized 9.00.

SHEEP—None. Medium to choice light and handyweight lambs were quoted from 12.50@13.50, with medium to choice wooled ewes from 5.50@7.00.

Dividend No. 12 on Class A Stock

The Board of Directors has declared the regular quarterly dividend on the Class A Stock of 50c per share, payable February 1, 1928, to holders of record January 16, 1928.*

*In addition to the regular dividend on the Class A Stock an extra dividend of 25 cents per share was declared from the surplus of the Company, payable only in cash on said date.

Holders of Class A Stock may apply the regular dividend to the purchase of additional shares of Class A Stock at the price of $20 per share whereas the present market price is about $49 per share, making the stock dividend rate 10% per annum, yielding, at said present market price, about $4.90 per share per annum.

The dividends will be so applied and the Class A Stock (or scrip certificates for fractional shares) purchased therewith will be delivered to stockholders entitled thereto who do not, on or before January 20, 1928, request payment in cash.

H. C. O'KEEFFE, Secretary.

*Attention is called to the fact that the record date has been changed from December 31, 1927, to January 16, 1928.

Corn Rallies After Drop to New Low Level

CHICAGO, Dec. 27. (Exclusive)—December and March corn at a new low on the crop today and the May equaled the inside figure of the season as the result of local and commission pressure. The decline brought in good support and toward the close there was short covering and a rally of 1¼@1¾c from the inside figure, with net gains of ¾@1¼c, with December 91¾c, May 89¾@89⅝c. Wheat held within a range of ⅜@1¼c, with the finish unchanged to ⅜c higher, the latter on December, which finished at 1.35⅞, with May 1.38¾@1.39⅛. Oats were ⅝c lower to ⅛c higher, the former on December, which broke sharply on scattered liquidation. Rye lost ½@1c.

Receipts of corn were decidedly liberal, with 795 cars reported there and the basis in the sample market was unchanged to 2c lower. Missouri River points also had good arrivals, but country offerings were too small, and there was relatively little pressure of cash grain. The visible supply increased 2,885,000 bushels for the week, and is 23,214,460 bushels against 22,173,000 bushels last year.

A good part of the pressure on corn, early responsible for the break to the low point, came from local operators, but many of them who sold under 83 c/f or May were good buyers above that figure when the market started upward, and offerings were light. There was little in the general run of the news to account for the early selling aside from the larger receipts. Forecast was for unsettled weather over the entire grain belt. Buenos Aires closed ⅛c lower, with Rosario unchanged to ⅛c lower. There were intimations of export business at the Gulf, but quantities were not given, and some bids were as much as 3c out of line. Holidays on the continent and in the United Kingdom tended to check business.

Outside interest in wheat was light, with the December declining early on scattered liquidation, only to rally sharply when buying order appeared. Liverpool was closed, and there was little in the news to induce traders to operate with any degree of activity. Buenos Aires closed unchanged to ⅛c lower and Rosario unchanged.

Export demand at the seaboard was slow, with no sales of consequence reported. Visible supply of wheat decreased 1,970,000 bushels and is 87,612,000 bushels against 64,970,000 bushels last year.

Liquidation developed in December oats with a break to 50¾c, or 1⅜c under Saturday's finish, some stop-loss orders being caught on the way down, but offerings were light when buying orders appeared and part of the loss was recovered. Deferred deliveries were taken by commission houses and showed a firm undertone. There was selling of rye against purchases of wheat and corn, which had a depressing effect.

Interest in lard was mainly among the packers and commission houses, with packers and carriers buying January and selling May at slightly reduced differences. The undertone was stronger and prices closed 7½c higher. Short ribs were unchanged and bellies unchanged to 5c higher.

Stock Issue by Observatories Gets Approval

Star gazers whose curiosity may create a desire to see what the heavens looked like as far back as 13,000 years and who may want to view their appearance 13,000 years in the future will have that desire satisfied if the plans of the American Observatories, a California corporation with headquarters in Los Angeles, are carried out.

The plans of the company are told in an application to J. M. Friedlander, State Corporation Commissioner, for a permit to dispose of stock. Under the terms of a permit given by the commissioner the company was authorized to issue all of its 5000 shares to certain persons. None of the stock will be sold to the general public. Officers of the company are R. S. Brundige, president; William Hartman, vice-president, and Mars Baumgardt, Los Angeles astronomer, treasurer.

The company, according to its application, was organized to deal in optical goods and particularly to acquire an exclusive option to purchase two instruments known as Zeiss Planetariums. These are the devices through which the past and future appearance of the heavens may be viewed. The department was told that the device will project a perfect picture of the skies on a dome-like roof, being so arranged that in a period of twenty-six minutes the location of the stars for a period of 26,000 years, or 13,000 years either way from the present, can be thrown upon the roof screen.

Claims are made by the company that the device has educational advantages, enabling people to study astronomy without taking a special course at a university.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—[Advertisement.

POLLS REGISTER WILL OPEN SOON

Plans for General Listing of Voters Being Made

Work of Enrolling Expected to Begin January 3

Californians to Take Part in Three 1928 Elections

Preparation for the new biennial registration of voters in Los Angeles county, which will start January 3, 1928, is being completed by Registrar of Voters Kerr, who called attention to the fact yesterday that all present affidavits of registration expire the 31st inst.

Following the custom of previous years, Mr. Kerr has ordered that a house-to-house registration canvass be made during January, starting next Monday. When the canvass is completed deputy registrars will be stationed at the principal street corners, in banks and at the City Hall. Branch offices will be established in the City Hall in Long Beach and at the old City Hall in Pasadena.

VOTERS GIVEN RECEIPT

Mr. Kerr pointed out that in this way the voter is given a receipt from his registers. He is requested to check the information on the receipt to see that it is accurate and to save it for future reference.

In registering it will be necessary for the voters to make their party affiliation, Mr. Kerr said. In cases where voters decline to set forth the party with which they expect to affiliate themselves during the coming years, that fact will be noted. They will be unable to vote the ticket of any political party at any primary election, nor for delegates to the conventions of any political party. The recognized parties with which a voter may become affiliated are Republican, Democratic, Prohibition and Socialist.

THREE STATE ELECTIONS

Mr. Kerr also called attention to the fact that an American woman who has married an alien prior to September 22, 1922 has lost her citizenship, and is not eligible to vote until she has been repatriated, even though she has since been divorced by her alien husband has died.

There will be three State elections in 1928. The May Presidential primary for the purpose of electing delegates to the national party conventions will be held May 1. The State and county primary will be held August 28 and the general election November 6. In addition, thirty-five of the cities in the county will hold municipal elections April 9.

The city of Los Angeles has been divided into 1433 precincts for the primary elections and the county into 1174, giving a total of 2607 precincts in city and county.

OFFICES TO BE FILLED

The offices to be filled at the coming general State and county elections are as follow:

One United States Senator, two representatives in Congress from the Ninth and Tenth districts; five State Senators, fifteen members of State Assembly, seventeen Superior Court judges, presiding justice of District Court of Appeals, Second Appellate District; associate justice of District Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, full term; associate justice of the District Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, short term; District Attorney; three members of the County Board of Supervisors; two delegates to State convention; seven members of the county central committee.

Men Sought for National Guard Officers' Class

Young men have a rare opportunity to become officers in the California National Guard by enlisting according to a bulletin issued by Col. Harcourt Hervey, commander of the fifth cavalry, announcing the organization of the fifth candidates' class made up of noncommissioned officers of the One Hundred Sixtieth Infantry, seeking commissions in that unit.

"The backbone of the California National Guard is the noncommissioned officer who is capable of becoming an officer," the bulletin says. "This undoubtedly will be the last time that the school will be held within a twelve-month period. Those who are to turn out the right kind of officers it undoubtedly will be necessary to increase the length of the school to two years."

AUTOS TO BE AUCTIONED

Eleven automobiles confiscated in Liquor Act cases and six unclaimed vehicles will be auctioned off to the highest bidders at the Lincoln Heights jail at 10 a.m. Friday, Capt. Hager announced yesterday. Purchasers will be required to be prepared to pay cash, he said.

H. J. STONIER PAID HONORS BY AD MEN

Former Associates Give Banquet for Bankers' New Director of Education

Presidents of representative service clubs of Los Angeles constituted a delegation of honor to Harold J. Stonier, director-elect of education for the American Bankers' Association, who was given a farewell luncheon by the Los Angeles Advertising Club in the Biltmore ballroom. It was "Hal Stonier day," and the program recalled his achievements as former president of the Los Angeles Advertising Club, and as vice-president of the University of Southern California. Mr. Stonier will leave for New York January 1 to assume his new duties.

Seated at the head table were D. F. McGarry, A. G. Arnoll, Charles F. Millikan, James E. Shelton, T. F. Pierce, Jess Hibbs, Howard Jones, Morley Drury, Jack Dempsey, Edgar H. Klein, Gertrude Maynard and Mrs. W. V. Mathay. The program was arranged by Ray A. Hughes and Ralph C. Minter, acting as spokesmen for the public-speaking class of the club. The former acted as chairman of the day.

Pierre White, leading man of "Rose-Marie," sang; Herbert Corthell of the "Vagabond King," New York, gave a comedy sketch, and dance numbers were presented by Regina Ruby and William Dorval of the musical production, "The Morning After." The introduction of Jack Dempsey, Morley Drury and Howard Jones, University of Southern California coach, evoked ovations. Harry West of the public-speaking class of the club gave "The Making of a Public Speaker." Then Mr. Stonier delivered his farewell address.

HUNTINGTON ESTATE BILL TO BE PAID

Claim of $207,500 Due on Cost of Family History Allowed by Court

More than $300,000 was spent by the late Henry E. Huntington on a compilation of a family history and the purchase of ancient original documents in connection therewith, it has been disclosed by proceedings in probate court.

One of the claims allowed against the Huntington estate is a bill for $207,500 from Maggs Brothers, London, who were retained by Mr. Huntington to assemble material for him. Among the items listed in the bill are:

"Seals, charters and other documents and family papers printed in 1926 and entitled 'The Huntington Papers. The Archives of the Noble Family of Hastings;

"The letters of Lord Chesterfield to Lord Huntington as published in 1923;

"About 24,000 uncatalogued letters, including the residue of the Huntington family papers."

The total account was $307,500, but on January 3, 1927, a few weeks before his death, Mr. Huntington paid $100,000 on account. The balance was passed by the court for payment.

W.C.T.U. MEET FRIDAY

A meeting of Los Angeles chapter of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be conducted Friday at 2 p.m. in the First Methodist Church, Eighth and Hope streets, where a special program will be attended by several guests of honor, including Mrs. Emma Cash Clapp, Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Helms, Mrs. Anna Brown Hall, Mrs. Hattie Doughty, Dr. M. Len Hutchins, and members of the Lucy Hayes, Hyde Park and Crusade unions.

NAVY ORDERS MORE PLANES

Twenty New-Type Loening Amphibians Bought to Aid United States Battle Fleet

Another highly important development in fleet aviation by the United States Navy was revealed yesterday in the battle fleet with the announcement that a contract for the purchase of twenty new-type Loening amphibian planes and spare parts, at a cost of $503,003 has been awarded by the Navy Department to the Loening Aeronautical Engineering Corporation of New York. The new planes, for use with the fleet, will increase greatly the range and efficiency of aerial observation.

They will all be equipped with the new Pratt & Whitney Wasp air-cooled engines of 425 horsepower and the contract marks the success of experiments to redesign the Loening amphibians so that the air-cooled Wasps can be installed instead of the heavier water-cooled motors heretofore used in all flying boats and amphibians.

Tests have proved the new Loening much superior in performance to the old type with the water-cooled engine. The Wasp engine, weighing 500 pounds less than the water-cooled power plant, thereby permits greater loads in fuel supply, armament or personnel.

The Loening amphibians, highly valued in naval circles because of the manifold uses in which they may be employed, are remarkable performers. With a wing spread of forty-five feet and weighing 3240 pounds, they can carry a useful load of 1500 pounds, including fuel, three men, radio, machine guns and bombs. They can take off from the surface of the water in twelve seconds and have a service ceiling of 13,000 feet, with a cruising speed of 125 knots per hour and an endurance of 700 miles. They likewise are being successfully catapulted from the battleships by the new powder-impulse catapults.

INJURIES CAUSED BY GAS HEATER

F. H. Gosnell Hurt as He Tries to Turn Off Flow in Home, But Will Recover

Overcome by gas escaping from a heater, Fred Gosnell, 40 years of age, fell against the stove as he attempted to turn off the flow at his home, 5832 South Olive street, yesterday and sustained first and second-degree burns, contusions and abrasions.

He is at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital in a serious condition, although he is expected to recover.

ONE DIES IN COLLISION WITH AUTO

Hurts Received in Another Traffic Accident May be Fatal to Pedestrian

One man was killed and another probably fatally injured when they were struck by automobiles yesterday, police report. E. G. Russell, whose age and address detectives have been unable to learn, was riding a motorcycle at the intersection of Thirty-sixth street and McClintock avenue when it collided with a car driven by J. M. Landess, 6100 South Vermont avenue. Russell died almost instantly, according to surgeons of the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital. Landess was booked on a technical charge of suspicion of manslaughter.

Albino Feliz, 50 years of age, 321 1-2 North Broadway, sustained a fracture of the skull, concussion and possible internal injuries when run down by a milk truck at Rossmore avenue and Beverly Boulevard. R. E. Simpson, 815 West Fifty-eighth street, driver of the machine, was not held. Feliz is in the General Hospital. His condition is reported as critical.

Burbank to Pay Sewage Charges

The city of Burbank yesterday through City Clerk F. S. Webster, notified the Los Angeles City Council that Burbank is ready to pay $220,000 for the privilege of disposing of Burbank sewage into the Los Angeles outfall sewer. The contract with Burbank is similar to that made with Glendale and other adjoining communities which desired to use the Los Angeles outfall sewer. A demand will be made of Burbank by Los Angeles for the $220,000 and the money will be paid.

Leap Year to Begin Sunday With Wedding

The paradoxical situation of a woman reading the marriage lines for another woman will actually take place in the first Leap Year wedding of 1928, when Rev. Minnie M. Sayers, pastor of the Spiritualist Church of Revelations, officiates in a public ceremony at 12:01 o'clock New Year's Day, in Solomon's Grand-avenue ballroom.

The bride-elect is Iola McGinnis of Portland, Or., now visiting in San Pedro. The prospective bridegroom is H. C. Gregory, a bluejacket stationed on the U.S.S. Medusa, now in the harbor.

The romance began when Gregory visited in the neighborhood of the ranches owned by the parents of his bride-to-be in Southern Oregon. When Fred H. Solomon learned of the approaching marriage, he volunteered the use of the ballroom for the ceremony. A public ball will precede the ceremony.

Last Rites for Pioneer Hotel Man Conducted

Funeral services for Charles Dimick Baker, pioneer Los Angeles resident, who died on Christmas Eve at his home, 1822 Courtney avenue, after an illness of three days, were conducted yesterday morning at St. Ambrose Church, with interment in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Baker, who was 71 years of age, came to this city in 1879. He was a native of New Hampshire. Shortly after coming here he became interested in the hotel business and in the early days was identified with the St. Charles Hotel then located on Main street near the Temple Block, and with the old St. Elmo Hotel. In 1889 he opened the Hollenbeck Hotel, which, for some time, was the leading hotel in the city. He also operated hotels in Santa Monica, Long Beach and Catalina Island. Later he became active in business in Arizona and for the past three years had divided his time between Arizona and California.

He leaves his widow, Margaret Desmond Baker and a nephew, Austin O. Martin of this city.

STREET CAR POLICE AID PLAN FAILS

Utilities Board Ignores Suggestion to Have Crews Report Law Violations

A suggestion that the employees of the Los Angeles Railway Company be requested to report to the police all motorists who drive past street cars loading or discharging passengers at intersections was not approved by the Board of Public Utilities yesterday.

The plan was proposed by Dr. Laura B. Locke, a member of the commission, whose resolution failed for lack of a second to the motion.

During the discussion that followed the other members of the commission expressed their views. It was stated that one of the drawbacks to the plan is that it would distract conductors and motormen from their other duties.

In the resolution Dr. Locke pointed out that between July 1, last, and the first inst., automobiles injured 134 persons who were trying to go to or from street cars. She declared that these accidents were the result of violations of the law, which forbids motorists to pass street cars standing at intersections.

Father Ready for Justice to Take Toll

EL PASO (Tex.) Dec. 27. (AP)—Thomas Hickman, father of William E. Hickman, confessed slayer of Marion Parker, today said he wants to see his son "punished according to his crime."

"Since he has confessed this awful crime," Mr. Hickman said, "I disown him as a son and am content to let the law have him. I was hopeful William was telling the truth when he said he had not murdered the child. Kidnaping was bad enough. Now I want to see him punished according to his crime."

Mr. Hickman, who has been parted from his family for several years, is employed here as a crane operator by the Southern Pacific Company.

Weather conditions forecast today by the local office of the United States Weather Bureau will be unsettled with possibly occasional showers, it was announced yesterday. The weather man believes that the storm is practically over, although things appeared to be a bit uncertain. Moderate temperatures will prevail. The low pressure which produced the storm coming down the coast gradually was moving eastward.

The rainfall total for the storm was 1.14 inches, giving a season's total thus far of 5.49 inches. Last year at this time the total was 4.87 inches. Traces of rain fell in and around Los Angeles yesterday.

HICKMAN FACES QUESTIONS ABOUT ANOTHER MURDER

An investigation was under way last night to determine whether William Edward Hickman, confessed kidnaper, slayer and mutilator of Marion Parker, committed another murder prior to his ghastly deed in Los Angeles. Asst. U. S. Atty. Hutchinson of Chicago yesterday notified local police that last September, while visiting a relative in Cottonwood Falls, Kan., the body of a man, judged to be 75 years of age, was found, shot through the temple, in the ditch along a main highway and that the body apparently had been there for two weeks.

Kansas police were unable to identify the body. A car believed to belong to the dead man was found wrecked in Topeka. The license plates were missing. Last week, when photographs of Hickman were printed in Kansas newspapers, many persons identified the slayer of Marion Parker as the youth seen with the old man before his death. It also was pointed out that Hickman was in the Middle West at this time.

While this investigation was under way County Autopsy Surgeon Wagner announced that in his opinion the Parker girl died of fright and exhaustion and not by strangulation as Hickman declares.

WHAT HE BELIEVES

Dr. Wagner declares he reached his conclusions from the published accounts of the confession, from the torn body, the chemist's report and a personal knowledge of the child. He said:

"I understand that Hickman stated that he strangled the little Parker girl. He may have done or attempted to do what he confessed he did, but her death was not primarily due to strangulation. There were no marks of contusion or constriction about the neck, the lungs were not congested, but on the contrary were quite pale and bloodless, the whites of her eyes were not injected (or blood-shot) nor was the face bloated when I first saw the remains. There were no signs of a struggle anywhere upon the body, no contusions, lacerations or scratches upon the hands, wrists or elsewhere.

"I knew Marion Parker. She was a very nervous child, and when she realized her situation she probably neither slept nor partook of food during those three terrible days, as shown by her empty, contracted stomach, and from her letters written to her parents it would appear that her captor told her he would kill her if not ransomed; therefore, when he applied the towel about her neck, she realized what was about to happen and her heart stopped as a result of fright and exhaustion.

POISON TRACE LACKING

"Hickman stated that she did not struggle, in his first confession reported. There were no indications whatever that he had mistreated his victim and the chemist's reports that no poisons or anesthetics could be found in the organs I submitted to him. [Signed]

"A. F. WAGNER."

When taken before Superior Judge Hardy yesterday Hickman was informed his arraignment was postponed until tomorrow at 2 p.m., when he will be represented by Jerome Walsh, Kansas City lawyer retained by the prisoner's mother, Mrs. Eva Hickman. His appearance in court yesterday was limited in time and words.

After the court scene he insisted he will plead guilty to the indictment charging him with Marion's murder, thus culminating the confession he gave officers Monday night. "I'll plead guilty and stand by my confession regardless of what this attorney advises me to do," said he.

"Sure," he declared, when asked if he stood ready for the consequences of that plea.

Kansas City Attorney to Arrive Here Thursday as Defender of Hickman

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 27. (AP)—Carrying a letter to William Edward Hickman assuring him his family will "stand by him to the end," Jerome Walsh, attorney and youngest member of the State Legislature, today is ready to defend the confessed slayer of Marion Parker.

Announcement of the retention of Walsh as chief of defense counsel was made by Mrs. Eva Hickman, mother of William Edward Hickman, after a conference at her home here, attended by three sons and a daughter.

In addition to credentials provided Walsh, the mother telegraphed Dist.-Atty. Keyes and the Chief of Police in Los Angeles informing them the Kansas City attorney will arrive there Thursday.

"Pending the arrival of Mr. Walsh I must rely on you to see that all my son's legal rights are preserved, which I feel certain you will do," the telegram to the Los Angeles authorities said.

Mrs. Hickman said she will await developments before attempting to go to her son.

Walsh is 25 years of age and is the son of Frank P. Walsh, attorney here.

Steel Barriers Block Way to Hickman Cell

Extraordinary precautions have been taken at the County Jail to guard against any demonstration because of the presence there of William Edward Hickman, according to Jailer Dewar, who announced last night that any unauthorized persons would find it practically impossible to penetrate all the barriers which have been placed between the prisoner and the outside world.

Undersheriff Biscailuz is also on duty at the jail, and last night told visitors how anyone attempting to reach Hickman would have to pass through seven triple-locked doors, all equipped with burglar alarms, before they could get into the tank where the prisoner's cell is located. There is no connection between the ninth floor of the Hall of Justice, and the tenth floor, where the jail begins, Biscailuz added, except by one elevator, and intruders would have to pass two deputies in charge of this before they could get even to the seven steel barriers.

GOWER HEARING TODAY

The City Council will this morning consider protests against the improvement of Gower street from Hollywood Boulevard to Melrose avenue.

SCENE OF DRAMA IN COURT

Hickman Amazes Jostling Throng by Indifference as Judge Sets Arraignment for Thursday

Justice confronted William Edward Hickman in a Los Angeles courtroom yesterday, and her first move was to grant him until Thursday to enter his plea in order that legal aid may come to him from his mother in Kansas. In a courtroom in which the crush of humanity seemed to tower to the very ceiling the appearance and demeanor of confessed murderer at the bar of justice astounded those who beheld him.

Superior Judge Hardy, before whom Hickman had been on a forgery charge some months ago, addressed him.

ATTORNEY ON WAY

"William Edward Hickman—is that your true name?" asked the judge.

The young man responded in a voice that was clear and devoid of quavering. "Edward is the second name, Your Honor."

"Have you an attorney?" the judge continued.

"No, your honor."

"You know, of course, that you are entitled to have an attorney?"

The prisoner cast another furtive look up at the judge and said he knew that.

It was then that Dist.-Atty. Keyes, who had been called into conference with Judge Hardy prior to the hearing, arose and informed the court that he had received a telegram from Hickman's mother advising him that she was sending an attorney and asking him to await action until his arrival Thursday.

"I think under the circumstances, Your Honor, that we might let this arraignment go over until this attorney arrives," said Keyes.

GREAT CONFUSION

Judge Hardy concurred, and set the time for arraignment at 2 p.m.

OFFERS TO PAY FOR EXECUTION

Louisianan Proposes to Give Charity $1000 If He Can Kill Hickman

Herber E. Dickard, resident of Monroe, La., yesterday in a telegram offered to donate $1000 to any recommended charity in Los Angeles if he be given permission to pull the trap or close the skitch which will cause the death of William Edward Hickman, slayer of Marion Parker, provided that the State of California decrees the death penalty.

Mr. Dickard further declares that if the State should grant his request he will be more than willing to pay all his expenses to California and return for the purpose of executing the slayer.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

IT SEEMS a pity that Christmas always has to be spoiled by a massacre of the trees.

A good-sized forest is sacrificed every year in a city like Los Angeles.

FESTIVE MORGUES

Just how people make Christmas any happier by hanging presents on the corpse of a murdered tree is not clear.

GROW YOUR OWN TREE

Among more or less civilized people the custom is growing of decorating living trees.

It would be just as easy to buy rooted fir trees in boxes, and they could remain throughout the year — reminder of one day, at least, when it was a friendly world.

CHILDREN'S CHILDREN

I know several people who adopted this custom years ago; and who now hang their presents on tall trees which glow under the weight of their own dolls when they were children.

TACTFUL HELP

In these days of companionate marriages and rough and ready divorces, I don't know what they would do about dividing up the family roof trees.

Plant a tree, perhaps, with each new marriage. You could tell from the forest growing in the yard just how far the domestic saga had progressed. It would save embarrassment.

CONNIE'S WOES

Miss Constance Talmadge has given to the public prints a complaint against the institution of marriage as it has come within the purview of her not inconsiderable experience.

She feels aggrieved that none of her husbands was willing to think of her as an actress within the family circle.

They loved her as an actress, but they wanted her to be domestic or something when the walls of the ancestral castle enveloped her loveliness.

It looks to me as though young men should be specially trained to be husbands of actresses.

Trained to carry coats; applaud and stick favorable notices into press books.

TOOTH PICKING

A gentleman writes me that he is in real trouble.

He says he read in one of our best books of etiquette that you can't pick your teeth at the table; and his wife will not let him pick his teeth on the street.

Where does one pick his teeth?

MODERN EQUIPMENT

He should know that all the best clubs and hotels now have teeth-picking rooms—with sound-deadened walls.

They are equipped with plain or straight tools for the more obvious parts of the work—like the buck teeth or incisors—special elbow-shaped diggers for the difficult angles of the molars.

Special booths where punks are kept burning are provided for those cases complicated by halitosis.

FIRST AID FOR CROOKS

An attorney also writes, inquiring as to the practical philosophy of the government, through its United States marshal, holding an auction sale of the following crook tools:

Two machine guns.
Thirty-four Springfield rifles.
Six airplane bombs.
And various bomb apparatus, cartridges, belts and soft-ball cartridges.

I can't understand, personally, why they don't add a few burglars' jimmies and blackjacks and make a day of it.

HICKMAN READY TO MEET FATE

"I Want Speedy Trial—But Not Too Speedy"

Lawyer to Defend Him on Way from Kansas City

Large Crowd at County Jail When He Arrives

ing relinquished the blue suit he wore in court.

"Suppose your attorney advises you to plead not guilty and stand trial?" he was asked.

"I would plead guilty anyhow."

"You want a speedy trial?"

"Yes, I want a speedy trial." Then after a pause. "But not too speedy."

"What do you mean—not too speedy?"

"Well, I thought they were going to rush me right through the trial today."

The killer, pale faced and rather "wooden" of mien, was sitting on a bench in the jail where he had just changed from his street clothes to the prison blue denim jumper and pants. A table spoon stood up from his jumper pocket and he had a pile of blankets and a tin cup on his knees.

He gave no outward evidence of emotion save once, possibly, with the mention of the name of Mr. Parker, from whom Hickman took $1500 and gave in exchange part of the torso of little Marion Parker.

READY TO SEE HIM

"Would you care to see Mr. Parker?" he was asked.

"Why—" the youth hesitated and a look of tenseness as he gazed straight ahead came into his eyes.

"Why — yes, that is — if he wanted to see me."

"What would you have to say to him?"

"Well, I'd tell him everything in the greatest detail," was the reply.

There is nothing of the once boastful "Fox" in his manner or talk as he sits there on the bench in jail. His hands as he stands before one, have the appearance of being unusually large and strong.

"Have you any comment to make on your mother's sending an attorney here to help you."

"Nothing, except that I did not expect it. But I do not want her to send one if it will cost her money."

"What do you think of the treatment accorded you by the officers since your arrest?"

"Oh, they have treated me just fine."

"About your confession—"

STANDS BY CONFESSION

"Oh, you are not going to publish that, are you?" Hickman broke out, apparently ignorant of the fact that it already had been published.

You stand by that confession?"

"Certainly! I gave it and it is in writing, and I signed it—I'll have to stand by it."

Details of the crime itself were not touched upon except once when Hickman was asked what he had done with the shoes and stockings of the little girl he confessed kidnaping and murdering.

"I threw them away," he said, but could not recall where he had thrown them.

The interview was over; Hickman was led away with his bundle of blankets to a cell. A special guard will watch over him twenty-four hours a day, Jailer Dewar announced.

After Hickman had been locked in his cell he sank on his cot and fell asleep immediately, sleeping soundly for about three-quarters of an hour. When he awoke and was informed that he was to be taken to the identification bureau in the jail to have his fingerprints taken, Hickman collapsed and was in a dead faint for about five minutes. When he was revived he was taken to the bureau.

RUSHED INTO JAIL

Outwitting a sullen crowd of 4000 which lurked about the Hall of Justice yesterday morning, the officers with Hickman in their charge dashed into the east entrance of the building, through the thronged lobby and into the barred jail elevator. Within a few seconds Hickman was standing at the jail office, casually answering the routine questions, while down in the street the crowds waited his appearance.

There was no demonstration, and within thirty minutes, when the news seeped through that he was jailed, the people dispersed. No indication appeared of an effort to harm him, but naturally the thousands were crushed together, resulting in the breaking of the glass of an elevator door.

Detective Inspector Longuevan, who had custody of the extradition papers, received a receipt for his prisoner from Jailer Dewar and the police department stepped out of the case.

Hickman was back in the jail he left last July on probation, and a few minutes later he was before the same court which granted it to him.

FITFUL NIGHT

After his confession he spent a fitful night, coming down from Oakland on the Southern Pacific's Padre. He woke at 3 a.m., and remained dressed thereafter, while the officers discussed the temper of the people of Los Angeles and plans to slip their prisoner safely into the city.

Newspaper men sat up all night, in readiness should a sudden dash be made from the train. Presumably the messages from Los Angeles were reassuring, for he was kept on the train until it reached the point nearest the jail.

Crowds along the right of way were moderate in numbers and cheerful in aspect. It was early at Santa Barbara and few were out. Camera men boarded the train there, and later the baggage car was utilized as an extempore studio.

Hickman ate a substantial breakfast, and waited the word to go, manacled as he was to Detectives Raymond and Lucas. Restrictions were tightened as the car neared Los Angeles, doors were bolted and Southern Pacific agents guarded the coach. At Glendale a crowd of 1000 ran along the train, eagerly looking for the man who called himself a fox.

POLICE CARS WAITING

The train paused at Jackson and Alameda streets and Lucas and Raymond with Hickman between them shot from the vestibule. No one was waiting there, except the drivers of five police cars, and the procession rushed away for the jail. The stop at Jackson street was at 10:10 a.m. and he was jailed at 10:15. He appeared before Judge Hardy at 11:30.

Hickman was dressed in a dark blue suit. He wore a white sport shirt the collar laid back and no necktie. A large black hat was slanted on his head, and at times it fell over his eyes. His pallor, accentuated by his dark hair, gave him the appearance of having every drop of blood drained from his face. He has recovered from his hysterical outburst and has assumed an air of indifference. His voice is loud and well controlled. Occasionally he runs a furtive tongue along his lips, and the eyes dart glances craftily.

At the jail his keepers flew through the crowd, and just his toes struck the ground. He still was panting from the run when he answered Jailer Dewar's routine questions. He said he is 19 years of age, gave his residence as the Bellevue Arms Apartments and his next of kin as his mother. Then Undersheriff Biscailus took him in charge. From the booking office he was "run through" the identification bureau, where he has been before.

FLICKER OF EMOTION

At this time he was notified that in a few minutes he would be arraigned before Judge Hardy. Just a flicker of emotion crossed his face. From court he was taken into Cell No. 1.

There was some speculation yesterday as to the program of the attorney his mother is sending here from Kansas City. Seemingly, Hickman cannot escape the fact that he killed Marion Parker and without reason or justification. That brings him around to a plea of insanity. Due to the action of the Legislature in adopting the Tuller crime bills last winter, much of the slush has been extracted from the insanity plea.

If he aims to thwart the noose by saying he is crazy, a plea of not guilty by reason of insanity must be entered. Otherwise, he is presumed to be sane. He can plead guilty to the fact and also plead insanity, whereupon he is tried on the question of sanity; or he can plead not guilty, with the added insanity plea. Then he will be tried upon the facts, and, if convicted, tried on the insanity plea.

MORE ABOUT CRIMES

Many additional details to Hickman's previous confession of his one-man crime wave through the Middle West, East and California were added by Chief of Police Davis yesterday morning before the push from the Padre at Jackson street.

Hickman, it will be recalled, was granted probation after pleading guilty to forging seven checks of a total estimated as high as forty. His case was continued twenty-six weeks, probation officers gave him a nice report and he was turned over to his mother. They let him out of jail.

Even at that time, it appears, he was toying with the idea of kidnaping a little girl.

Some weeks after his release on probation the family returned to Kansas City. Then, drawing from the confession of this model scholar, he ran away from home and, as he naively relates, made his living by hold-ups. The record, as he brazenly gives the account, is one that any grizzled veteran of Folsom might envy.

CAREER OF CRIME

He says he started out by stealing a car at Kansas City. The scene was Thirty-fourth and Euclid streets. A young man had escorted his girl home and when he came down the steps to his car he met Hickman. Hickman had a .38-caliber automatic, so he went away with the car.

Three days later he held up a drug store at Twenty-ninth and Brooklyn streets, and the next night a drug store at McGee and Thirty-fourth streets. Three other drug-store stick-ups followed in Kansas City, details being somewhat vague in his mind now, there were such numbers.

Then Chicago. Here a grocer lost $20 at the muzzle of the automatic. He committed, he says, "several other" crimes in this week of early October. At Detroit he stole Michigan license plates for his stolen car. There is no itemized list of his depredations here. He drifted eastward to New York, presumably plying that trade of his, then doubled back to Columbus, O., where, he prides himself, he treated the town to a thrill by holding up three places within thirty minutes. The next day he robbed a market, then left the town.

STEALS DEATH CAR

He drove back to Kansas City about November 1.

He did not notify his mother, to whom he had been paroled by the probation officer. It seems she thought he was working in a Chicago motion-picture theater.

He plundered a bit in Kansas City and there he robbed Dr. H. L. Mantz of his Chrysler coupe—the infamous murder car.

In Western Kansas he doubled back to St. Louis, but then drove out to Los Angeles by way of Fort Worth and El Paso. In the latter place he added a .45-caliber pistol to his arsenal.

Arriving in Los Angeles about November 18, he robbed a drug store on Sunset Boulevard of $30. Here he took some toothpaste and some stationery.

Then he started out for San Francisco, where he induced a music-store salesman to accompany him with a trombone, on the representation his father would buy it for him. He stuck a gun in the salesman's face, dumped him out and appropriated the trombone.

GETS DOWN TO "WORK"

He made his next appearance in Los Angeles November 23. He did not trouble to report to the probation officers. Instead, he rented the apartment at the Bellevue Arms and settled down to work at his trade.

First he held up two drug stores, somewhere near his residence. Then he "knocked over" a pair on Glendale Boulevard. In one of them he took some chloroform and ether, which he had a mind to use in the kidnaping, but he says he disposed of the bottles in a trash can in Pershing Square.

He tried a drug store on Hollywood Boulevard, but a little girl screamed at sight of his gun and an old man ran into the street. Hickman says he thought someone might have obtained his license number, so he drove to San Diego and stole the plates from another car. This car had been stolen, used in a robbery, and the plates were missing when it was recovered, but Hickman hasn't added that depredation to his column.

This was a week before Marion Parker was killed and at this time Hickman seriously took up the plot to kidnap a little girl.

TESTS CONTINUE

Research Chemist Welch reported yesterday he has not completed final tests of blood taken by him from the plumbing of the apartment. He has stated, however, that blood appeared in the pipes, which coincides with the confession.

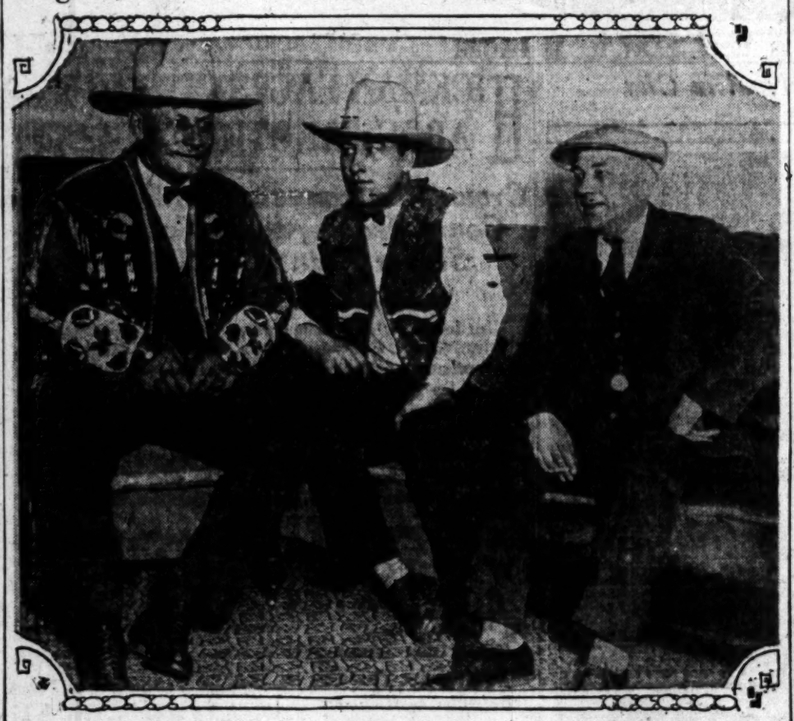
Welch also examined a fluid contained in a vial mailed to Perry M. Parker, father of the murdered child, and pronounced it as containing a high content of ether. Complete analysis has not been made.

On the vial was a label, scrawled: "Death, you are next. The Fox." Police Sergeant Nutt, handwriting expert, said it is a good imitation of Hickman's writing. A sheet of note paper was contained in the envelope. The writer threatened Parker. Police are working on the assumption it is a hoax.

Possibility of a change of venue for Hickman caused Dist.-Atty. West of Orange county yesterday to offer the full resources of his office to the Los Angeles staff in the event it is decided to conduct the trial of Hickman outside this county.

KILLER'S CAPTORS CRAVE TO GO HOME

Oregon Officers Undecided About Theater Offers



Tom Gurdane, Buck Lieuallen and C. G. Matlock

"WE ARE so tired we are dumb."

Just two boys from the wide open spaces, pacing their suite at the Alexandria, wishing to get back home.

That is Chief Tom Gurdane and Lieut. Buck Lieuallen, captors of William Edward Hickman, kidnap-slayer of Marion Parker in California's most horrible crime.

Surrounded with friends and well wishers, flowers and telegrams, Tom and Buck are wishing it was all over.

Tom is 50 years of age. Buck, 28. They are both boys at heart.

"We haven't done so much," Buck said as he stretched back on a divan.

"Shucks, no, we are police officers and get paid for catching criminals," Tom chimed in.

Buck, the younger, took the lead in the conversation—

"We are not used to talking to you newspaper chaps and we don't know what to say. We are so tired we are dumb.

"Sure we are tickled to death in a capture of Hickman. He did not put up a fight because he told me that when Tom here threw his gun on him, he knew he was going to shoot.

"It wasn't so much. We had the description of the car and the man, and naturally when that car came along we just 'drew down' on it and that is all there is to it.

"We have had offers from theatrical chaps. Pantages, West Coast and other agencies, but we don't know what we are going to do.

"There is only one thing I can do, and that is ride horses and shoot fairly straight, and Dad here, (indicating Chief Tom,) he can do the same thing, so I can't see what good we would be in a theater.

"We came down here to Los Angeles to get the reward. That's natural. And we are going back as soon as we can—and that's natural, too."

Both Tom and Bick, in fun, put on their beaded Indian jackets they wear at the annual Pendleton round-up when they received a telegram from H. W. Collins, president of the round-up. Collins said he will be in Los Angeles Friday.

Accompanying Tom and Buck on their trip to Los Angeles are several life-long friends, Judge James A. Fee, F. M. Downey, James H. Estes and C. G. Matlock, all of Pendleton.

LOGIC FORCES SLAYER'S STORY

Chief Cline Uses Strategy to Get Confession

Points Out Defects Until Murderer Breaks

Hickman Writes Nineteen Page Document

William Edward Hickman made his complete confession to Chief of Detectives Cline and then wrote it out in a nineteen-page longhand document, because he is a young man of above average intelligence.

The young killer told the true story of his terrible crime when his intelligence and logical mind would no longer allow him to lie to Chief Cline.

Chief Cline's tactics, which broke down Hickman's network of falsehoods, were perfect, but could only have been applied to a case where the prisoner is not of the stupid variety of criminals. The proof of the system used by the detective is that it worked.

The story of the confession as it is now being told by the officers and authorities involved makes one of the most interesting accounts recorded in police history, and ends with the amazing picture of an arch-criminal writing out his own confession.

According to official records of the case, the work of obtaining the confession was begun just an hour after the prison train left Pendleton, Or.

HOLD CONFERENCE

The first step was a conference between Chief of Detectives Cline, Chief of Police Davis and Dist.-Atty. Keyes. It was decided by the three men that Chief Cline should alone do the questioning of the prisoner, who, up to this point, had admitted the kidnaping and confessed to returning the dismembered body, but denied the killing.

Before going into the compartment where Hickman was guarded by two police officers, Chief Cline worked out his theory, which revolved around his opinion that Hickman was of high intelligence and that once he was convinced his story was illogical and full of holes he would tell the truth.

Chief Cline began his questioning of the prisoner alone. His first step was to ask Hickman to repeat his original statement. With a pencil and bit of paper Chief Cline jotted down notes as Hickman proceeded. Each note had to do with some point in Hickman's story, which the police, with the information and evidence in their hands, could disprove.

POINTS OUT DEFECTS

When Hickman completed his first story Cline then proceeded to outline to him the impossibility of his statements and in a clear and logical manner pointed out to the prisoner he could hardly ask the police to believe the story.

Again and again the youth went over his account of the kidnaping and the return of the body, and again and again he denied the killing and dismemberment. Time after time Chief Cline allowed the boy to complete his story, which he changed each time in the telling to attempt to eliminate the points at conflict with the evidence held by Cline.

From noon Sunday morning until 5 o'clock in the evening the strange game between the determined detective and the desperate criminal went on, with Hickman being backed farther and farther into the corner with each telling of his story.

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the break came. Hickman gave up. His intelligence told him he would have to tell a better story to be believed. There was no better story than the truth and so he told it.

For more than an hour Hickman poured out his awful tale to Chief Cline and after the telling the detective suggested that Hickman write out the account in his own way by longhand.

WRITES FOR HOURS

Early the next morning the task was undertaken by Hickman and for hours he wrote, covering page after page, unfolding a crime so fiendish that the nation caught its breath and sickened.

In nineteen pages Hickman told his tale and then wrote six more describing in detail his motives and emotions. He then signed the documents in the presence of witnesses, requested that a copy be placed in the hands of the judge before whom he was to be tried. Then he went to sleep.

Yesterday Chief Cline made public for the first time just how the search for little Marion Parker's slayer and kidnaper became centered on Hickman.

"Monday night, the 19th inst.," Chief Cline said, "I received a long-distance telephone call from Chief of Police Connor of Kansas City. The call came in answer to a message from me asking for information relative to the murder car used by Hickman which was stolen in Kansas City.

"During the conversation Chief Connor told me that he had been asked by the Los Angeles authorities to look up a fellow named Hickman who was on probation from here and was believed to be in this city. He mentioned that Hickman had been convicted of forgery. Following the conversation it flashed through my mind that it might be well to have our fingerprint man look up Hickman's prints and check them with the ones on the automobile and letters. I instructed him to do so at once, and within ten minutes we had identified the slayer."

GREEK SYMBOLS' USE EXPLAINED

Hickman Says Seeking After Sensationalism Resulted in Crude Efforts

The mystery of the Greek and pseudo-Greek letters of "death" on the kidnaping ransom letters William Edward Hickman sent to Perry Parker, while Marion was held captive, is cleared in the kidnaper's confession.

Hickman told Chief of Police Davis yesterday that he was seeking some sensational manner of portraying the threat of death in his ransom letterheads and went to the library, where he perused several ancient-language books.

He said he struck on using the Greek "delta" and attempted to simulate Greek in the other letters, but to no avail. He said he never belonged to any Greek-letter fraternity.

MASTER ARGUMENT WINS CONFESSION

ARRAIGNMENT OF 'FOX' TENSE

Thursday. And with that Hickman was hustled back to the County Jail three floors above.

The courtroom scene attendant upon Hickman's session was one seldom matched in local court history. News that Hickman had been lodged in jail and would be taken before Judge Hardy for arraignment spread through the building and out on to the street as if by magic, despite the precautions taken by the officers and the speed with which they worked.

Deputy sheriffs and a small army of uniformed officers from the city and the county motorcycle squad were hurried up into the eighth floor of the Hall of Justice, where the courtroom is located. They filled the courtroom. They filled the corridors. They guarded elevators and they guarded all entrances and exits. To add to the confusion and growing tenseness the grand jury filed in. A trial jury from the court already was seated in the jury box. There was a constant milling about.

HIS FACE PALE

Keyes came into the courtroom and went into conference with Judge Hardy.

Suddenly there was a rumble and a mumbling from the crowd in the courtroom and all eyes were fixed on the door to the rear.

Jailer Dewar and Undersheriff Biscailus stepped in, and between them a chunky young man, black-haired, wearing a blue suit and a soft, white shirt with a turndown collar that was thrown open.

His face was as pale as his shirt. He was pushed along the fringe of the crowd of deputies until he stood immediately before the court reporter's table. Everyone in the courtroom stood up and necks were craned. Spectators even stood up on the chairs, looming up like a mountain of humanity over the pale-faced prisoner.

AVERTS HIS EYES

He kept his eyes averted from the crowd; he could not look at it. A Battery of news cameras confronted him. He glanced at them now and then and shutters clicked. His eyes, dark, shifted from here to there. But never did he look full on the crowd around him.

And yet he did not appear outwardly to be nervous—just shifty.

And an audible gasp swept the courtroom at the clearness of his voice and the promptness and precision when he spoke up, "Edward is the second name, Your Honor," showing that he was keenly alert to what was going on.

League Group to Do Honor to Wilson Today

In honor of the birthday anniversary of Woodrow Wilson, the League of Nations Nonpartisan Association has arranged a banquet at the Hotel Alexandria for today.

Prof. David M. Maynard, recently a member of the secretariat of the League of Nations and a recognized authority on economics and political science, will deliver the chief address. Judge Hewitt of Los Angeles will preside. Mrs. William G. McAdoo, daughter of the late President, will be the guest of honor.

A simple program has been arranged, including original piano numbers by Miss Ruth McBride, and selected toasts.

REWARD PLANS DISCUSSED

Mayor's Radio Committee Will Meet Tomorrow; Seattle Merchant Claims Share

With William Edward Hickman, kidnaper and confessed murderer of Marion Parker, safely lodged in the County Jail in Los Angeles, certain plans are being made to pay to his captors the rewards totaling more than $60,000 offered by the State, county, city and individuals throughout Southern California.

Mayor Cryer yesterday announced that the first meeting of the committee to consider the disbursement of the KFWB and KMTR reward fund, which totals slightly more than $31,000, will be at the Mayor's office in the City Hall at 3 p.m. tomorrow.

T. B. Gurdane, Chief of Police of Pendleton, and Sergt. C. L. Lieuallen, Oregon State traffic officer, who captured Hickman, paid a visit to the Mayor yesterday afternoon. They were accompanied by two friends, Judge Fee of Pendleton and J. H. Estes of Long Beach, who formerly was an Oregon deputy sheriff, and former Judge Hewitt, their attorney, who will present their claims for the reward.

COMMITTEE TO BE NAMED

J. R. Fouch, owner of KMIC, announced yesterday that it is likely that a committee, composed of the donors to the reward fund which totals approximately $14,000, will be named in a few days to consider the disposition of the reward.

The first claim for a share of the $5000 reward offered by the county for the arrest of Hickman was received by the Board of Supervisors yesterday from attorneys representing George Willoughby, Seattle haberdasher. The claim was presented in a telegram.

Willoughby is the merchant who first reported having received one of the $20 United States gold certificates in payment for a small purchase of merchandise. Willoughby notified the police and the "Fox's" trail immediately was picked up.

TELEGRAM FROM SEATTLE

The telegram from Willoughby's counsel follows:

"This telegram is in behalf of George Willoughby of Seattle as claimant to rewards for information leading to the apprehension, arrest or conviction of Hickman. Hickman was picked up as a direct result of the information which Willoughby gave to the Seattle Police Department immediately Willoughby had sold him some merchandise and received one of the identified $20 gold certificates.

"Willoughby's action and report was the first definite information to any person or department of Hickman's whereabouts. This information led directly to Hickman's arrest. Chief of Police Seaman, Chief of Detectives Tennat and Captain of Detectives Kent verify all statements herein and recommend a reward to Willoughby, but express no opinion at this time as to amount or basis of complete information of value for reward and possible claims of others.

It was signed—"Hanson, Powell and Ross, attorneys, 806 Dexter Horton Building, Seattle, Wash."

OFFICERS FAVORED

Supervisors McClellan and [illegible] have said they favor paying the principal portion of the reward to the Pendleton officers who made the arrest, and a smaller share to Willoughby. Supervisor Chase expressed the opinion that Willoughby is entitled to $1000.

The part played by Police Detective Barlow in identifying the fingerprint on the ransom letters and in the abandoned Chrysler coupe in finding those of Hickman, is expected to result in a reward paid yesterday by Aimee Semple McPherson. Barlow was presented with a check for $100, the checks of $100 were handed to Chief of Police Curdane of Pendleton and Sergt. Lieuallen and George Willoughby of Seattle. The reward was collected by Mrs. McPherson through a radio appeal.

The $10,000 reward offered by the city and the $1000 each posted by the State and Mayor Cryer still are to be disposed of.

Island Plans Celebration

The advent of the new year will be celebrated at Catalina with a carnival and ball under the auspices of the Island Booster's Club. There will be thirteen prizes offered for the best costumes present.

A mardi gras promenade along the three-mile boardwalk will start at 1 p.m. The grand march is scheduled for 10 p.m. and the fun is to last until 1 a.m., allowing one hour for usher in 1928.

Officials of the Santa Catalina Island Company and members of the Catalina Booster Club announced the entry of a Catalina float in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses New Year's Day. Catalina holly, bathing beauties and several unique features will be embodied in the float.

A New Organic Gland Cream

That Positively Rejuvenates the Skin Deeper Than the Surface and Revolutionizes All Previous Facial Treatments

This exquisite rejuvenating Cream is an entirely new scientific discovery. Two years ago Mme. Bergeron began research, with the aid of a famous Russian Chemist, upon this astounding youth-giving formula.

She knew through her studies in Europe that the women of the inner circles of Russia, Poland and Austria, enjoyed a beauty giving cream of marvelous youthifying qualities. To get the key to this secret formula has meant two years of research and testing to prove its efficiency in this Western climate, where nature tends to age and dry the skin faster than in cooler climates.

Mme. Bergeron has solved the problem, at the same time answering the quest of up-to-date women for a more effective skin rejuvenator.

This Organic Gland Cream acts directly upon the glandular formation of the skin. It positively retards hornification of the outer skin and strengthens and tightens the under-surface skin and facial tissues. It actually puts life into tired, drooping lifeless complexions and through its deep penetration aids the entire organic structure.

In order that this Supreme Gland cream may be enjoyed by ALL of those who seek youth and freshness, Mme. Bergeron has packed this Gland Cream in plain jars, with charming but very simple labels, and used her own Chemical laboratory for preparing, which, together with her consistent conservative overhead, makes it possible for her to present this new Cream to you at the nominal cost of $5.00 and $8.00 for a four and six months' treatment. Which is less than half the price of other Gland Creams.

PAL OF CAPONE SHOT IN HOLD-UP

Captured After Taking $1000 from Branch Bank

Merchant Peppers Bandit With Birdshot

Gangster in Silk "Undies" Admits He's Tough

"Machine Al" Capone, Chicago gang leader, may have been coolly welcomed upon his recent visit to Los Angeles, but his self-styled boy-friend and fellow-townsman, R. McMillen, 23 years of age, had no reason to complain of the warmth of the greeting he received in the form of a load of birdshot yesterday when he walked out of the California Branch Bank, on Sunset Boulevard, after holding up the place and helping himself to $1000 in bills.

Just before noon, McMillen, attired in the last word in natty haberdashery, strolled into the bank, flourished a pistol and backed P. A. Deaton, the manager; R. A. Reid, his assistant, and several customers against the wall, asking them please not to make him by any false moves, because he wasn't so much interested in the money as he was in a good excuse for a little sudden murder. Then, scooping up $1000 in bills from the cashier's cage, he strolled nonchalantly toward the door.

GIRLS AID CAPTURE

Two little girls, Doreth Blumenthal, 14, 1386 Lucille avenue, and Muriel Rauhern, 13, 853 Hyperion avenue, were just entering the bank when they saw McMillen draw his gun. They ran next door and warned C. C. Simpson, proprietor of a hardware store, who hastily loaded a shotgun and ran out into the street.

As the bandit-suspect sauntered out the door, he met Simpson face to face. Simpson ordered him to throw up his hands.

Without giving Simpson a second bid he started off down the street. Simpson threw his gun to his shoulder and let fly with both barrels, peppering McMillen with birdshot. Startled and considerably shaken by the fusillade, McMullen ran for a car parked near the curb, dragged a woman, whose name was not learned, into the front seat and attempted to drive away.

ADMITS HE'S TOUGH

At this point Deaton came running out of the bank with a revolver and was joined by Detective Lieutenant Blaisdell of the stolen-car detail, who was passing at the time, and by Simpson. The three captured McMillen without a struggle. Blaisdell handcuffed him under arrest.

McMillen was taken to the Hill-street Receiving Hospital, where he was treated for his gunshot wounds. The bandit suspect, who admits that he is a tough, was wearing a platinum wrist watch, a pink silk shirt and even pink silk "undies." He gave his occupation as a "man about town."

In his pocket was found a postcard addressed to Mrs. G. B. Mulliner, Emerson avenue and Twenty-fifth street, Springfield Gardens, Long Island, New York, in which he expressed his expectations of being able to take a run East for the holidays. In a postscript he said, "If business calls, have him meet me in Chicago, January 10."

When questioned regarding the postcard, he admitted that he is from Chicago and that he is a good friend of the gangster, Capone.

CONFESSES HOLD-UPS

Upon further questioning by Detective Lieutenants Malina and Brown, the bandit suspect is said to have confessed to a long string of robberies, including holding up the Bank of Italy branch bank at Sixty-eighth street and Western avenue, from which he took $700; another branch bank at Florence and Vermont avenues, which netted him $1000, and a branch of the California Bank at 7521 Sunset Boulevard, in which he made away with $1100.

A folder of travelers' checks found in McMillen's person bore the name of A. K. Bournes, which police believe may be his real name.

He was booked on a charge of robbery, while detectives were checking over his career in prospect of clearing up a number of robberies of the past few weeks.

Harris Milbank, 27 years of age, 1207 North Vega street, Alhambra, who was passing the bank when Simpson fired at McMillen, received a charge of the birdshot in the nose. He was treated at the Hill-street Receiving Hospital and returned to his home.

ROBBED FOURTH TIME

It was the fourth time this California branch bank has been robbed. The last hold-up attempt also proved a fiasco for its perpetrator. J. F. Walton, awaiting trial for the theft, is in the hospital recovering from wounds inflicted on him when Capt. Cahill with a squad of Georgia-street detectives trapped Walton in his room after the hold-up and almost killed him in a gun battle.

A little less than three hours later another bandit walked into a branch of the Bank of Italy at Vermont and Melbourne avenues, ordered Hal Hampton, the manager; J. P. Hampton, his assistant, and Miss Hempstead, his secretary, to lie face down on the floor, snatched $500 in bills and made his escape. There were no customers in the bank at the time. The bandit was described as being about five feet six inches in height, weighing 145 pounds, of dark complexion and wearing a dark-blue suit and black soft hat. A reward of $1000 is offered by the Bank of Italy for his capture, dead or alive.

MOTHER HAS CLEW TO LONG LOST DAUGHTER

An unfounded rumor that her daughter, Cecilia Leonhardt, is living in California, has caused Mrs. Dirk Hardenberg of 550 Jefferson avenue, Zeeland, Mich., to renew her search for her child, who disappeared more than eleven years ago, according to a letter received by The Times. The mother states that the girl eloped from sight October 14, 1916, when one day out from New York aboard a steamer en route from Europe. While steamship officials conducted the girl, who was then 19 years of age, probably committed suicide, she says she has never accepted this belief. Now, after eleven years, the mother has heard that her daughter is in California, possibly married or using another name.

The Southwest is replete with prehistoric ruins and relics. Read about them in the Midwinter Number of The Times, out January 3.

NEW TRIAL ASKED FOR CONFORTI

Sentencing of Prisoner Convicted of Murdering Man in 1916 Delayed

Sentencing of John Conforti, convicted of first-degree murder in connection with the slaying eleven years ago of Antonio Maria Mastroianni, was continued yesterday by Judge Doran to next Tuesday, when counsel for Conforti interposed a motion for a new trial.

The jury deliberated only three hours in reaching a verdict carrying with it the death penalty. Attorneys for Conforti based their motion for a retrial of the case on the usual grounds and it was intimated that if a new trial is not granted an appeal will be taken to the State Supreme Court for a final ruling.

Conforti is asserted to have shot Mastroianni during a quarrel over a woman. He was linked to the crime through fingerprints and brought here for trial from Caldwell, N. J., where he had been serving a term in the New Jersey State penitentiary.

Teachers Start Tests for Posts in City Schools

Examinations for teachers in the Los Angeles City District were held yesterday and more than 750 applicants entered. The tests began at 9 a.m. at Manual Arts High School, where teachers were required to write a paper on some pedagogic phase of their work.

Applicants later were interviewed by a committee of three. These passed upon the teacher's qualifications and personality. The final tests will come this morning when applicants will meet a group of representatives on the superintendant's staff.

Ratings will be announced within the next thirty days. Those who fail to pass the examinations are not barred from taking the test which is held during the Easter vacation.

BRUIN SENT TO TALL TIMBER

Raids on Autos Containing Sweets Result in Damage Suits at Yosemite

Bear hugs and familiarity have bred contempt for the bruins of Yosemite National Park. Two suits for damages are pending because members of the friendly family of park bears broke into an automobile containing a box of candy and tore a lady's gown to shreds.

"All the bears are being driven to the tall timber by the shotgun route, the noise of the explosions and a scattering of buckshot send them back to their haunts of nature," said Roy Emery, former superintendent of hotels for Yosemite National Park who is a guest at the Alexandria. "The bears were allowed to play all over the place but have evinced a partiality for tonneaus containing sweets and will have to return to the woods."

DEATH NOTE GETS CASH AT THEATER

Bandit Collects $1500 at Pantages Box Office While Fifty People Look On

Calmly covering the box-office cashier with a revolver, a lone bandit robbed the Pantages Theater at Seventh and Hill streets of approximately $1500 in cash at 10:30 p.m., yesterday while more than fifty bystanders looked on.

Walking up to the cashier's window the bandit slipped a note written on brown wrapping paper to Miss Marie Lowell, 2333 West Thirtieth street, the cashier. The note read:

"Don't scream, death to you. Give me the money."

The girl complied with the written order as the man menaced her with his gun. He scooped the money up in a canvas bag he had with him, stepped to the curb and escaped in an automobile driven by a confederate.

Miss Lowell said the car in which the bandit escaped was driven from a point across the street at a signal from the hold-up man. They drove west on Seventh street from the scene of the robbery.

She described the man as an American about 23 years of age, of dark complexion, five feet seven inches in height, pimply face and wearing steel rimmed spectacles.

SEAL SALES STILL SHORT ON RETURNS

Tuberculosis Association Anxiously Awaits Reply to Christmas Appeal

Volunteer workers at headquarters of the Christmas Seal sale are awaiting the outcome of the appeal for additional subscriptions for the battle against tuberculosis. Reports received from other large cities indicate that Los Angeles is lagging in this year's seal returns.

This year's goal of $100,000 is necessitated by the comprehensive program of health work in industrial establishments planned for the coming year and if the full amount is not reached a curtailment of the program will be necessary.

Los Angeles' death rate from tuberculosis is 103 per 100,000. Since the first Christmas Seal sale the death toll has been reduced by half, records indicate.

Husband Found Guilty of Hitting Estranged Wife

Because of an asserted attack upon his estranged wife, whom he saw seated in an automobile on Sunset Boulevard with another man, George C. Murphy, 33 years of age, of 6340 Longview avenue, yesterday was given a 180-day suspended sentence for battery by Municipal Judge Wilson.

The defendant was adjudged guilty on testimony of Policeman Saber, who witnessed the incident, and Mrs. Murphy, who accused Murphy of smashing the glass of the automobile and striking her in the jaw. Murphy was captured at Cahuenga avenue and Yucca street by the officer. Meanwhile Mrs. Murphy's companion fled from the scene.

Peter W. Gadd's Funeral Service to Be Tomorrow

Funeral services for Peter W. Gadd, 60 years of age, who died at his home in Glendale Monday night after a lingering illness, are to be conducted from the Little Church of the Flowers at 10 a.m. tomorrow. Interment will be in Forest Lawn Cemetery.

Mr. Gadd leaves his widow, Mrs. Anna Gadd; two brothers, Charles and James Gadd of Detroit; a sister, Mrs. Marie Radeke, also of Detroit; a son, Peter R. Gadd of Los Angeles, and two daughters, Miss Isabelle Gadd and Mrs. Elizabeth Davidson, both of this city.

During the past five years there have been more changes affecting women in Turkey than in the previous 500 years.

A GIRL FAMINE

There is a girl famine in Idaho and Washington which have a surplus of 32,000 and 87,000 men, respectively. Chance for those 2,500,000 Canadian spinsters to swoop down and pick up husbands.

PULLMAN MILLIONS

According to inventory the Pullman Company had among its possessions 2,631,846 towels. But it is feared that some patron of thievish propensities may have swiped one or two of them since the inventory was taken.

VERSATILE ABE

"Lincoln," says a North Carolina newspaper, "wrote the famous Gettysburg address while riding from Washington to Gettysburg on an envelope." Would it have been a better speech had he ridden on a ream of letter paper?

SOUNDS LIKE IT THOUGH

No, Oscar; a sinologist is not a person steeped in sin or anything of the sort. He is one who studies or is versed in Chinese literature, language, history and national characteristics. "Sinology" is derived from "sinai," the Greek word for Chinese.

SAFE OFFERS

A New Jersey woman offers to die instead of Mrs. Ruth Snyder, and a Buffalo salesman offers to throw the switch that will electrocute the murderess. But they didn't expect their names to be omitted from any newspaper reference to their ghastly bids for notoriety.

THE RIVALS

The greatest seismic authority on earth asserts with emphasis that the ancient volcano of Vesuvius is soon due for another disastrous eruption. He has been studying the cone daily for years and says he knows whereof he speaks. But there is Mussolini to reckon with. The chief will not permit even Vesuvius to stage a bigger eruption than he is capable of. If Vesuvius dares to cross eruptions with Mussolini, heaven help Vesuvius!

SENATOR WILL

Maybe State Treasurer Johnson started something when he nominated Will Rogers for the toga of Hiram Johnson, notwithstanding that Will is a Democrat. As a Senator he might be very useful. For example, he could use his spurs to hurry up the Colorado River legislation and his lariat might prove useful in corraling recalcitrants. He would know how to brand their ownership on them.

What has never happened before, he could make the Congressional Record interesting. Its subscription list, if it have any, would doubtless swell to enormous proportions and the government printer would not feel that he had lived in vain. Whenever Senator Borah or Heflin should begin to rant and show signs of going up into the air, Will could function efficiently and stick the sharp end of a joke into them and let the wind out.

With Coolidge at one end of Pennsylvania avenue whittling and Will at the other joking, an even balance of government would be maintained. Washington would become one of the most famous resorts in the world and the vagaries of addlepated politicians would slink off into the dismal past.

A joker in that Senatorial pack might greatly improve the game!

A JOB FOR A NATION

Army engineers working on the Mississippi flood-control program have suggested financing plans which are unacceptable to the States that suffered the disastrous inundation of last spring. The army proposals would put a major part of the expense upon the taxpayers of the threatened States, an unjust and unwise method of financing the flood-control work that is the duty of the nation.

The watersheds that send their annual floods down into the great valley bind the States they traverse to aid in their control farther south and the responsibility spreads out both by physical and economic extension to every part of the Union. Nature has created the conditions that menace the Mississippi Valley and the covenants that bind the Union together make the nation as a whole responsible.

If a foreign enemy should attack Florida, Oregon, or Maine the taxpayers and soldiers of the Mississippi Valley would be expected to bear their share of the business of defense. The river is a no less formidable foe, but has the advantage of being able to serve the whole country when it is under control. It is at once a national foe, until conquered, and a national asset thereafter.

The country should bear the chief burden of the cost and the Federal government as such should make and consummate the plans for flood control without undue influence brought to bear by the flood States and without undue taxation upon them. It is a job for a nation.

MAKE AN EXAMPLE

An additional reason for swift justice and the full death penalty for the confessed slayer of Marion Parker and all other proved murderers, is furnished by the revelation of William Edward Hickman that he had studied and was familiar with every detail of the Loeb-Leopold case in Chicago. He did not say so, but it is safe to assume that he was influenced in the kidnaping and slaying plot he concocted and carried out, by the leniency accorded to Loeb and Leopold. He boasted that the Parker case had outdone the Chicago horror; said he had got more publicity than the Windy City degenerates.

"Chicago justice" permitted this treacherous and cold-blooded pair to escape the gallows; California has an opportunity to demonstrate to other would-be slayers that they may themselves expect to meet death, and to counteract the effect of the Chicago error.

This is the more necessary since the details of the slaying of Hickman's pitiful little victim have been made known to a whole continent. Hickman has had wide notoriety—one of the things he appeared to crave—and if he should be dealt with with the same sort of mistaken mercy he received at the time he was convicted of forgery he will be a hero to himself and to other notoriety seekers who may desire to surpass his crime. It, however, Hickman is swiftly hanged by due process of law, his punishment also will receive wide publicity.

Though there were wide differences in the education, training and opportunities of Leopold and Loeb on the one hand, and of Hickman on the other, their mentalities seem strikingly alike. Not only was the crime in each case a butchery of unparalleled ferocity, not only was the victim in each case a helpless child, but in each appears an attitude of exaggerated ego, a craving for the limelight, a callous lack of consideration for the rights of others—all characteristics of an indivdiual who should be hanged to rid society of a taint, if for no other reason.

Hickman boasts that he surpassed Loeb and Leopold. It is true neither of these fiends thought of the super-fiendish idea of returning the mutilated body of their child-victim and collecting ransom money in the heartless method of Hickman. But Loeb and Leopold richly deserved death. That they did not get it is not a reason for a second, similar mistake.

An example in the case of Hickman will help to prove that lenient treatment for murderers is the exception and not the rule.

Hickman's latest confession tends to support the earlier belief that the crime was one of perversion of the Sadistic type. It should be repeated that Sadism is not a form of insanity, medical or legal, and that there is no reason in law or morals why a Sadist should not suffer the penalty prescribed by law for any crimes he commits. The possession of such a tendency obviously makes a man more dangerous to society than the ordinary murderer and furnishes, instead of an excuse for his crime, an additional reason why he should be executed.

THE NEWSBOY

Hundreds of Los Angeles newsboys, gathered for their annual Christmas dinner, had among their number several who will be leaders of the community in years to come, unless all precedents are upset. For newsboys get a training in initiative and self-reliance that is hard to beat, and these qualities are of paramount importance in the struggle of life.

It is a platitude that those for whom everything is made easy in youth seldom develop into great men, while the traits that are gained by the overcoming of difficulties are the ones that count; but it is none the less true for being often repeated. Necessity is the mother of other things besides invention—among them resourcefulness.

These youthful merchants, who make their living by estimating their market, buying and reselling at a profit, differ in degree only, not in kind, from the heads of the greatest mercantile establishments; their problems are the same on a smaller scale, and it is not surprising that the lessons learned on the street corners are turned to good account in later years. Los Angeles has many a man in a place of trust and responsibility who sold papers in his youth, and learned then honesty, fair play, ingenuity and the ability to make quick decisions, as well as many of the quirks of human nature. These are all grateful for the nature of their early training and are not disposed to grumble at the fate which denied them an easier time.

HOT BLOOD IN TENNESSEE

In spite of the fact that Tennessee repudiates the theory of the simian origin of the race and holds to its divine genesis, human life seems to be held pretty cheap in that State. During the last decade its leading city, Memphis, has had the highest average homicide rate in the United States, ranging up to 88 per 100,000 population, far greater even than Chicago, while in other Tennessee cities and towns local feuds have resulted in much bloodshed.

Instead of bending their efforts upon the prevention of crime, the constabulary of Marion county, Tennessee, have been nursing a feud with the police of South Pittsburgh, and this has culminated in a pitched battle in which five men, including the sheriff of the county and the city marshal of South Pittsburgh, were slain, while four persons were seriously wounded, some fatally. The trouble arose over an industrial strike in which the police charged that the sheriff and his men were lending sympathy to the strikers as against the strike breakers, who were being aided by the police.

If these reports are true it may be that both sides had been overstepping their authority, but it was a matter that might easily have been settled without bloodshed, though that seems to be the court of last resort in the lawless districts of Tennessee, where the metropolitan homicide rate runs four to five times higher than in California and more than ten times higher than in Oregon or Washington. And yet the West is called "the land of the outlaw."

HARD ON THE CHIEF

After buying a used sedan for $1000 the Chief of Police of Passaic, N. J., learned that it was a stolen car. The chief is out the $1000, but the citizens of Passaic are not worrying, as auto thieves are now giving their town a wide berth because of the newly aroused police vigilance. When this sort of thing strikes home it strikes hard.

The LEE SIDE O' LA
By Lee Shippey

CAN you remember when other men in the elevator used to remove their hats when a man wearing a wrist watch entered? And when the good story of the day was about the boy at officers' training camp who wrote his father he needed a wrist watch and received the indignant response: "Here's your wrist-pretty, but you'll have to go out and buy your corset-covers yourself"? Then any man caught with time hanging heavily on his wrist was suspected of effeminacy, if not of total demoralization. But now wrist watches are gaining so steadily in favor that the jewelers in Los Angeles wonder how they'll ever get rid of all the old-style watches they have on hand.

"Fully two-thirds of the young people, the graduates and others who expect watches for presents, want wrist watches now," one dealer tells us.

Which shows how the frowned-on things of yesterday become the proper things of today.

Bad for Pickpockets

One result of wrist-watch popularity is the serious injury it has worked to the time-dishonored game of picking pockets. It appears to have put some of the pickpockets entirely off watch.

Touching Incident

But there still are pickpockets. Thoughtless of the fact that one of our hip pockets was bulging as if with a heavy purse, we crowded through a jam the other night, and when we got out of it our pocket no longer bulged. The bulge really had been caused by a big pouch—a tobacco pouch in which was crammed our best loved pipe. We are very eager to discover the thief. And so is our wife, but from a different motive. She wants to reward him.

By the Way

We heard a girl who didn't look, to us, a day over 20 give away her age. She said she could remember when it was quite common for men in office building elevators to remove their hats when ladies entered.

For More and Safer Marriages

Dear Lee-Sider: Gifts for the 1928 bride should consist of rubber hammers, elastic picture wire, scented chloroform, etc. Coupons should be attached to the marriage license to be detached as transfers. For the groom, armored vests, etc. Talk about too many wives rushing to divorce courts! The news columns show that not nearly enough understand that it is much more profitable to employ lawyers than hammers in disposing of husbands.—B. D.

The Play's the Thing

Speaking of contrivances to make things easier for the modern wife, has anything else been invented which cuts down housework as much as auction bridge?

Evidence

Girl we know tried to telephone a society bridge expert other day, and her husband answered: "Is this where Mrs. So-and-so lives?" asked the girl. "Well," answered a hungry voice, "I'd hardly say she lives here. She sleeps here and breakfasts here sometimes."

Shoppes

Dear L. S.: French styles are everywhere. In the Wilshire district I discovered a Hot Dog and Hamburger Shoppe.—James M. Warnack.

Pure Meanness

Most folks seem to think "shoppe" is French, because it appears so often in beauty shoppe signs. We heard a woman who knows most of her social onions seriously explaining that it should be pronounced shoppay. But we never met a Frenchman who ever saw that old English word before coming to America.

Yet it should be right to put the accent on the "pay," for that's what the name is intended to make you do.

ROOTING OUT THE REDS

If the determined efforts now being made by the Chinese Nationalists to root out the Red element that is causing so much trouble all over China is persisted in there will not be many of those mischief-makers left in that country. As the relentless ax descends upon neck after neck of the Communist conspirators many others of their ilk are fleeing the country, and it begins to look as if the Nationalists would make good their promise to purge China of their evil presence.

Without doubt soviet Russia was at the bottom of the Canton rebellion and other outbreaks. Definite proof is said to have been brought that Russian military officers led the rebels and that Russian gold was spent to overthrow the Nationalists and set up sovietism. The Nationalists are said to have been visiting upon Russian emissaries punishment of a savage nature, though the reports are probably exaggerated. Whether exaggerated or not, these reports have been sufficient to stir up Moscow, which seeks redress for the "crimes" committed against Russian officials and plain citizens in China.

Russia has not relished the severing of diplomatic relations by the Cantonese government. That it is in line with the treatment accorded her by several other nations does not make the rupture the more acceptable. In fact, it has placed Russia, to a greater extent than ever, in the position of the lone wolf among nations. The Russian leaders had looked upon China as easy prey. They did not take the expulsion of Michael Borodin and his fellow-conspirators from Nanking last April as an answer to their overtures to China, but later returned to the charge, and when opportunity presented itself during the absence of the Nationalist troops from Canton they seized that city and put it under soviet rule. However, their triumph was short-lived, lasting less than two days. The Nationalists returned, stormed the city with shot and shell and killed more than 3000 people, after which the Reds laid down their arms, and many of their leaders are reported to have been decapitated, while the rank and file were expelled from Chinese territory.

Has Russia learned a lesson? It is to be doubted. She will be crawling back again with specious pleas calculated to ingratiate her with China, just as she has done in the case of America, Britain and other countries that have set their faces against her. In our own case such pleas never will avail, as Bolshevism and its unholy practices are, from the American viewpoint, wholly unacceptable on any grounds.

ARREST RECKLESS DRIVERS!

Without making any criticism of the police, the Traffic Commission in a timely report recommends the rigid enforcement of all traffic regulations at all times. To aid in this enforcement the commission points out the necessity for more motorcycles rather than automobiles for the traffic bureau. The reason for these recommendations is the growing number of fatalities and property damage due to the motorists' disregard for safety rules designed for the protection of the public.

The chief work of the present traffic police force is in the regulation of downtown traffic at the crossings, the arrest of speeders in the outlying districts and also of persons responsible for accidents. One of the greatest offenses against the traffic law—reckless driving, so fraught with danger to life and property, though not necessarily resulting in accident—rarely meets with the punishment it deserves. On Christmas Day reckless drivers were out in full force, many of them "under the influence," and that they did not do more damage than was reported is due to the caution of steady-going drivers and pedestrians.

Reckless drivers can be and should be arrested whether speeding or not, for though at the time of the arrest the recklessness may not have caused an accident, the driver might kill somebody at the next crossing unless checked in his wild career. Sane motorists can attest to the countless "close shaves" they have had with such drivers, as well as an occasional fender-smashing, wheel-breaking, or perhaps personal injury, while the lives of pedestrians often are placed in danger by these fools at the wheel.

IMPOSSIBLE!

By James J. Montague

A naturalist suggests that in the future baboons will be taught to make good house-servants.

Though servants are scarce, and can hardly be had
For love or persuasion of pelf,
Though I know it would presently drive me quite mad
To tidy the place up myself,
And my conscience is never serenely at ease,
When this labor is done by my spouse,
I would rather cook meals and scrub floors on my knees
Than to have a baboon in the house.

He might be a highly efficient baboon,
He might be amazingly able,
And life in the place might run on like a rune,
While he dusted or waited on table.
But although each meal that he served was a feast
And the salad delightfully dressed,
Whenever I happened to glance at the beast
I should always feel qualms of unrest.

For baboons have the strength of a half dozen men;
They can compass a throat with a fist,
And when they get riled—as they do now and then—
Their wrath is too great to resist.
I should always be suffering spasms of dread
Lest I might be a bit indiscreet—
And my servant take umbrage at something I said,
And pitch me clear out in the street.

I may have to move from the house where I dwell
And for which my attachment is deep,
And go to some costly and cheerless hotel,
Because servants grow harder to keep.
But though I shall mourn for the snug little cot
Where the roses are fragrant in June,
I shall move if I must, for I swear I shall not
Be served by a dog-faced baboon!

Away With Such Stuff

MONROVIA, Dec. 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The revision of the criminal laws of this State was an excellent piece of work, but the revisionists did not go far enough.

The burglar, the bank robber, the hold-up man is in most cases, a murderer at heart and should be treated as such. The kidnaper is as bad or worse and his portion should be death, sans flowers, sans sob-sisters and sans appeal.

Already this degenerate with a long trail of crimes culminating in the foulest murder, has been visited by a clergyman who prayed with him, took a message for his mother declaring he was not guilty, and says that "he acted as a perfect gentleman all the time I was with him." Away with such stuff! OLD-TIMER.

A Change of Heart

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] What to do with the criminals seems to be a problem. I used to oppose capital punishment, but have undergone a change of heart. There seems no other remedy that will apply in some cases. Anyone who tries to commit robbery with a gun is a potential murderer and there ought to be price on his head, dead or alive.

The age of altruism is not here yet, much as we may wish it were. Human skunks must be exterminated, or held in check by fear of the very worst that can be made to happen to them. Those who have been held up by gunmen have treated the matter much too lightly in the past; those who do this and get away with it just go on from bad to worse, as can be seen in the record of the arch-fiend, Hickman.

SUBSCRIBER.

Radio Beats Sleuthing

YUCAIPA, Dec. 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Although there have been many factors that have helped in the capture of Hickman, no one should overlook the great help of radio in this case. Not only did the broadcast stations raise a large percentage of the reward money, which served as an incentive to everyone, but they also gave such detailed descriptions of Hickman, his ransom money, his stolen auto, etc., that it was even difficult for such an experienced criminal as "The Fox" to escape.

No doubt, in a case like this, every broadcast station in the country would be more than glad to co-operate with the police. And the listening public would be more than willing to aid any plan that would help protect their school children. And no doubt, the co-operation of radio would deter many criminals from attempting kidnaping, as there is nothing they hate more than publicity.

PAUL W. FORD.

An Insult to Foxes

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I write to deprecate, deplore and condemn the use of the word fox to designate Hickman.

This appellation not only carries the idea that the recipient is high up in the scale of animal wisdom, but further concedes qualities that are commendable.

Applied in the past to sundry criminals, it has given them color, especially in the mind of youth; and exacted from us something akin to admiration for superior acumen.

Hickman really is dirty and drab and also utterly stupid.

How utterly then does fox fail to carry to the reader the horror that must attend any reference to this cold, slimy, loathsome, stupid beast. S. P. WRIGHT.

Criminal Fiction

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Cannot something be done at this time by the reading public to bring to the recognition of editors of leading publications the frightful consequences of stories exploiting the arch-criminal, making of him a clever hero, glorying in outwitting the law and the officers of the law; committing his crimes, the details of which are carefully calculated by the author so as to be bomb proof; exact examples to the criminal mind how to plan and carry out diabolical crimes and outwit capture? A clean up along these lines and of the sob-sister stuff in the sensational newspapers would do its part in making crime less attractive, lucrative and safe in the minds of the young of the present generation. G. S. T.

A Terrible Occupation

COVINA, Dec. 23.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Wouldn't this be a good time for all the nations of the earth to take all their submarines out to the middle of the Atlantic and sink them, and all agree never to build any more? Let's start this ball rolling and maybe these poor sailors will not have died in vain.

CONTROL OF AUSTRIA TO END

The civil control, which succeeded the military control of Austria by the Allies, is to end January 31. Such was the decision of the Council of Ambassadors at Paris. At the same time Austria was reminded of her promise to suppress the municipal guard in Vienna and to enact a law against the manufacture and exportation of war material.—[Pathfinder.

SCULPTOR WORKS IN ALUMINUM

Portrait busts in aluminum is the latest fad in the artistic circles of London. Maurice Lambert of Chelsea is the artist, and the showing of his first work brought him an order from no less a person than the daughter of the Gackwar of Baroda, beautiful Maharanee of Cooch Behar. Lambert plans to come to the United States.—[Pathfinder.

WITH THE A.E.F.

BY EDWARD HINCKLEY

Wound Stripes

When Gen. Pershing inspected troops he invariably asked men wearing wound stripes where they were wounded. Sometimes they told him, "In the elbow," or "In the thigh," whereas the general wanted to know on what front. So when orders came down for preparations for the big Third Army review in Coblenz, company commanders were instructed to inform their men in this regard.

The troops at Winningen were Third Army headquarters troops so the captain was bound to keep the men well informed and it was his custom in reading orders of importance to emphasize them by some light or laconic remark which would impress the point on the men. When he read the orders at retreat he called especial attention to the ambiguity possible in answering the general's questions and to accentuate the thing required, he remarked: "And so when Gen. Pershing asks you where you were shot, say at Cheppy, or Very, or Romagne or wherever it was and don't say 'in the neck, sir' or 'in the arm.' You, Nelson, with your four wound stripes, are bound to be questioned, so say, 'at Cantigny, Chateau-Thierry, Montfaucon and Romagne'—not in the pants." And, of course, the men laughed and Nelson remembered.

The inspection of the Winningen outfit started smartly enough. The general, colonel and captain walked slowly along between ranks, the general asking each wounded man where he was wounded and between such queries aiming questions at the captain. "Everything all right with your company and regiment, captain?" asked Gen. Pershing. "Any suggestions for improvement or any matter for complaint?"—or words to that effect. "No, sir," the captain replied as the colonel gave him a cold and steady look in the right eye.

Then they reached Private Nelson. Nelson was nervous, trying to stand at rigid attention, but fidgeting a bit despite his effort. The general's eye rested on those four eloquent wound stripes. "Ah! You have done great service! Where were you wounded, young man?"

Nelson swallowed hard, fidgeted harder and began laboriously, "Sir, at Cantigny"—he swallowed twice and struggled on—"at Chateau-Thierry"—he looked down and up sidewise, for the boy who raced through enemy fire was awed before his general—"at Montfaucon, at East Romagne," and then his worries deepened—had he recited correctly, had he told all?—and again he swallowed hard, "and—and—and not in the pants, sir." Anyway, Nelson had remembered.

The captain pulled his head as far down in his choker collar as it would sink. The colonel looked straight ahead and appeared bored. The doughboys in two ranks felt deeply for their captain, but shook not much worse than 'Frisco in the quake and managed to be silent. The general never winked an eyelash. He commended the lad and walked on and the captain saluted with thanks as he was bidden to march off with a company rated excellent.

KNOW-YOUR-CITY-CLUBS

BY WYNONAH JOHNSON

In many of the public schools of the city there are organized Know-Your-City clubs which take the young generation faring forth into the highways and byways in pursuit of acquaintance with buildings, manufacturies, parks, art galleries and historic spots.

Such a course should be compulsory, and credit given for a thorough knowledge of the city ere the young idea has shot any higher than the fifth grade, for excursions under supervision in and about the city are enjoyable, instructive, and wholesome, and the young excursionists are then in the highly desirable position to point out all points of interest to visiting friends and relatives during the next season's numerous conventions.

Maybe all New Yorkers do not visit Grant's Tomb and never see the Statue of Liberty close, but all Angelenos, especially junior citizens, should know the location and interesting facts concerning the objects of interest in their own city and there is no better way than through such an organization in the public schools.

FRANKLIN AS AN ADVERTISER

"Franklin was first to turn to great account the engine of advertising," says Parton, his biographer.

A handbill, probably advertising an auction sale, was the first order obtained by Franklin's print shop. The charge for this work would about equal $2.50 in our present currency. Job printing at that time was limited to handbills to be stuck to trees and fences, and usually advertised an auction sale, a traveling show, or something similar.

J. Linton Engle, in "Benjamin Franklin, Founder," says: "Franklin early added to his printing business a stationer's shop, in which he kept blanks of all sorts, including bills of lading. These bills formerly began with 'Shipped by the Grace of God,' etc. Some people of Philadelphia objected to this phraseology as making light of serious things. Franklin therefore printed some without those words and inserted in his paper the following advertisement:

"Bills of lading for sale at this office with or without the Grace of God."

One of America's leading institutions of learning, the University of Pennsylvania, stands today as a result of Franklin's endeavors. He prepared, printed and put into circulation a pamphlet setting forth his suggestions for the establishment of an academy to educate the youth of the colony.—[Howard Boyce in the Nation's Business.

MODERN INSTANCES

PEN POINTS

As we understand Al, the fan can make you dry, but it can't make you dry up.

Modern novels are much alike. There are only so many things naughty people can do.

A burglar isn't like a rich man. He doesn't think he is persecuted when you make him give it back.

Nobody cares a whoop whether Carol gets the throne or not, but it would be interesting to watch his wives fight.

You can tell when you are approaching a center of culture. The hot dogs and the kids are fresh.

There's no outward indication that your friend made a trip to Europe except that he says "control" and wants to borrow money.

Considering the hills Congress passes, those never reported out of committee must be awful.

Logic is just a slow mastication process of arriving at truths known to females by the time they learn to talk.

Americanism: Thinking the stranger must be rich because he seems grouchy.

A hick town is a place where people buy from a mail order house because they are find of one another.

Another nice thing about Dobbin: He didn't choke you when you wished to hurry away to avoid a policeman's pertinent remarks.

There are two kinds of auto tires. Those who get trimmed, and trimmers who occasionally take time out to make little ones of big ones.

A balcony seat in a theater makes you wonder why the proper eagle instead of the bald eagle was selected as the national emblem.

Society pays for its sins. It can make Willie speak pieces on Sunday afternoon and now it must listen to his after-dinner speeches.

An author isn't a success until he's been dead long enough for his manuscripts to be worth more than he got for them.

Correct this sentence: "I'm sorry," said the sweetie, "but I can't accept expensive gifts from a man."

Boston's new telephone directory is coming out in two parts so that Bostonians can add "wrong volume" to their conversations.

The House of Representatives votes to abolish the motor car tax but to retain the inheritance tax. You may as well live and learn buying cars.

If nature abhors a vacuum, it must know how the sporting world feels between football and baseball seasons.

Department of Commerce says the world is using fewer cars now than it did before the war. Must be less speech-making nowadays.

RIPPLING RHYMES by Walt Mason
BLACK AND WHITE

I read a book by Cyrus Wood and say, "This man can write, but makes his villain much too black, his hero much too white. No real emotions ever warm the villain's tawdry soul; he is a fiend in human form, and sin's his only pose. The hero never steps aside from virtue's shining road, and all the gifts the gods provide are on the gent bestowed." And so I take the costly tome and throw it at the cat; it sends a green pain through my dome to read a book like that. For I have known a million souls since first I came to earth, and some were moral heavyweights and some had little worth. And never have I known a wight without a fault or flaw, who always did the thing that's right, and neither coarse or raw. And never have I known a man with no redeeming trait, who always had a virtuous plan, and pulled off nothing straight. Our characters are often mixed, some blemish always we find; there is no virtue that is fixed in yonder twinkling stars. Our minds are changeable as airs that veer from east to west; today we shun all evil snares, and nobly do our best; tomorrow we may meet some trick that we today would spurn, may hit a neighbor with a brick, or other sinful turn. That neighbor, who has won renown by being low and base, may well be chasing through the town to bust some orphan's face. He may be dropping for the day the chore that mark his brow, to take a luscious bale of hay to some poor widow's cow. There's none entirely good or bad, entirely white or black, and so I'm feeling glad and sad, when reading Walt Mason's Whack.

Commission to Temper Its "Hard-Boiled" Policy

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

President Coolidge will not name a successor to H. A. Bellows on the radio commission until after the Christmas recess of Congress. A considerable number of candidates have been selected who are acceptable to the President but so far all have declined to accept for personal reasons. The President's successor must come from the States of Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois or Indiana.

It probably will be some time before the entire commission is filled as a chairman elected from the five members, three of whom must be Republicans and two Democrats.

DELAY IN SENATE

There undoubtedly will be some delay in submitting the three names to the Senate. The first row to be met by the Senate when members return will be known as Senator Watson, chairman of the Interstate Commerce committee, their opposition to confirmation of Charles H. Caldwell, New York, Ira E. Dean Pickard, Kansas, as members of the radio commission.

Opposition to Caldwell is based on the fact that he once was connected with the National Broadcasting Company while Pickard's opposition is on the ground that he is not in fact a resident and has no legal residence in the State from which appointed. For some time he has lived in Washington as an employee of the Department of Agriculture.

TEMPERS POLICY

Another bit of radio news from Washington comes somewhat as a surprise. The radio commission has been the victim of propaganda about its "hard-boiled" policy, quoting Commissioner Pickard, and the fact that it will eventually cut radio stations down from 96 to 694, this from their bulletins.

Now we learn that the commission believes that after all it may not be necessary to make a wholesale slaughter of what would virtually amount to confiscation of private property.

Instead they "believe satisfactory operating conditions may be attained by elimination of some stations by the transfer of small broadcasters to the 1200 to 1500-kilocycle channel where they will not interfere with the broadcast of "quality" programs on the "preferred" channels.

RADIO BRIDGE ABANDONED

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 27. (Special)—Harold A. Lafount, fifth federal Radio commissioner, who this week to inspect radio stations on the Pacific Coast, will not hold public hearings as at first planned but will conduct conferences with radio studio staffs and others, following a definite schedule in each case.

RADIO ENGINEERS TO DISCUSS PROBLEMS

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Radio problems of the past and problems of the future will make up the theme of the three-day annual congress of the Institute of Radio Engineers, opening January 9. Technicians and scientists from all parts of the world will participate.

Such matters as broadcast channel interference, high power transmitters, new receivers and the recent International Radio Conference are among the subjects to be presented.

Auctioneer to Face Court in Bankrupt Case

Michael M. Weisz, an auctioneer, was arrested yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Mangerina on a charge of conspiracy to violate the national Bankruptcy Act.

He and others were named on a recent secret Federal grand-jury indictment. He was taken into custody at 539 South Los Angeles street. Weisz furnished $3000 bail and was released pending arraignment in court. It is charged he and others, also indicted, secreted assets from creditors and defrauded them out of several thousand dollars.

A special list of notable things to be seen in Southern California is given in the Midwinter Number of The Times, out January 3.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

Before an altar of Easter lilies, ferns and tall cathedral candles Miss Hallie E. Estes, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie A. Este of Ocean Park, became the bride last evening of Carl Blissett Fix, the ceremony taking place in the drawing-room of the home of William Andrews Clark, Jr., in West Adams at Cimarron street, with Dean Harry Beal officiating. The house was transformed into a garden of exquisite blossoms under the personal direction of Mrs. R. D. Shepherd, a close friend, who was in charge of all the wedding arrangements.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, George Leslie Smith, and was most charming in a gown of soft white satin heavily embroidered in seed pearls. She wore as headdress a cap fashioned from an old lace heirloom lent by Mrs. Ralph Heath, and carried an arm shower of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Judson Claudius Rives was the matron of honor and only attendant, wearing a frock of pale green, and carried an arm shower of yellow Paul Prunet rosebuds and maidenhair fern. William Andrews Clark, Jr., served Mr. Fix as best man.

Following the ceremony there was a wedding dinner, the dining table being centered with a broad low plaque of bride's rosebuds and maidenhair fern, and an immense wedding cake which had been made and baked by Mrs. Benjamin F. Bledsoe, another intimate friend of the bride. Seated at the table were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Blissett Fix, Mr. and Mrs. George Leslie Smith (Caroline Estes,) sister of the bride; Dean Harry Beal, William Andrews Clark, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Shepherd, Mr. and Mrs. Judson Claudius Rives, Mr. and Mrs. Georg Schneevoigt, Mrs. Robert Irwin Rogers, Mrs. Sloan Orcutt, Mrs. Juana Neal Levy and Mgr. Tonello. Mrs. Smith received her guests in a frock of pink beaded georgette and wore a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Fix left immediately after the wedding dinner for their honeymoon trip through the north, and after their return will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Smith at 1237 South Gramercy Place. Only the most intimate friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony and were guests at the wedding dinner.

Mrs. Fix, who has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Smith here, has a host of warm friends in Los Angeles and Southern California, while Mr. Fix, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fix of Lewiston, Idaho, was graduated from the University of Washington, where he is affiliated with the Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Church Ceremony

Miss Alma Barman, the lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barman of South Normandie avenue, was married at 11 o'clock yesterday morning in All Saints' Episcopal Church to Werner Von Binzer, son of Mrs. Von Binzer and the late Maj. Max Von Binzer of Davenport, Iowa, with Rev. J. Arthur Evans officiating. The church was beautifully decorated in Christmas colors, with the altar a mass of red poinsettias and white candles, and during the ceremony the wedding marches and soft accompaniment were played by Mrs. Gamble, church organist.

Cream beige satin-back crepe, worn with a spring hat of cream colored Philippine straw and short veil of ecru lace formed the costume of the bride, who carried yellow orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. John Lind Carson Rollins of Portland was Miss Barman's matron of honor, wearing a blue gown of silk crepe with skirt of shirred velvet, and hat of blue felt, with which she wore lavender orchids. Miss Lorraine Vincent, as flower girl, wore a Parisian frock of pale pink with blue flowers, with a large pink poke bonnet, with long blue velvet streamers, and carried an old-fashioned bouquets. Mr. Rollins served Mr. Von Binzer as best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to the immediate family at the home of the bride's parents, after which Mr. and Mrs. Von Binzer left for Del Monte and a motor trip through the north. Upon their return they will make their home in Los Angeles at 2441 Third avenue.

Mrs. Von Binzer was graduated from the Marlborough School for Girls, and Mr. Von Binzer from the Western Military Academy and Cornell University, where he was a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Kelly-McDavid

In the beautiful setting of the Wilshire Boulevard Congregational Church trimmed with a profusion of cut flowers and palms, Miss Dorotha Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Scott Kelly, became the bride yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock of Dr. John S. McDavid, with Dr. Frank Dyer officiating in the presence of friends and relatives of the family.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was beautiful in a Lanvin model gown of duchesse satin and chiffon, trimmed with seed pearls and crystals. The bridal veil was caught with orange blossoms, while she carried a shower bouquet of roses, orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Melvin Mann (Helen Herzer) was matron of honor in a charming gown of orchid velvet with matching hat, carrying an armful of butterfly roses. Miss Marian Williaman, Miss Margaret Miller and Mrs. Ray Copeland (Mary Anderson) were the attendants, wearing frocks of shaded blue with bouffant tulle skirts and tight bodices of heavenly blue velvet, with maline poke-shaped hats, and carrying arm bouquets of Columbia roses.

Dixon Seaver Kelly, brother of the bride, served Dr. McDavid as best man, the ushers being Dr. J. Edwin Kirkpatrick, Robert Dillingham Hallsted, Kenneth L. Colburn, D. Scott Welsh and Olney S. Black.

Immediately after the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. McDavid left for a motor trip through the south, and they will leave Thursday for the East, to pass New Year's with Dr. McDavid's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Logan McDavid of Hillsboro, Ill. After a short visit they will make their permanent home at Oak Park Manor, Chicago.

Mrs. McDavid attended the Marlborough School and the University of California at Los Angeles, where she was a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Dr. McDavid was a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity at the University of Illinois, later graduating in medicine from Northwestern. After two years of study in Cook county he is now specializing in pedriatics.

Engagement Announced

Another delightful affair of yesterday was the luncheon with which Miss Elizabeth MacKay Schaefer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Spencer G. Schaefer, entertained at her parents' home, the occasion serving to announce to her coterie of young friends her engagement to William Charnley Atwater, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Charnley Atwater of Hollywood. The news was told at the dessert course, when the ice creams were molded on the forms of Kewpies holding tiny parchment scrolls with the names of the betrothed engraved. The wedding will be an event of the early part of March.

The house throughout was beautifully decorated in Yuletide motif, with Christmas wreaths and crimson ribbons, while on one of the luncheon tables was a miniature Christmas tree and on the other was a broad, long centerpiece of red roses, poinsettias and ferns.

Miss Schaefer was graduated from Marlborough School in 1925, and last year Dr. and Mrs. Schaefer took her abroad. Mr. Atwater is an alumnus of Stanford University, and is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Those included in the luncheon party were Miss Charlotte Edwards, Miss Violette Johnson, Miss Helen Bullock, Miss Evelyn Kingston, Miss Adele Brown, Miss Florence Hamburger, Miss Louise Gordon, Miss Maxine Kells, Miss Louise Crabtree, Miss Ruth Richardson, Miss Houston Jones, Miss Geraldine Birks, Miss Eleanore Walles, Miss Marie Lewis, Miss Jane Sanborn, Miss Luella Busch, Mrs. Aileen McDonald, formerly of Kansas City, who has just come to make her home here; Mrs. David Baldwin Heyler, Mrs. Rush Cameron Hinsdale, Mrs. Albert Charles Rogers, Mrs. Charleton Ames, Mrs. Elmer Wreden and Mrs. Robert H. Edwards, Jr.

COUPLE LEAVE ON HONEYMOON

Wedding Solemnized at Church Service

[Rayhuff-Richter studios]

Mrs. Werner von Binzer

THE marriage of Miss Alma Barman, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barman of South Normandie avenue, and Werner Von Binzer was solemnized yesterday morning, the ceremony taking place at 11 o'clock in All Saints' Church, with Rev. J. Arthur Evans officiating.

After a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents for the immediate relatives and bridal party, Mr. and Mrs. Von Binzer left for their honeymoon, motoring north, and after their return will make their home in Third avenue.

Mr. Barman gave his daughter in marriage while Mr. and Mrs. John Lind Carson Rollins (Katherine Philipa) were their only attendants and little Lorraine Vincent was the dainty flower girl.

Mr. Von Bixner is the son of the late Maj. Max Von Binzer and Mrs. Von Binzer of Davenport, Iowa.

CHEF WYMAN'S Suggestions for TOMORROW'S MENU

VEAL CHILI

Cut one pound of cooked veal into half-inch dice and remove all skin, fat and gristle. Melt over a slow fire three tablespoonfuls of butter, add one thinly chopped onion and cook until the onions are clear; stir in three tablespoonfuls of flour, work smooth and add slowly one and one-half cupfuls of meat stock, one cupful of tomato puree, one tablespoonful of chili powder and half a teaspoonful of salt; stir and cook until the mixture boils and the onion is tender, add the veal, skin, off the fat and serve in a border of cooked red beans or steamed rice.

NOUGAT CAKE

Bake two layers of sponge cake, cook and spread between the layers and over the top and sides a nougat filling made by boiling without stirring one cupful of sugar, four tablespoonfuls of white corn syrup and half a cupful of water; boil until a little will form a hard ball when dropped in cold water. Pour slowly into the stiffly beaten white of one egg and beat until its starts to stiffen; add one-third of a cupful of chopped nut meats, beat until cold and thick, add one teaspoonful of vanilla extract and spread on the cake.

BREADED PORK CHOPS

Have the butcher cut the required number of rib pork chops about half an inch thick, remove the extra fat, season with salt and pepper, dip in flour and place in a hot frying pan. Cook, turning often, until a nice golden brown; reduce the heat and cook until the centers are done. Cover the bottom of a hot platter with the thickened tomato sauce, lay on the cooked pork chops and garnish the dish with browned sweet potatoes.

CELERY AND NUT SALAD

Mix in a cold bowl one and a half cupfuls of peeled, cored and diced pineapple with one cupful and a half of chopped celery, one cupful of nut meats, broken in coarse pieces, one chopped green pepper, one chopped pimiento and one cupful of cooked salad dressing. Serve on lettuce-covered plates.

MOCK MINCE PIE

Peel, core and chop fine about eight tart apples and mix them with one cupful of seedless raisins, half a cupful of chopped seeded raisins, half a cupful of currants, four tablespoonfuls of chopped candied orange peel, half a teaspoonful each of cinnamon, cloves, mace and allspice, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of nutmeg, three tablespoonfuls of cider and the grated rind and juice of one lemon. Pour the mixture into a pastry-lined pie tin, cover with strips of pastry and bake in a moderate oven.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

NO DISGRACE FOR YEAR OLD BABY TO TAKE BOTTLE

Mrs. J. S. M. writes: "My baby weighed eight and three-fourths pounds at birth and was twenty-two inches long. He is eight months, weighs twenty-one pounds and is twenty-eight and one-half inches long. Is his weight all right for his height? And does that make any difference if he is healthy?

"People say he ought to have vegetable soup instead of a bottle. He has four bottles a day. Is there any disgrace at this age in giving a baby a bottle?"

Answer

The baby is a good weight for his birth weight and is adding the inches in just about the right ratio. Usually the child adds nine inches the first year. The weight should be in proportion to the height, for very tall thin babies might weigh enough, for their ages, and still be too thin for their height. Your baby isn't.

Let the baby have his bottles but begin to teach him slowly to drink out of a cup, too, so that when about eighteen months old he will be entirely away from bottles and will be taking all his nournishment from a cup. Do this gradually and it won't be a task. He should be having vegetable soup and this can gradually replace one bottle feeding. You may have the feeding leaflet for the usual self-addressed and stamped envelope.

Don't Force a Bottle

Mrs. A. H. A.: Give the baby his orange juice and water from a spoon if he prefers that to a bottle. She is only four months. Later, if she hasn't enough to eat and you have to wean her, she may accept the bottle because it contains something for which she has a real desire. Green stools mean very little if everything else is all right. Many stools turn green after standing. This is a rather meaningless chemical change which is not significant if there is no fever or illness.

Mrs. B. F. F.: Read answer above to Mrs. J. S. M. relative to weight and height. A baby doesn't wear his fat off by being too active. He just isn't getting enough to eat to make him fat. Won't you write for leaflets on feeding and cod liver oil? Stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

Dr. McCoy will answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Los Angeles Times. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

FASTING FOR ANEMIA

The cure of pernicious anemia depends upon eliminating every possible disease toxemia from the body. A thorough bodily housecleaning is necessary in order to stop the vicious destruction of the red blood cells.

The anemic toxemia is like a devouring monster in the body which eats up the red cells and drinks up the hemoglobin. Starving this toxic monster out seems to be the only solution to the cure of primary anemia. Fasting on plain water will bring about very desirable results, but experience has shown that the orange fast is even more satisfactory. I believe this is because of the fact that while the poisons are being eliminated from the body because of the absence of assimilation and the stimulating effect of the citric acid of the orange, at the same time the calcium and other minerals contained in the orange juice supply the blood with the needed vitamins and the alkaline bases of which the blood has been depleted.

The normal number of red cells should be something over 5,000,000, but in pernicious anemia often 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 of these cells are destroyed, leaving only 1,000,000 or 2,000,000 remaining. I have never known of a single case of pernicious anemia that did not immediately begin to improve on the orange fast, and the almost unbelievable fact is that the number of red cells is actually increased at a rapid rate when no food of any kind other than orange juice is used. Laboratory tests will prove this assertion, and I have yet to see a case where this change does not take place.

This is not a new discovery of mine, but I have used this same method of treatment for anemia for many years with unvarying results. The improvement in the quality of the blood stream will usually continue for about two weeks, but after that it seems that not much change takes place, so those with primary anemia are usually advised to fast on orange juice for from one to two weeks.

Of course, the usual intestinal irrigation should be taken as with any other kind of fast, and two or three sponge or shower baths used every day.

The patient is advised to take deep breathing exercises from the very start, and to continue taking these breathing exercises indefinitely, even after it seems the cure has been affected. This extra breathing supplies the blood with more oxygen with which to carry on its work, and this extra oxygen is badly needed by the patient.

After the fast the diet should be similar to that which I recommend in my weekly health menus given in this column. These menus includs a plentiful supply of green vegetables which, of course, are needed by everyone, whether or not they have a tendency to anemia. At the same time, the patient must take up a regular course of physical culture exercising and do everything to increase functional activity in every muscle and organ of the body.

Blood tests should be made frequently, and if there is any material loss after the blood cell increase, it is advisable to take another short fast the same as before, and then return to the diet, alternating with the fasting and dieting for some time if it seems necessary until all of the bodily toxins which may have been responsible for the original trouble are entirely removed.

The secret of this treatment is elimination of toxins. The blood will then quickly become normal.

I will gladly send you further information on this ailment. Just write to me in care of this newspaper and ask for my articles on anemia. This is part of the service your newspaper gives you.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: Reader of your Helpful Talks writes: "Kindly state the cause of redness of the nose on a woman of 35 who has never tasted liquors of any kind."

Answer: A red nose comes from some kind of intoxication, and as you say you do not use liquors, the redness of your nose must come from auto-intoxication or self-poisoning from principally intestinal toxins.

Q.: T. J. D. asks: "Where can I buy brown rice? How much acidolliphilus milk should a person take where gastritis is present? Can one take tomatoes? I should like to add that your letters are very helpful."

A.: Brown rice can be purchased in any health food store—just ask for unpolished rice. I usually recommend a sweet milk diet for gastritis, but different kinds of sour milk may sometimes be used with benefit. With either the sweet or sour milk the patient should take about three quarts daily, using a glassful every hour. Tomatoes are a healthful food, but must be used in careful combination with other foods.

Q.: Reader asks: "What would you recommend for a person on whom destructive thoughts have gotten such a hold that she broods continually? The family doctor says there is nothing organically wrong, but she is becoming a total wreck physically and mentally."

A.: She should have a good diagnosis made and find out the condition of her alimentary canal. It will, no doubt, be found that the abdominal organs are prolapsed low in the pelvis. Nothing will produce nervousness in a woman and lead to neurasthenia and insanity as quickly as congestion in the pelvic organs, and prolapsus is one of the commonest causes of such a condition.

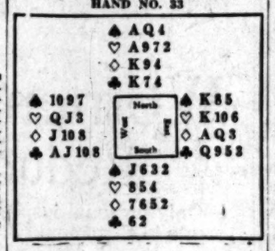
HAND NO. 33



South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

Each day we shall publish a complete hand presented by Mr. Whitehead, together with a chart upon which the bidding and play may be noted. These hands may be played with cards by one, two, three or four players, before filling in the chart.

Tomorrow we shall publish Mr. Whitehead's explanation of today's hand, with the important features emphasized.

Fill out your own chart and compare it tomorrow with Mr. Whitehead's method. Do this each day and carefully read Mr. Whitehead's explanation, and you will find that your knowledge of the game will progress rapidly. Compare your bidding and play with that of your friends—the comparison may be illuminating.

Record the bids that each player should make, assuming that he does not see any of the other hands. These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i.e., as though all four hands were exposed.

NOTE—In recording the Auction, or the play, use "S" for Spades, "H" for Hearts, "D" for Diamonds, and "C" for Clubs. Use "N. T." for No Trump, "DBL" for double, "REDBL" for redouble.

Final Bid 3 H..... Played by South

Salient Points of the Bidding

Following North's No Trump takeout in denial of normal support for his partner's Heart bid, East passes, content to defend against a possible game at No Trump by leading out his Club suit. South naturally rebids his Hearts. His two-Heart bid passing around to East, East now bids three Clubs. South overcalls with three Hearts, his hand justifying the bid without reference to his partner's holding.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 1. It is clear to East that West's four of Clubs was a singleton and that South therefore must hold another Club, the nine.

Trick 2. East leads the seven of Diamonds, because, holding the Ace of trumps, he is in position to take advantage of the partnership holding of two singletons.

Trick 4. West trumps his partner's good Queen of Clubs in order to give East the desired ruff in Diamonds, as East's seven, led up to the double tenace in Dummy, must have been a singleton. Had East been absolutely certain, that West held two Hearts, he would have forced the ruff by leading the eight of Clubs instead of the Queen.

Trick 5. A ruff gives East-West the essential trick to save game.

DECISION IN CEMETERY SUIT GIVEN

Court's Ruling to Permit Colored People to Have Own Burial Grounds

Colored people in Los Angeles county, estimated to number close to 75,000, are to be allowed to maintain their own separate cemetery under a judgment yesterday by Superior Judge Tappaan in a suit brought to prohibit further interments in Paradise Cemetery, near the Santa Fe oil fields.

The suit, asking a permanent injunction and disinterment of six coffins already placed beneath the ground, was brought by Kenneth Carter, H. B. Miller, E. P. Saunders, C. E. Archer, J. E. Hathaway, S. A. Crawford and others. Defendants named were A. H. Chotiner and H. B. Sher, promoters of the burial ground, Samuel White, William Green, George Black and others.

The complainants charged that the ten-acre tract for a cemetery is on a hump of ground which will result in a menace to the well water supply of the district, that there are 100 residents within a mile of the area and that a permit has not been obtained from the Board of Supervisors.

The defendants denied that there are 100 residents near-by, that hence there is no need of the permit, and that there is another cemetery within one-half mile against which there is no protest. It also was claimed the grounds are near the oil fields and are an improvement and that $30,000 damages will be entailed in case the project is stopped.

Miss Margaret Bevan, first Lord Mayor of Liverpool, Eng., has had her salary raised from $10,000 to $15,000 a year.

SUGAR SACK SAVES LIFE OF GROCE

Storekeeper Tells Court Gun Battle as Bandit to Hold Him Up

When George W. Thomas, [illegible] of age, of 1174 East Twenty-[illegible] street, attempted to burglarize a grocery store at 2220 South Hoover street on the 14th inst., he found the proprietor, Harry Thomas, waiting for him behind a sack of sugar with a pistol, it was revealed today in Municipal Judge Baird's court.

After a command to "throw up some sky" had failed to halt the self-asserted burglar, Thomas opened fire. But the intruder refused to retreat and entered into the spirit of the gun battle by shooting it out with the proprietor until he fell with a bullet in the chest.

Questioned by Dep. Dist. Atty. [illegible] land, Thomas declared several times narrowly missed his head, and that he probably would have been killed were it not for the 100-pound sack of sugar.

Judge Baird ordered the defendant held for trial on a charge of attempted burglary and assault with a deadly weapon. Bail is fixed at $5000.

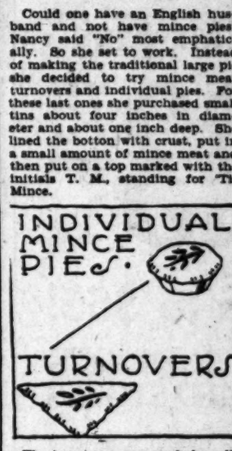
Hot Mince Pie Profoundly Pleases Peter Page

By Florence La Ganke

Could one have an English husband and not have mince pies? Nancy said "No" most emphatically. So she set to work. Instead of making the traditional large pie she decided to try mince meat turnovers and individual pies. For these last ones she purchased small tins about four inches in diameter and about one inch deep. She lined the botton with crust, put in a small amount of mince meat and then put on a top marked with the initials T. M., standing for 'Tis Mince.



The turnovers were made by rolling out the pie crust into four-inch squares. On the lower half she placed a spoonful of mince meat. Then the top was folded over diagonal fashion. The edge of the lower triangle was brushed with water and the top half pinched on. A spray of flowers ornamented the tops triangle. This allowed the juice and steam to ooze out. After baking, the turnovers were dusted with powdered sugar and served hot with a generous wedge of cheese.

One can't eat many mince pies and stay slender. If you want to reduce write to Nancy Page, care of this paper. Inclose a stamped self-addressed envelope. Ask for her leaflet on reducing.

FLAMES VULCANIZE ENTIRE TIRE SHOP

Thousand Casings Burn as Blaze Sweeps Building

BETWEEN 1000 and 1200 used and new automobile tires were destroyed yesterday when the Max Tire Shop, in a one-story frame stucco building building at 1335 South Main street, was swept by flames. The fire started when the proprietor, Max Thurston, tripped over a tire and spilled a bucket of tire cement near the flaming retread molds.

An adjoining frame building was slightly damaged by the blaze and a battery shop and lunch counter in the tire building suffered losses estimated at approximately $100 each. Damage to the stock of new tires, many of which were ruined by the flames, and to the shop was estimated by Thurston at about $3500. An automobile which was parked at the side of the tire shop was also injured to the extent of about $100 by the flames.

SOMEBODY'S BEEN GIVING GIRLS AWAY

Most Popular Christmas Gift This Year for "Him" is "Her," Record Shows

The clerks of the marriage-license bureau heaved a vast sigh of relief as they locked their door at 5 o'clock last night.

They had done the biggest day's business in the history of the office. They had issued 130 licenses and had taken applications for 145 more.

One day in 1924—the clerks last night were too tired to remember just what day it was—185 licenses were issued, but that was nothing to compare with yesterday's feat. The new marriage law, requiring filing of a three-day notice of intention before a license can issue, had doubled the routine connected with each application.

Rosamund Rice, chief deputy, said 100 applications is a normal day's business.

CHILDREN TO BE ENTERTAINED

Hollywood children will be given a special Christmas entertainment by the Hollywood Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at 3 p.m. today. Mrs. Robert T. Hoyt, chairman of the committee in charge, has arranged for a showing of the motion picture, "Peter Pan," for the boys and girls at the La Mirada Theater, Vine street and Santa Monica Boulevard. In addition to this other pictures appropriate for children will be exhibited.

Film Juveniles Fiesta Feature

Baby stars of the future will make their bow Friday night at the film church fiesta to be presented in the Tiffany-Stahl studios by St. Mary of the Angels Church of Hollywood as a benefit affair. Rev. Neal Dodd, rector, says that practically every aspiring film juvenile is represented on the program.

All forms of dancing, with eccentric and comedy numbers, will feature the revue, while vocal solos, monologues, instrumental selections and novelties will be presented.

SHAKESPEARE CLUB IN PROGRAM TOMORROW

Under the supervision of Victor Fisher, its vice-president, the Los Angeles Shakespeare Club at 8 p.m. tomorrow will present a holiday Shakespearean and musical program at the Shakespeare clubrooms, 715 Park View avenue, in which professional local talent and members of the club will participate. The program will open with the ghost scene from "Hamlet," and will be followed by various scenes from six or seven other Shakespearean plays. The musical program will be given by singers and musicians from local musical circles. Incidental music accompanying the various scenes will be provided by Ames Sharp.

LIP READING IN SCHOOLS

Beginning, elementary and advanced classes in lip reading are to be organized at public schools at Seventeenth and Georgia streets and Venice Boulevard and Hill street next week. Classes will meet between 1 and 4 p.m., and 7 to 9 p.m. daily except Saturday and Sunday.

NEWS OF THE CAFES

The New Year's Eve celebration at the Hotel Virginia in Long Beach next Saturday evening will be a double event. For those attending the first scheduled party, dinner will be served from 6 to 7:30 o'clock, followed by dancing in the ballroom. The second party which is planned will start with a supper supreme, beginning at 9 o'clock. This function will be enlivened by special entertainment, with dancing in the dining-room, and with favors and souvenirs for the guests. Many tourists in Los Angeles are making reservations to sojourn at the Virginia for the week-end and to take advantage of the big New Year's celebration.

MOUNTAIN RESORT DANCE

A dance on New Year's Eve is planned for the guests of Switzer-Land mountain resort, located in the Upper Arroyo Seco Canyon, as stated by Lloyd B. Austin, owner and operator.

On New Year's Day a special chicken dinner will be served.

Dr. John Marvin Dean, formerly of the First Baptist Church of Pasadena, and now pastor of the Hinson Memorial Church in Portland, Or., will deliver a New Year's sermon on Sunday in the Switzer-Land Chapel.

AT SHEPERD'S CAFE

Plans for New Year's Eve in Sheperd's Cafe, in North Western avenue, near Beverly Boulevard, include a group of special entertainers, novelties galore, and a promise from the management that patrons of the cafe will not be crowded on that night of all cafe nights.

Sheperd's Cafe boasts of "one of the finest dance floors" in the city. Peppy dance music is provided.

STILLWELL'S CAMP

A gala time is promised for guests of Stillwell's Camp at Big Bear Lake over the New Year's holidays, as announced by Mrs. Carl W. Stillwell, proprietor of that popular Big Bear resort.

A special turkey dinner will be served on Saturday and Sunday in the main dining-room of the camp. An orchestra has been in camp since last Saturday, providing concert and dance music, and will remain until after the New Year's celebration.

Many reservations have been made at Stillwell's Camp to date for the holiday period.

AT BREAKERS HOTEL

On New Year's Eve the Breakers Hotel, Long Beach, will give a gala entertainment in the Roof Garden Ballroom from 8:30 to midnight, with dancing and special features throughout the evening. There will be favors for all dinner guests of the hotel.

On New Year's Day the hotel will serve a special dinner both in the coffee shop and in the Hall of the Galleons, from noon until 8:30 o'clock.

WHITE HOUSE CAFE

The White House Cafe, centrally located in Laguna Beach, is preparing a special New Year's turkey dinner to be served on Sunday and Monday, from 12 noon until 8 p.m.

The cafe is owned and operated by R. O. Bird, who for a number of years conducted the Palm Cafe in San Juan Capistrano.

Wig Specialist to Open New Beauty Salon

William Hepner, hair and wig specialist who operates a chain of beauty salons, will open his newest establishment in Hollywood a week from today, he announced yesterday. The place is to be the finest of all in the chain, Hepner said. The fittings and interior decorations alone cost more than $50,000.

Many innovations and conveniences for patrons which have been evolved through years of experience are to be incorporated in the Hollywood shop, which is in the Spanish shopping studios on Sunset Boulevard adjacent to the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce Building. A complete theatrical department is included.

Hepner, who is internationally known as a creator and designer of hair styles, evolved the new arrangement for Irene Castle. He designed a transformation for Lillian Russell which also was famous in its day.

BURIAL OF MATRIARCH SET TODAY

Senora Gardea, Aged Head of Numerous Family Here, Succumbs to Illness

Funeral services for Senora Rose Gardea, who died Monday morning at 110 years of age, will be conducted this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Juana Cano, with whom she lived, at 1708 East Twenty-second street. Interment will follow at Evergreen Cemetery.

Senora Gardea was born in Mexico and came to Los Angeles about twelve years ago to be with her children and grandchildren. Although 110 years old she never had been ill a day in her life, according to members of the family, until three months ago when she was forced to her bed by an illness from which she could not rally.

Senora Gardea leaves about 250 descendants, children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren, most of whom live in and around Los Angeles.

YACHT TO BE SOLD

Federal Marshal Will Auction Ship for Creditors

Ida, a yacht, will be sold at auction this morning at 11 o'clock at

Michael M. Weisz, an autioneer, Pedro, by United States Marshal Sittel. The vessel, which was attached recently, will be sold for the benefit of the creditors.

It also was announced by Marshal Sittel that on January 3 he will sell various articles seized in raids on bootleggers' places. This sale will be at the Los Angeles Warehouse. The articles include everything from barrels to bottling machines.

Vindication Means Little to Dog, Now

When a mother dog bites a person whom she thinks will molest her puppies, she is entitled to the benefit of the doubt in court and can not be declared vicious on these grounds, according to a ruling handed down yesterday by Superior Judge Hardy.

The case in question was appealed to the Superior Court by Walter E. Hoover, 1040 East Fifty-seventh street, who was convicted of harboring a vicious dog, after a trial before Municipal Judge Haas.

The dog, a female Airedale, it is charged, bit 9-year-old Mary Stone when she attempted to pet it. The child's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Bent, 5631 South Central street, complained to the police and an investigating officer shot the animal.

Hoover, following his conviction in Municipal Court, was ordered to pay a fine of $25 or serve five days in jail.

Girl Thought Kidnaped Says Sailor Innocent

Found in San Pedro Monday night, 12-year-old Frances Caen, who disappeared from her home at 3842 Woodlawn avenue nearly a week ago, was returned to Los Angeles yesterday. She was taken to Juvenile Hall where she is said to have admitted she left home of her own accord, thereby eliminating theories entertained by police that she had been kidnaped.

Frances was with a sailor whose name police decline to reveal, when discovered, but the man is not being held, according to Detective-Captain Jones of the Juvenile Bureau. The girl is reported as having exonerated her companion from all blame.

DISBARMENT OF LAWYER POSTPONED

Judgment in Marmaduke Case Suspended by Court Until January 3

Entry of the disbarment judgment against Attorney Morgan Marmaduke was suspended until January 3 yesterday by Superior Judge Montgomery to allow the completion of the trial of Roy Yeomans for robbery, in which Marmaduke was appearing for the defendant.

Request for the suspended entry of judgment was made by Superior Judge Fricke, in whose court Yeomans was being tried before a jury. Marmaduke concluded his work for Yeomans and the jury found the latter guilty on the robbery charge.

Marmaduke was disbarred Friday morning by Judge Montgomery when the attorney failed to appear to defend himself from accusations of two former clients, who testified that he had failed to properly account for money requested.

It is stated Marmaduke will seek a rehearing of the case against himself in order to present a defense.

FUNERAL TOMORROW FOR ERNEST B. LLOYD

Funeral services for Ernest B. Lloyd, brother of Detective Lieutenant Chester Lloyd, who died at his home, 1606 Shenadoah street, yesterday after a brief illness, are to be conducted from the Walter Blue chapel, 717 West Washington street, tomorrow. Mr. Lloyd has been a department head for the Coulter Dry Goods Company for some time.

Overweight to Be Subject of Woman's Talk

Overweight will be the subject of the talk by Rose Waterman Harris at the Manufacturers' Exhibit, Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway, this afternoon. Mrs. Harris will demonstrate exercises especially for reducing, and will give other interesting information regarding the cause and cure of overweight.

Mrs. Harris stresses correct posture—standing, sitting, walking and working—and tells just how this posture is attained. Her talk last Wednesday on style was so well received and there have been so many requests for more of these talks, that the management will have Mrs. Harris continue as an added feature.

Dr. Phillip M. Lovell will give his usual Thursday afternoon lecture on health of the body at 2 in the main hall, and Mrs. Wyman's cookery class will meet Friday in the food demonstration rooms at 1:30 p.m.

Manslaughter Charge Holds Driver of Auto

Mathew S. Green, 1242 West Sixty-seventh street, was held for trial on a charge of manslaughter yesterday by Municipal Judge Baird, because of the death of Mrs. Mary Van Horn, 70 years of age, 982 West Sixty-eighth street, in a grade accident at Sixty-first street and Broadway on the 30th inst.

Mrs. Van Horn was alighting from a street car when Green ran into her and drove by without stopping, it was testified. She died several hours later at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital from a fractured skull and crushed chest, attendants reported.

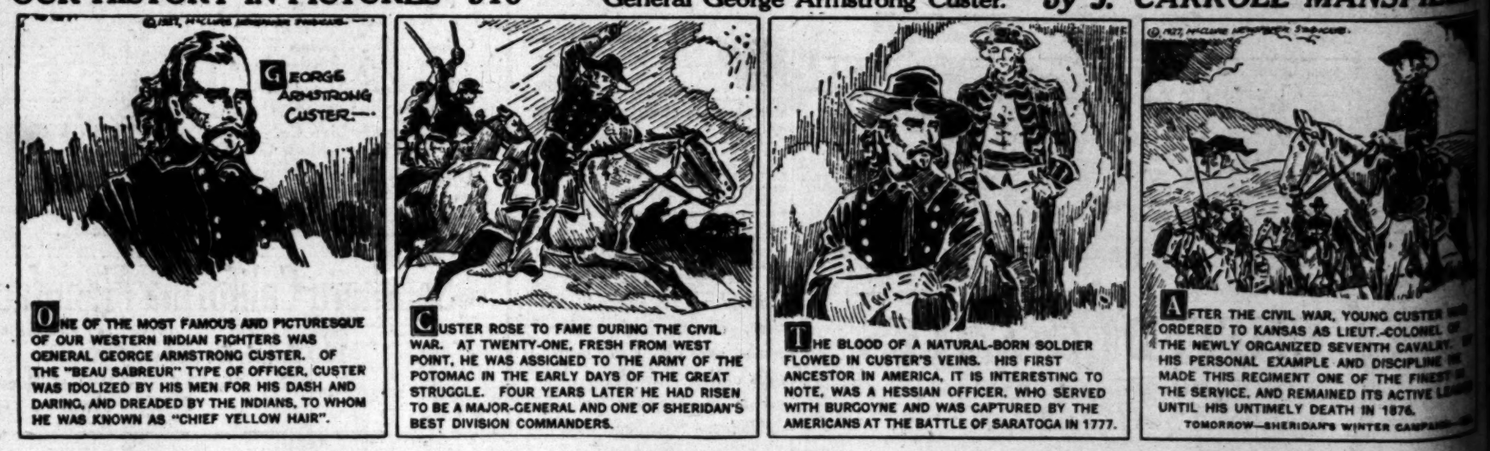
OUR HISTORY IN PICTURES 910 General George Armstrong Custer. by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD



GEORGE ARMSTRONG CUSTER.—
ONE OF THE MOST FAMOUS AND PICTURESQUE OF OUR WESTERN INDIAN FIGHTERS WAS GENERAL GEORGE ARMSTRONG CUSTER. OF THE "BEAU SABREUR" TYPE OF OFFICER, CUSTER WAS IDOLIZED BY HIS MEN FOR HIS DASH AND DARING, AND DREADED BY THE INDIANS, TO WHOM HE WAS KNOWN AS "CHIEF YELLOW HAIR".
CUSTER ROSE TO FAME DURING THE CIVIL WAR. AT TWENTY-ONE, FRESH FROM WEST POINT, HE WAS ASSIGNED TO THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC IN THE EARLY DAYS OF THE GREAT STRUGGLE. FOUR YEARS LATER HE HAD RISEN TO BE A MAJOR-GENERAL AND ONE OF SHERIDAN'S BEST DIVISION COMMANDERS.
THE BLOOD OF A NATURAL-BORN SOLDIER FLOWED IN CUSTER'S VEINS. HIS FIRST ANCESTOR IN AMERICA, IT IS INTERESTING TO NOTE, WAS A HESSIAN OFFICER, WHO SERVED WITH BURGOYNE AND WAS CAPTURED BY THE AMERICANS AT THE BATTLE OF SARATOGA IN 1777.
AFTER THE CIVIL WAR, YOUNG CUSTER WAS ORDERED TO KANSAS AS LIEUT.-COLONEL OF THE NEWLY ORGANIZED SEVENTH CAVALRY. BY HIS PERSONAL EXAMPLE AND DISCIPLINE HE MADE THIS REGIMENT ONE OF THE FINEST IN THE SERVICE, AND REMAINED ITS ACTIVE LEADER UNTIL HIS UNTIMELY DEATH IN 1876.

The LAST WORD

By ALMA WHITAKER

WHY DON'T YOU WRITE?

Mothers—oh, particularly mothers!—so often fret because they don't receive letters?

Why don't people write? It is such a little thing and can mean so very much.

Those of us who have all our writing equipment handy—a good pen, plenty of ink, letter paper, stamps and a handy mail box—don't quite realize what a tremendous task writing letters can be under some conditions.

I was recently given the job of looking up one young man who had not written to his mother for over a year. She was quite frantic with anxiety, her last two letters had remained unanswered.

He was most contrite and ashamed. But then he confided the conditions of his life. He left for work at 7 a.m. and rarely got home until after dark. His little home was way off in the suburbs, for economy, and the shops were closed after dinner at night. He could never keep a pen and ink in the house—the children always used them up. His wife wasn't very orderly, and, besides, there were four youngsters up to mischief all the time. When he could find a pen and ink, there was never any writing paper. Getting stamps seemed to be a terrific undertaking.

"I suppose one has to make a regular business of this letter writing," he said ruefully. "I must just make it a special job to buy letter paper, stamps, pen and ink, and keep them in a safe place. It seems a paltry sort of alibi I'm giving you, just putting off writing to Ma like this; because I didn't have the tools handy. It won't happen again," he promised me.

Of course, it does sound a pretty paltry reason for not writing, almost worse than that everlasting "too-busy" alibi that so many of us use. Letters play such an important part in cementing, maintaining, or restoring loves and friendships, which, after all, are the most precious things in life.

I shall always remember a little incident when we landed at Samoa. Our boat had brought the Christmas mail. Only a few white people on those remote islands, living upon, hungering for letters from home. We watched them scramble anxiously for the precious mail, grasp the letters lovingly, slip off to corners to devour them.

One young wife of a naval officer stationed there, opened envelope after envelope in growing despair. "Formal printed Christmas cards," she told us, miserably. "Not a real letter in the lot. Oh, how can they? One little letter in real handwriting would be worth the lot."

And we saw the poignant envy in the eyes of several of them as they watched the fortunate ones devouring their precious letters, real letters, in real handwriting. And we saw the others clasp what comfort they could from little messages written in real handwriting across the formal cards. The tiniest line of real handwriting, a mere soupcon of personal message, was more precious than any printed greetings to these exiled ones.

So now is the time of all times when we must equip ourselves with proper writing materials and write to our absent ones. We must take a little trouble to find out about mails and see that our letters, those precious ties of friendship, arrive at their destination in good time for Christmas. It is all right to inclose a Christmas card as well, but if we love them, if we have ever cared, a mere Christmas card is not enough. We must write long, chatty letters, telling every little detail. Even if it means giving up a few social affairs, staying at home a few evenings to devote ourselves exclusively to this loving task. Letters mean so much, both to the exiled ones and to those left behind.

SIXTY-TWO YEARS SPENT IN WEDLOCK

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Douglas

Commemorating a day sixty-two years ago when they were joined in wedlock, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Douglas of 1800 South Harvard Boulevard, today will be hosts to friends and relatives, including six of their seven living children who are residents of Los Angeles and surrounding territory.

The couple, who have lived in Los Angeles since 1923, were married in Galt, Ont., Can., December 28, 1865. Each is 84 years of age. They stoutly maintain that their union has been a success from the beginning. Ten of their twelve grandchildren are expected to be present today to wish them continued happiness.

Long and Short Bandits Busy

Two unmasked bandits, one short and the other tall, driving a battered and ancient touring car, held up a drug store and two Shell oil stations last night and escaped with approximately $120, police report. A clerk in the Pico-Wilton Pharmacy, 3270 West Pico street, was the first victim of the bandits, being forced to hand over $50.

Later Joseph Friedman, operator of an oil station at State and Marengo streets, was compelled to part with $30, and soon afterward D. E. Martin was locked in the washroom of his station at 2130 North Main street after having been robbed of between $35 and $40. Descriptions of the robbers correspond in all three cases and detectives are working on the theory that the same men are responsible for each robbery.

Charis Company Banquets Workers at Sales-Drive Conclusion

More than 100 members of the sales and office forces of the Charis Company of Southern California were entertained at a banquet in the assembly room at the Alexandria last night at which E. A. King, district manager of the company, acted as toastmaster.

The banquet marked the conclusion of a sixty-day sales contest. The principal speaker and guest of honor was Paul Noble, former director and lecturer of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. He spoke on "That Elusive Success."

GYPSIES BEAT THEFT CASE

But Loan Association Gets Back $1100 After Clerk Trails Two Beauties to San Diego

With the dismissal yesterday of a grand-theft complaint against two gypsy beauties in Municipal Judge Baird's court, came to light the mysterious disappearance of $1100 funds of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association, 6333 Hollywood Boulevard, on November 1, last.

The gypsies, known only as Mary Doe and Jane Roe, engaged Harry Tobey, one of the clerks, in a business conversation, declaring they wished to open an account. But after ten minutes of heated fault-finding, they left the institution, apparently dissatisfied with their information.

Tobey became suspicious. Hurriedly, he checked over his accounts. A cry went up. He was short exactly $1100. Frenzied over the sudden loss, the clerk notified the detective bureau and then started out on his own investigation.

A week passed without word from Tobey. Tracking his prey to San Diego, the clerk brought the gypsies to the police station there. The $1100 was found intact and placed in escrow awaiting orders of officials of the local loan association.

But to prove the gypsies' connection with the theft before a jury was another thing, Dep. Dist.-Atty. Holland agreed, and he asked for a dismissal on the grounds of lack of evidence. Judge Baird granted the motion.

VETERANS' FROLIC TONIGHT

Former service men and their families and friends are invited to attend a holiday entertainment in Patriotic Hall auditorium tonight under the auspices of Quentin Roosevelt Chapter No. 5, Disabled American Veterans. There will be a number of vaudeville acts with music furnished by Bickel's Orchestra. Nick Harris will preside. Herman Tresper, chairman of the committee in charge, announced that there will be no admission fees.

Globe Trotter Notes Changing World Weather

W. G. Cheney, who is stopping at the Biltmore, admits seventy summers and claims that "globe trotting is the fountain of youth." This is his fourteenth winter in Southern California. "I have been to sunny France sixteen times, to Egypt twelve different years, but of them all I love the best your own Southern California."

Mr. Cheney notes a distinct change in world weather conditions. "Twenty-two years of continuous travel have made me very sensitive to the change that is taking place," he said yesterday. "It may be the spots on the sun or perhaps the world is traveling a bit faster. Unquestionably there is more water in Southern France, Egypt and California than we used to have."

JOHNSON ADDRESSES MASONS

John LeRoy Johnson, director of the 233 Club, will be the speaker at the luncheon today of the Masonic Club. His subject will be, "Practicing What You Preach." Max Pomerants will preside and the Masonic Club Orchestra, under the direction of Carl Pirie, will furnish a half-hour of music.

THIEVES BREAK LOCKS TO STEAL MORE LOCKS

Burglars who smashed two locks in order to get at their booty stole 2750 more locks valued at $1500 from the attic of a house at 3672 Moneta avenue, W. P. English, the owner, reported yesterday. The theft took place while the family was away over the holidays. Breaking a lock on a door and another on a window the burglars gained entrance to the house, and disregarding the valuables in the house went to the attic and carted away the supply of locks which were stored there by English, who is a wholesale dealer.

Burial Service Tomorrow for Veteran Actor

Funeral services for Bill Carrol, 52 years of age, pioneer motion-picture actor and veteran stage dancer who died Monday at the Windsor Hospital, Glendale, after an illness of nearly a year, will be conducted today by the Elks at 2 p.m. in the LeRoy Bagley Undertaking parlors, 5440 Hollywood Boulevard and tomorrow at 9 a.m. at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

He was born in Brooklyn, and began his theatrical career at an early age. Carrol was one of the four dancing Carrols with the original Floradora sextet twenty-seven years ago. He came to Hollywood when moving pictures were in their infancy and worked with the Selig and Vitagraph studios in some of the first pictures ever made on the West Coast, and was with United Artists and other studios until ill health forced his retirement from the screen less than a year ago. He has been a member of the Los Angeles Elks since 1916. He leaves no survivors.

ACTRESS VICTIM IN FATAL CRASH

Petita Ramirez

WIRED PICTURES VIEWED

The Nature Club of Southern California visited the telephotograph department of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company last night to see a demonstration of the methods used by the Bell system in sending pictures by wire. Under the guidance of V. A. LeBleur, telephotograph representative of the telephone company, other parties will view the process tonight and tomorrow night. Approximately seventy-five persons will visit the department on the three trips.

INQUEST IN AUTO DEATH TO BE TODAY

Responsibility for Wreck of Machine Will Be Fixed at Coroner's Inquiry

A Coroner's inquest will be conducted at 1:30 p.m. today to determine responsibility for the collision between an automobile driven by Dr. James H. Beggs and a street car at Highland avenue and Santa Monica Boulevard Monday night, in which Petita Ramirez, 26-year-old motion-picture actress, was hurt fatally, and her sister, Nalda Ramirez, 20, and Dr. Beggs were injured seriously.

Miss Ramirez, whose screen name was Petita Ray, died at the Dickey & Cass Hospital shortly after being removed from the scene of the accident. For the past few weeks she had been working in a picture, now about half completed, in which Betty Compson is being starred.

The sister was removed from the Dickey & Cass Hospital to the Sylvan Lodge Hospital, where she is said to be suffering from a fractured skull and fractured pelvis. Her condition is said to be critical.

Dr. Beggs, after being given emergency treatment, was removed to the Hollywood Hospital. He suffered a fractured arm and leg and lacerations. He was reported yesterday to be resting easily.

Witnesses are said to have told the police that Dr. Beggs's car skidded on the slippery rails and crashed into the street car.

A Better Flavor

When making the filling for lemon pie, put the whole rind into the mixture for the last few minutes of cooking. Then remove with a spoon. It will add greatly to the flavor without giving it the bitter taste so often connected with grated rind.

Editor Speaks at Meeting of Filipino Group

The Filipinos are entitled to independence and they eventually will get it, Clyde Tavenner, editor of the Philippine Republic, told delegates to the national convention of the Filipino Federation of America last night. Charles E. Russell, Socialist, eulogized Jose Rizal, Filipino national hero, whom he termed one of the greatest men who ever lived.

Business sessions of the convention will give way tonight to a program of entertainment typical of the Philippines. Filipino music will be provided by the federation orchestra; Luis Lazo will perform the "Dagger Dance;" pictures of the islands will be shown, and several numbers of vaudeville will be given.

The convention will hold its final session tomorrow. Sessions are being conducted in Music-Art Hall, 233 South Broadway.

DEMOCRATS TO HEAR DEXTER

The speaker at the Democratic Luncheon Club tomorrow will be Walter F. Dexter, president of Whittier College. The club meets every Thursday at the Alexandria.

Mallinson's American Indian Series
"First in American Prints"

THE INDIAN—the first American—rich in legendary lore and symbolic art, has been the inspiration for this remarkable series. And it is this very symbolism that the artist has so feelingly and understandingly transcribed to silk.

The characteristics, the traditions, of more than a score of outstanding Indian tribes . . . sometimes in symbols, again in pictorial motifs, have been painstakingly reproduced in these marvelous designs . . . Gloriously radiant in their color-blendings . . . vivid, yet harmonious.

"DESERT SONG" IS FIRST SHOW

Romantic Operetta Produced by Miss Albertson

She Has Brought Many Big Hits to Coast

Theater Simple, But Most Luxurious

Already a sensation in three world capitals, London, New York and Chicago, "The Desert Song," romantic operetta, when presented tomorrow night as the premiere attraction of the new Windsor Square Theater, Wilshire and Lucerne boulevards, by Lillian Albertson, promises to become one of the notable events in her career in the Los Angeles theater.

With "The Desert Song," which was created by Romberg, Harbach, Hammerstein and Mandel, and which has been hailed as one of the biggest operetta successes of the season, Miss Albertson makes her Los Angeles bow as an independent producer.

For the past few years her name has been linked with some of the notable attractions of the city, and she has been responsible, to a large degree, in bringing to Los Angeles truly metropolitan productions. Under her direction have been staged "No, No, Nanette," "What Price Glory," "Music Box Revue," "Chicago," "Peggy Ann," "Cradle Snatchers," "The Clinging Vine," "The Lady," "Spring Cleaning," "The Copperhead" and many others.

Her latest success, "Hit the Deck," is to reopen the Majestic Theater on the 29th inst., and is now playing to packed houses in San Francisco, where it is in its sixth week.

IDEAL THEATER

One of the most delightful moments of her career came, Miss Albertson said, when she signed the lease giving her possession of what she terms "America's ideal theater," the new Windsor Square showhouse, where "The Desert Song," has its premiere.

Built along the beautiful and simple lines of modified Mediterranean architecture, the building is adjacent to the Ebell Club and conforms with that splendid artistic structure which has made the location at Wilshire and Lucerne boulevards a landmark in Los Angeles' progress.

Within the theater only the welfare of the theater patrons have been considered, from the spacious rest and smoking rooms on the mezzanine floor, the broad, thickly carpeted aisles, 1300 double-cushioned chairs covered with green velour and set in rows far apart, to the facilities by which air is washed, heated and controlled as to temperature.

Amplifiers placed in all parts of the house make it possible for every one of the theater patrons to hear the slightest whisper on a stage that is larger than most in Southern California.

"DESERT SONG" CAST

The cast of "The Desert Song" is as follows: Perry Askam, Elvira Tanzi, Johnny Arthur, Nora White, Lionel Braham, Maria Bekeli, John Merkyl, Gary C. Breckner and Myrtis Crinley. The male chorus, consisting of forty voices, with thirty dancing girls, an orchestra under the direction of Ernest Grooney, all go to make the production one of the biggest of its kind ever seen on the Pacific Coast. George Cunningham staged the chorus numbers.

The story of the operetta, "The Desert Song," which deals with bold bandits of the Morocco Desert, and gallant soldiers of the French Army patrolling that country, is a most colorful one.

Pierre Birabeau, son of a French general, is aroused by the cruelty to the Riffs as practiced by the colonel of despotic and violent disposition under whom he serves. He remonstrates with the colonel who strikes the junior officers down. This deed determines Pierre's future action.

Without taking an active part against his countrymen, he determines, from purely chivalrous motives, to befriend the Riffs as far as lay within his powers. To that end he assumes a disguise and becomes known as the "Red Shadow."

The lady in the case is Margot Bonvalet, whom the general has in his mind allotted to Capt. Fontaine, quite ignoring the fact that his son is in love with her. Margot receives Pierre's attention with complete indifference, but her imagination has been kept captive by the deeds of the mysterious Red Shadow, and Pierre, in his capacity of the Riff Chieftain, gives her the desired surprise of being carried off by the desert warrior, and conveyed to the harem of his Arab Chief.

The Red Shadow soon finds himself in trouble with his Riff associates, but he defies them. When, however, his father, the general, appears on the scene and bids him draw and fight, he submits to ignomy of being branded a coward and is driven forth into the desert, without arms to defend himself or food for nourishment. So it would seem the Red Shadow is no longer a source of inspiration to the Riffs or concern to the French. As a matter of fact, a price is put on his head as a common outlaw.

What would have happened if Azuri had not disclosed in an hour of vengeful malice, the whole secret, is not known but when the general learns of his son's activities he wisely keeps them to himself, but offers no opposition to the marriage of Pierre with Margot.

What New Year's week at the Hillstreet Theater is going to be one filled with gayety, it is announced. Johnny Burke, the comedian who knows all about the funny side of the World War, will discourse on the subject much to the liking of those who had the pleasure of being among Uncle Sam's boys. Ethel Davis, too, is featured on this bill and will offer a refreshing song chatter.

Chaney and Fox, young dance stars, will be seen in a terpsichorean novelty in which they are supported by Al Norman and Earl Paull. "Sunshine Sammy," late star of Our Gang Comedies, will brighten the bill with his song and smart steps. Eugene Strong has deserted the studios for the stage and will be seen in a comedy playlet, "Garage Love," with Hazel Mann. The Worden brothers offer a dance act replete with eccentric steps.

The screen will feature a Tiffany-Stahl picture entitled, "Night Life," a George Archainbaud production, depicting a romantic drama of Vienna before, during and after the World War. This cast includes Alice Day, Johnny Harron, Walter Hiers, Eddie Gribbon and Lydia Yeamans Titus.

New Theater Opens Tomorrow

Enlarging Playhouse Horizon

Los Angeles show-goers will have a glimpse of a new theater when the Windsor Square Theater at Wilshire and Lucerne opens its doors tomorrow night with the musical play, "The Desert Song." The sketch above of the exterior of the showhouse is by Staff Artist A. L. Ewing. Lillian Albertson is the producer of "The Desert Song," and Perry Askam and Elvira Tanzi portray the leading roles.

Actor Believes in Voodooism

Believe it or not—Charles B. Middleton, who had the role of "Dead Legs" Flint in the East and is now repeating his characterization here, at the Orange Grove Theater, believes in the influence of voodooism.

Middleton, who came West to play Flint because, he says, he likes it, possesses dozens of voodoo trophies, sent to him by admirers who collected them in the Belgian Congo, locale of the play, "Kongo."

"These strange curios help me in my work and I would not think of going on the stage without having some of them in my make-up kit," says Middleton—or at least, he is so quoted. "They help me to get into the spirit of this weird drama."

MANY NOVEL FEATURES

Lillian Albertson's new Windsor Square Theater, Wilshire and Lucerne, where "The Desert Song" opens tomorrow evening, has many novel features. Perhaps two of the most outstanding are the latest invention of electroscience, new model amplifiers, through which every sound can be heard at any part of the house. Another is the ventilating system which launders every atom of air before it enters the auditorium.

'UNDERTOW' EFFECTIVE PRODUCTION

Conflict of Human and Spiritual Portrayed in New Play at Egan

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

The morals of the case may be highly complicated, but the results are exceptionally interesting.

This brief and perhaps rather patent dictum may serve as the starting point for the consideration of "Undertow," a new play by Zelda Sears and Garnet Weston, which opened last night at the Egan Theater.

I would like to hail it as a great play, for in some aspects it is actually that. And it is the first really serious play to rise in some time to this distinction.

Like "Rain" and like "Bride of the Lamb" it treats of evangelist theme, but, unlike them, it treats of it in a curiously sympathetic way.

Miss Sears and Mr. Weston, in any case, managed to hold the fascinated attention of their first-night audience. They were ably assisted in this accomplishment by the talents of Elise Bartlett Schilkdaut in the principal feminine role, and additionally by a very well-rounded cast. The production, as a whole, is one of the most meritorious that has recently been given here, much, incidentally, owing, no doubt, to the direction of Henry Kolker.

"Undertow" presents the instance of a girl of evangelical gifts, who succeeds in holding a congregation by her youth and by her personality. She is under the dominance of a mother, who sees the practical advantages of the calling. There is a revolt, and a flight to a mountain cabin. Here there is a shooting affray, and the daughter returns at the behest of the man she loves to resume her place in the church that has been established by her mother and herself. There are investigations by the board of trustees, and by newspaper reporters, but the girl is saved by the deliberate lie of a doctor who refuses to recognize her as the same person he had previously seen at the mountain cabin.

That, briefly, is the story. It is sympathetically dealt with, and has the merit of being different on this account, since most plays of the same order have been harsh in their treatment of the evangelist question.

Whether Miss Sears and Mr. Weston have succeeded in building entertainment, in elucidating this rather complex theme of the conflict of the human and the spiritual, they have succeeded in creating situations that are dramatically engrossing, and lines that are at times nothing short of brilliant in their humor.

I do not think that "Undertow" is an altogether effective play, because it is not a timely play in a theatrical sense, the religious urge having somewhat passed in the playhouse. It is craftsmanlike and able, and it is interesting. On this basis, and a possible attention to its plot, it may enjoy some success.

Elise Schildkraut demonstrated unusual power and sincerity in her acting. There was a fine assurance throughout to her interpretation. The character itself is rather weak in spiritual elements that do not seem sufficiently emphasized in the play itself. She herself was more successful in emphasizing the human side of the portrayal, and in this respect it was one of the high points of acting recently seen here.

Miss Sears herself played the role of the mother, making the character stand out efficaciously both in its drama and comedy. She appeared throughout as a relentlessly dominant type.

Theodor Von Eltz is difficult to identify as a real person, but gave the touch of romantic interest demanded by the play.

One of the best interpretations was that of Montague Shaw as the doctor. Very excellent this. Mia Marvin, True Boardman, Elsa Lorimer and Harold Nelson among others are to be credited.

There is worth disclosed in the writing of this play, and the interpretations, which augurs favorably for the future of the Egan Theater under the new regime for which L. C. Wiswell is sponsor.

Marimba Band Varies Program

Giving the effect of a combined group of wind and string instruments in a fascinating manner, Sid Grauman's "Gaucho Marimba Band," in his prologue to Douglas Fairbanks as "The Gaucho," is thrilling audiences in Grauman's Chinese Theater.

An instrument of the xylophone pattern played by a group of seven musicians, the marimba is greatly favored in South American countries. Unlike the xylophone, the marimba has pipes of wood rather than of metal. When played by the artists employing felt-headed drum sticks, the resonance of the wood creates the combined harmonic melody of an orchestra.

The program of the band at the Chinese, which is varied at different performances, includes everything from simple Spanish folk and popular songs to the most difficult of classical compositions, as the members of the band are all conservatory graduates.

WORK ON SEA DRAMA BEGUN BY NOVARRO

On a setting reminiscent of old New England clipper ship days, Ramon Novarro last week began work on his new starring vehicle, "China Bound," which William Nigh is directing from Ben Ames Williams's story of the sea.

As the daughter of a retired ship captain, Joan Crawford is playing the featured feminine role, and Ernest Torrence has the important role of Novarro's oldest brother.

Frank Currier and Edward Connelly are seen as the fathers of Novarro and Miss Crawford, while Duke Martin and Dan Wolheim play the brothers to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star.

"PIGS" ADDS A SHOW

Two special performances of "Pigs" have been scheduled for New Year's Eve at El Capitan Theater, where the comedy hit is now in its seventh week. Gay Seabrook, Emerson Treacy, May Buckley and John Stokes head the cast.

"KONGO'S" SPECIAL NIGHT

Elaborate arrangements are being made by the new management of the Orange Grove Theater for the New Year's Eve midnight matinee of "Kongo," which begins at the stroke of 12, as C. M. S. Amusements, Inc., bid farewell to the old year and welcome to the new.

JOLSON TO CONFER

WITH WARNERS ON NEW FILM; NANCY'S NEW NAME

By Grace Kingsley

If all signs fail not, Al Jolson will sign with the Warner Brothers for another picture. It became known yesterday that Jolson, now in Hollywood, will confer with the Warners regarding the making of at least one more feature for them.

AL JOLSON

Jolson's "Jazz Singer" turned out so successfully, and the comedian himself registered so satisfactorily, that there seems little doubt he will remain as a permanent fixture in the movies, at any rate between stage productions.

Just what the Warners have in mind for Jolson as his next vehicle could not be learned yesterday, but it is understood that they have the film rights to an important musical show in which they feel he would particularly shine.

HOBART HENLEY WILL BE WITH PARAMOUNT

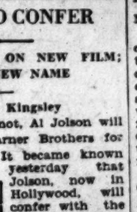
From no less excellent an authority than Hobart Henley himself we learned yesterday that that well-known director is signing with Paramount to make at least one picture.

This picture will be one of the notable productions of the Lasky year, and will have one of the principal Paramount stars as the center of its story.

It is understood that Paramount has an option on Henley's services which it is more than likely will be exercised at the end of his first picture, at which time he will probably sign a long-term contract.

Nancy Drexel nee Kitchen

Kitchen wasn't nearly an aristocratic enough sounding name for a leading lady, thought F. W. Murnau, and so he had Dorothy Kitchen change hers to Nancy Drexel, and then signed her for one of the two featured feminine parts in "The Four Devils," which he will direct for Fox, and which starts production at Fox West Coast studios on January 2.



NANCY DREXEL

Following tests made of Miss Drexel by Murnau, Winfield Sheehan placed the young actress under a long-term contract yesterday.

Nancy started her professional career at the age of eight, when she appeared in the stage version of "The Royal Vagabond." This was followed by the revival of "Floradora" and "Quality Street." Then she retired to finish her schooling at a Cathedral high in New York. Her entrance into pictures was through the medium of a photographic contest conducted by a new York newspaper. Her most prominent picture, since her arrival in Hollywood, was "The Way of All Flesh," in which she played a bit. Her role in "The Four Devils" is her first really big opportunity.

Miss Drexel is the very image of Bessie Barriscale when I knew Miss Barriscale at the Belasco Theater here. She has lovely brown eyes and golden hair, and a most fascinating personality.

Noah Beery Breaks Rib

Noah Beery has a broken rib. We cannot tell any romantic story about the member being broken under the duress of an exciting scene, however. Noah's accident was due to a spot of slippery mud on a studio walk on which the actor skidded and fell as he made his way from the set of Samuel Goldwyn's latest production, "The Passionate Adventure," formerly "Leatherface."

The actor will be laid up for a few days as the result of the accident.

Lew Cody with M.-G.-M.

Lew Cody is to play in vaudeville and pictures alternately during the next year or so.

He has signed with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and will go to work next month. He also has still some vaudeville engagements in the West to fulfill.

Mary Shaw Will Be in New Play

In the Civic Repertory Theater Company's production at the Mason Theater of "The Cradle Song," on January 16, one of the leading parts will be played by that well-known actress, Mary Shaw, who has for years been associated with the Ibsen drama and the plays of George Bernard Shaw. She is best remembered as Mrs. Alving in "Ghosts," a role that she played for the first time twenty-five years ago and has enacted in many revivals of this play in more recent times. Quite lately Miss Shaw broadcast "Ghosts" over the radio.

Other well-known players who will appear in "The Cradle Song" under the personal direction of Eva Le Gallienne, are Harry Davenport, Mary Hone, Zita Johann, Phyllis Rankin and Fanny Davenport, who is a niece of the noted actress of that name.

Conrad Nagel Will Be Host

Conrad Nagel yesterday was named master of ceremonies for the premiere tonight of Al Jolson's "The Jazz Singer," and in that capacity will introduce the black-face comedian in person.

Jolson, after making a 3000-mile hop across the continent, will finish his journey from Lake Arrowhead this afternoon at 3:15 p.m., when the California Limited is due to arrive in Los Angeles.

Hollywood folk are said to be planning a large reception for Jolson at the station, and many events in his honor are being arranged.

CURRENT AT FOLLIES

"Girls from Joyland" is the current attraction at the Follies. It features Cecil Manners and Dorothy Walton with James Yeoman playing the lead. Charles Fritcher and Jack Sax are purveyors of burlesque comedy. Lee Murphy and Vincent Markee register with their vocal numbers. The Follies beauty chorus display "pep" in ensemble numbers. In addition to this, the Creole Revue of twenty-six colored entertainers offer novel song and dance routines.

BEERY GOES TO THE SHOW

Wallace Beery, who enacts a leading role in "Old Ironsides," now in its first popular showing at the Million Dollar, will make a bow on the stage of that theater tonight. Tomorrow evening George Bancroft, also featured in the production, will be in attendance.

"Well, suh, Jedge, my onliest explixation is dat me or de night wuzn't dark enough."

An Open Letter to Gertrude P. Werlik,

3478 GULLET AVENUE, SOUTH BEND

DEAR GERT:

I am so sorry this letter is open but I can not seem to get the glue on the envelope to stick. I got Gloria, our cow, to lick it and she just put in a good half-hour working over it but she couldn't make good.

There is no news, father not having bitten any of the dogs since I last wrote. No news is good news and we are all very, very happy tucked away in our little place here. We like to call it our "nest" rather than our Long Island palace with four bathrooms and stables.

Well, I guess all the mailmen between here and South Bend will be reading this letter because it is open. Just to make your ears burn, Mister Mailman, I'm going to come right out and tell you that you're a bunch of old nosey-oseys and if you're ever stuck in Tubemere, L. I. with nothing to do, call Main 2337 and ask for Amy.

Write soon, Gert dear.

Your own,
Amy-Amy-Amy-Amy.

FIRST ROUND IN LEGAL BATTLE

Artist Accused of Murder to Appear Today

Santa Ana Judge to Hold Preliminary

Double Felony Results in Serious Charge

SANTA ANA, Dec. 27.—L. C. Hallberg, Long Beach man charged with murder of Mrs. Myrtle Jewell of Gardena, as the result of a fatal automobile wreck, is scheduled to have his first clash with the prosecution at a preliminary hearing tomorrow in Justice K. E. Morrison's court at Santa Ana.

Whether his attorneys, Swafford & Swafford of Long Beach, will offer bail at the preliminary examination, and attempt to free Hallberg then, or will wait for trial in the Superior Court will not be known until the hour of hearing arrives. Defense plans have been kept secret. It is deemed likely, however, that the defense will continue its policy of silence and will content itself at the preliminary hearing with finding how much evidence the prosecution has.

By the same token, the prosecution will probably reveal just enough, and no more, to justify holding Hallberg to trial.

Hallberg was accused of murder after a car he was said to have been driving crashed into the machine occupied by Mrs. Jewell, near Los Alamitos. It is said that Hallberg was intoxicated at the time and that he failed to stop and render aid. Thus his liability resulted during the commission of a felony and brought the charge of a murder charge rather than manslaughter charge.

Hallberg denies that he had any connection with the accident. He was released subsequently in a hospital at San Bernardino where he was being treated for injuries. It is said he will attempt to prove an alibi or provide another explanation for the wounds.

Long Term in State Prison

FRESNO, Dec. 27.—Pleading guilty in the Superior Court here today to charges of robbery with a loaded firearm, and to a seventh charge of possession of firearms by an ex-convict, Frank Gordon, who kept the prison population of Fresno county interested for weeks with his escapades, was sentenced to the maximum of six life sentences and fines in addition.

The robbery count carries a life term under the new law which provides such a penalty for third conviction for felonious offenses, with the penalty for possession of firearms by a former convict is ten years imprisonment.

Gordon is the first person to be sentenced from Fresno county under the newly confirmed criminal provision of the Penal Code.

Sentence was filed before City Justice Church after a preliminary hearing. Gordon waived the formalities, and a short hearing appeared as the only witness when he was brought into Superior Court. He admitted robbing Japanese ranchers and burning their homes, but denied a charge of criminal attack against a fifteen-year-old Japanese girl in connection with one of the robberies.

Under the new law Gordon must serve twelve years in prison before he becomes eligible to apply for parole on any count of which he was convicted.

JUNK ON WHEELS COSTS MORE MONEY

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 27.—Speaking in terms of hard cash, there is a difference of $420 in being just plain drunk and being drunk in an automobile. It is one of the new wrinkles resulting the ever vexing gasoline-tax combination, according to Sacramento police, who arrested J. Winslow Dalgrin after he is asserted to have wrecked a big new sedan at the corner of Wilshire Boulevard and Palmer street, Sawtelle.

Dalgrin, said to be chauffeur for a Santa Monica woman, was reportedly driving the shiny new car at the time of his arrest, a cop but was in the car afterward and had been badly shaken up. Arresting officers said he was intoxicated, a charge on which he could have been bailed out for $20 ordinarily; but because he was operating in an automobile, theoretically became $500. Mauler was taken to Los Angeles.

TELEPHONES COME AS GIFT OF SANTA CLAUS

CHATSWORTH, Dec. 27.—Santa Claus this year brought to residents of the western end of San Fernando valley a Christmas present in the form of telephone and electric light service. Both services have been begun and telephone and electric light connections have been working on the lines for several weeks. The valley is the first that has been served in the section about Lake-view Park and the area back of the Chatsworth reservoir. This is reported as doubly important because of large park holdings of the city of Los Angeles that will be developed into a public playground in the near future.

SHOE BURGLAR STEALS MAN'S PANTS

SAN FERNANDO, Dec. 27.—Because of a second sleeper, Sidney Waite of this city is minus two watches today. A prowler entered his room at 824 Alexander street Monday, took the watches from the vest pocket from the bed, and carried off clothes from a chair near the bed to the front porch where he relieved it of its contents. The housebreaker did his work so quietly none of the family was disturbed and the loss was not discovered until morning. The visitor's route was made through French windows.

LOSES FAITH IN EVERYTHING

Ain't No Santa Claus, Sobs Youth; I Want to Go Back Home

REDLANDS, Dec. 27.—I wanna go back. I'll walk the track to that dear old Chicago town, was the song John Jordan, 11 years of age, sang to George Larmore of this city, county detention officer, today as he waited word from home. For John's yearn to become a part of the movies had departed hence and he says that the story about the sun shining all the time in California is hooey and hokum not to mention bologna.

"I been here three days and it has not shoned once, its worse than Chicago," said John.

John wanted to see California and the place where the movies are made so he sold papers and got a one-way ticket only to San Bernardino. He wanted to sell papers and make his way. He couldn't get a job and it was Christmas and there wasn't any Santa Claus and he was cold and hungry and he was rather glad when a "fly cop" picked him up and turned him over to the detention home. And now he is willing to go back home, California is no place for a smart 11-year-old Chicago kid, he says.

Rancher Held for Assault

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 27.—Charged with assault with a deadly weapon and resisting an officer when he was arrested, J. R. Johnson is being held at the County Jail following two battles last night at Wasco, the Sheriff's office reported today. Constable Moore of Wasco, who arrested Johnson at his home, told officials here that Johnson covered him with a shotgun as he entered the house, but that he succeeded in disarming him.

According to Johnson, a Wasco farmer owed him $60. Exhibiting a blackened eye, he says that when he asked for his money, the man struck him. A fight ensued and Johnson got away and grabbed a shotgun from his car, but it was taken away from him by two of his friends. When Constable Moore went to Johnson's home, to serve the assault warrant on him, the latter covered the officer with the same shotgun. Moore ducked under the gun and took it away from him, he reported to deputies here.

Six other men were arrested in the county and three captured for Bakersfield in Oregon during a holiday clean-up of alleged bad check artists, automobile and petty thieves, the Sheriff's office reported.

HOMER WOOD BUYS PORTERVILLE PAPER

PORTERVILLE, Dec. 27. (AP)—Sale of the Porterville Tulare County Recorder, daily afternoon newspaper, to Homer W. Wood of Petaluma was announced today by C. L. Day, owner of the publication for the past four years. The Recorder, published six days a week, is the only newspaper in Porterville.

Wood is understood to have paid in the neighborhood of $75,000 in the deal.

ENTERTAINED VETERANS

HUNTINGTON PARK, Dec. 27.—After a trip of eleven months during which time he put on musical programs at the hospitals in the camps for the soldiers in different parts of the country, Simon Conter, better known as "Soldier Caruso," has returned to his home here to remain permanently. During his last trip he went into the Northwest and then East as far as Pennsylvania and south as far as South Carolina. He has spent most of his time since the World War ended by entertaining in all sections of the United States.

WELCOME NATIONAL COMMANDER

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 27.—John R. Quinn, past national commander of the American Legion, and prominent Kern county citizen, will come here from Los Angeles, where he now is in business, to join with Frank S. Reylds Post No. 26 and civic leaders in welcoming to Bakersfield National Commander Edward E. Spafford, who will be honored at a community luncheon during a three-hour visit here next Saturday, it was announced today.

ENCINO PARK READY

ENCINO, Dec. 27.—Construction work on the park building in the new Encino city park has been completed and as soon as the interior work is touched up the buildings will be formally opened to the public. The Encino park site is a gift to the Los Angeles Park Commission and is one of the first parks to result from the agitation for playground and recreation places in San Fernando Valley started a year or so ago.

NEWSPAPER OPTION

DINUBA, Dec. 27.—P. D. Nowell, publisher of the Tulare Advance Register, holds an option on the Dinuba Sentinel, according to announcement of John R. Locke, publisher of the local paper. The Sentinel is published six afternoons each week. The option must be exercised by January 1.

NATIVE SONS' SECRETARY

VAN NUYS, Dec. 27.—Arthur Caughey has been named secretary of Cahuenga parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, by President Robert L. Hanley of the San Fernando Valley organization. A. L. Feldshaw is the new marshal of the body now engaged in compiling the highlights of the anecdotal history of the valley since the coming of the padres.

ARREST TWO FOR AIDING JAIL BREAK

Alhambra Man Found With Saw After Departure of Men Accused by Officers

SAN GABRIEL, Dec. 27.—An asserted attempt to effect a jail break here last night resulted today in the arrest of George Allan and Fay Malone, both of Alhambra. The men are now held in the Alhambra City Jail. They have been living at a hotel in Alhambra.

Allan and Malone are charged with trying to secure the escape of a friend, L. Grace, of 1015 South Benito avenue, Alhambra, who was arrested Sunday night by Police Chief A. E. Manzer on a charge of possession and transportation of liquor.

Monday night, according to Manzer, Allan and Malone visited Grace in the local jail. Soon after they left Manzer heard a grating sound in Grace's cell and found the prisoner industrially working at one of the bars with a saw. Grace had cut into the bar about an eighth of an inch, Manzer stated.

An investigation was started at once, and police of Alhambra were called in. This afternoon Malone and Allan were located in San Gabriel and were arrested by Detective Lieutenant Boone of Alhambra, and Officer Joe Lopez of San Gabriel. Both Allan and Malone have lived in Alhambra for a number of years, according to the police.

Death Summons Comes Suddenly

ONTARIO, Dec. 27. — Mrs. Elizabeth Hastey Latimer, widow of the late Hugh Latimer, and mother of Charles Latimer, well known throughout Southern California as a fruit grower and packer, of Harold Latimer, well-known rancher, and of Miss Daisy Latimer, leader among local society circles, died here today.

Death came as she was getting ready to attend a dinner in her honor at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Charles and Mrs. Latimer, 945 North Euclid avenue. She was stricken suddenly with a heart attack and despite great effort on the part of physicians she failed to recover. Mrs. Latimer had not been in strong health recently, but no thought was entertained that death was near.

Mrs. Latimer was a native of Ottawa, Ont., Can., and had lived in California thirty-seven years. Most of her years in California had been spent at Arlington, near Riverside, where her husband held large fruit interests. Shortly after his death Mrs. Latimer moved to Ontario.

Five grandsons and one granddaughter also survive, in addition to her sons, Charles and Harold, and one daughter.

Funeral services have been announced for Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Draper's Chapel. Dr. Charles F. Seitter, former pastor of Ontario First Methodist Church, now of Hollywood, and Dr. Lincoln A. Ferris, pastor of Ontario First Methodist Church, will be officiating ministers. Interment will be in Belleview Cemetery.

WOUNDED BURGLAR MAKES GET-AWAY

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 27.—Seriously wounded by a heavy charge of shot which knocked him to the ground following an attempted burglary near Rio Bravo, an unknown robber last night escaped in a big car with two coworkers, the Sheriff's office reported today. According to information secured by three Sheriff's office officials during an investigation today, the three men were seen to drive in front of the ranch home of Frank Schierlenan and stop. Two of them got out of the car and the third drove a short distance away and stopped.

A. Sedan, Rio Bravo rancher, who has leased a portion of Schierlenan's alfalfa and cotton fields, saw a light flash in the house, and, knowing Schierlenan was away, took his shotgun from the wall and started to investigate.

As he neared the house, the two men rushed out and whistled for the driver of the car. Sedan called to them to halt and when they refused, fired at one of them. The burglar staggered and dropped, then got to his feet and with the aid of his companion managed to reach the car as it sped to his side and stopped. Sedan fired again at the retreating car, but the men sped onward.

JURY FINDS STAATS DEATHS ACCIDENTAL

WHITTIER, Dec. 27.—In the case of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Staats who were killed in an automobile accident Christmas Eve, the Coroner's jury this morning brought in a verdict of unavoidable accident.

The inquest was conducted by Deputy Coroner Mumfort, at the White-Emerson mortuary on East Philadelphia street.

The Staats have been prominent in business and social life at Whittier for the past fifteen years. They are survived by one daughter, Miss Arleene Staats, a student at Whittier College.

PLEADS INSANITY IN LIQUOR CASE

FRESNO, Dec. 27. (AP)—Resorting to the plea of those accused in much more serious crimes, Victor Lamanuzzi, accused of liquor possession with prior conviction, pleaded insanity during his trial in Superior Court today. The trial was ordered stopped, the jury dismissed, and an insanitary hearing was scheduled for Lamanuzzi for next Saturday.

The jury had been chosen and one witness was testifying when Attorney B. W. Gearhart for Lamanuzzi informed the court that his client was "mentally sick."

DROWNS IN CANAL

BRAWLEY, Dec. 27.—A. Weyland, 45 years of age, a rancher, was drowned last night when his automobile slipped from a bridge over a canal six miles east of here. He was held in the muddy water of the ditch by his overturned car. His body was extricated by persons who heard his screams as the car plunged into the canal.

CELEBRATION AT NATION'S CHRISTMAS TREE

Male chorus from the First Mennonite Church at Reedley sings carols at the foot of General Grant Tree, in General Grant National Park, Monday noon, when more than 1000 persons gathered around "the oldest thing" on the continent for a Christmas celebration. This celebration is an annual event and each year is becoming more popular because of the uniqueness of the ceremony.

BIG TREES WELL KNOWN

Parts of Great Sequoias Scattered 'Round the World, as Gifts from California

ASH MOUNTAIN (Headquarters Sequoia National Park) Dec. 27.—The impressive ceremony conducted at the foot of the General Grant Tree in General Grant National Park, yesterday at high noon, attracted greater attention than at any previous year and calls to mind the fact that the sun never sets on portions of sequoia trees taken from Sequoia National Park.

There is one at the University of Amoy, China; at the University of Sweden; Baylor University, Waaco, Tex.; Pan American Exposition, Honolulu; Office of Director Stephen T. Mather, Washington, D. C.; the State Capitol at Sacramento and the De Young Museum in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco. To this list was added a section sent to the national convention of the American Legion in Paris, France, last September.

While delivering the Fourth of July address in Sequoia last summer, Department Adjutant James E. Fisk suggested sending of a cut of a Sequoia to Paris. This suggestion met with instant favor and members of the Big Tree Post, including territory of Woodlake, Lemon Cove and Three Rivers, volunteered to prepare it for shipment. It was trucked to Lemon Cove and there taken in charge by the State Legionnaires for transportation to France.

No freight car was found large enough to transport it to Paris when it arrived at the dock of La Havre and a heavier car had to be sent from Bordeaux. Arriving at Paris another problem arose in transporting it to the Jardin Des Plantes, the pieces finally being set in an upright position on a platform of lumber.

Many dignitaries from the French government and Paris officials attended the ceremony. The cut is 9ft. 8in. across and weighs 3000 pounds. It is estimated to be at least 2000 years old. Bronze tablets depicting history of France for the past 2000 years and a tablet of dedication to the French government from the American Legion of the United States adorn the cut.

Hugh M. Parks of the National Parks service had charge of the cutting and transportation of the slab. It was donated by Col. John R. White, superintendent of Sequoia and Gen. Grant national parks. The Southern Pacific Railroad transported it from Lemon Cove to France free of cost.

Noted Voice on Microphone to Broadcast Game

PASADENA, Dec. 27.—Graham McNamee, widely known radio announcer of the National Broadcasting Company, is coming to Pasadena January 2 to see the Stanford-Pittsburgh football game at the Rose Bowl and give his play-by-play version of the contest over the air, in one of the biggest national radio hook-ups ever arranged, Harlan Hall, manager of the Tournament of Roses, announced today.

Seventy-seven stations throughout the country will co-operate in the hook-up, fifty-five of which are known as "super" stations. McNamee broadcast last year's game between Stanford and Alabama, and since then has broadcast the World Series, the Dempsey-Tunney fight and other big sporting events.

The Pittsburgh football team will arrive in the city Saturday morning on the Chief of the Santa Fe, and will make their headquarters at the Hotel Vista del Arroyo. F. Steele Gow, executive secretary of the University of Pittsburgh, announced here today.

Former Judge Held in Jail

PORTERVILLE, Dec. 27.—D. K. Krutts, former police judge of Porterville, and Lena Wilson, wanted with him on liquor possession charges, are being held in the Tulare County Jail in Visalia. Local officials have sought the two for some weeks, finally making the arrest yesterday at the Harry Witt ranch, four miles east of Porterville.

County Prohibition Officers Fulmer and Williams and Constable A. P. Hubbs of Porterville, made the arrest.

Krutts was released from service as police judge of Porterville about a year and a half ago, for asserted liquor escapades. Several weeks ago he was charged with being owner of a pool hall which was raided by local police, who are said to have found liquor there. The Wilson woman was named with him as operator of the place.

CARRIER PIGEONS ON AIR JOURNEY

ONTARIO, Dec. 27.—What may ultimately become an established practice for air liners, was given a trial today when Ralph Vaughn, Ontario aviator, set out on a cross-country flight with his family, consisting of wife and three children, bound for Tucson, Ariz., and carried as a precautionary measure four homing pigeons.

Vaughn believes homing pigeons are a decided asset to airplanes in long-distance flying. He is training a set of pigeons with the view of carrying them on his ship at all times when flying for any distance.

Vaughn believes homnig pigeons are at Yuma, Ariz., with messages for Robert Church, from whose loft the pigeons were taken. Another pair of the birds is to be released when Vaughn is on his return to Ontario.

THOUSANDS ATTEND PUBLIC RECEPTION

PASADENA, Dec. 27.—Several thousand visitors thronged the corridors and grounds of the new Pasadena City Hall on Garfield avenue today and tonight on the occasion of its official opening and open house to the public.

The $125,000 structure has been occupied by the various municipal departments for several weeks. It is the second of the three units of the Civic Center. The public library, a block away, is now in use, while the municipal auditorium has not yet been started.

When the City Directors met today they were presented with an ivory gavel by Grant Orth, well-known resident of the city, who brought it home with him from Alaska recently.

W. A. WARD IS MASTER OF VAN NUYS MASONS

VAN NUYS, Dec. 27.—Installation of the officers of the Van Nuys Masonic Lodge to serve in 1928, took place tonight with Ralph M. Albright, Past Master of the local lodge as master of ceremonies, and Arthur E. Streeter, also a Past Master, as installing officer. The new officers are: Warren A. Ward, Master; Thomas F. Foree, Senior Warden; Fred C. Morgan; Junior Warden; George F. Beale, secretary; John S. Hathaway, treasurer. Others elected are W. G. Russell, Henry W. Chafee, Thomas E. Cleland, James H. McCue, Roy Ramey, Stewart L. Vaughn, H. A. Rasgorshek and Frank Reed.

VALLEY CRACK SHOTS VOTE TO MERGE CLUBS

OWENSMOUTH, Dec. 27.—The Owensmouth and Van Nuys gun clubs, whose members are among the best trapshooters in the Southland, have voted to consolidate, with George W. Harvey, president and Milo C. Walker, secretary. The shooting grounds of the members will be at Victory Boulevard and Fulton street in the Van Nuys district. Members of the clubs do so much shooting at their traps that it pays one man to come annually and salvage the spent bird shot out of the sand beyond the shooting stands. This year several tons of lead were scooped up and sold to junk dealers.

ANOTHER ANNEXATION

SOUTH GATE, Dec. 27.—Another section of territory is now seeking annexation to South Gate, a petition having been started in circulation in the Central Gardena district, which, when sufficient number of signatures are secured, will be presented to the local Council for consideration. It will be turned over to the City Clerk for checking and if found sufficient the election will be called. The territory is just south of the Home Gardens district, which voted favorably on annexation to this city a week ago last Saturday. The district is bounded on the east by the Los Angeles River, on the west by a line 150 feet east of Atlantic avenue, on the north by Norton avenue, and on the south by Morton avenue.

An annexation election is to be held in the Magnolia Park district on the last day of the present year.

High School Bank Makes Fine Record

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 27.—Savings of $10,408.75 have been made by 7000 children in San Diego city schools since September, according to a report today issued by C. A. Nyhus, head of the school bank system.

The school bank system is a member of the San Diego Clearinghouse Association and has funds guaranteed by all San Diego banks. Two years ago this method was innovated by Will Angier, and to date the children of San Diego have banked over $140,000. Each city school has its own banking system, which is operated by one member of the faculty and a student staff of officers. Two days each week are set aside for banking purposes.

The following figures show deposits made since September, 1927, to date:

Roosevelt Junior High School leads with $1440.29 deposits; Woodrow Wilson, $537.92; Memorial, $490.05; Florence, $792.32; Jefferson, $636.72; Central, $610.34; Norma Heights, $599.16; Washington, $536.29; Sherman, $508.43; Brooklyn, $26.63; Lincoln, $399.96; Grant, $395.70; Hamilton, $381.05; Logan, $320.84; Garfield, $307.26; McKinley, $279.56; Pacific Beach, $237.04; Stockton, $185.38; State College Training School, $162.86; Fremont, $157.23; Edison, $131.81; Euclid, $131.81; Emerson, $126.25; Balboa, $125.68; Loma Portal, $123.13; Mission Beach, $111.19; Ocean Beach, $88.33; Cabrillo, $61.78; Ocean View, $61.26; La Jolla High School, $7; La Jolla elementary, $2.86.

Former Pupil Sues Psychic

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 27.—B. Pierre Brookhart, psychic, was defendant by counsel representation in Judge C. C. Haines's department of the Superior Court today in trial of a suit brought by P. K. Powers, 65 years of age, seeking recovery of $3660. Brookhart was reported to be practicing in Hollywood at this time or recently.

Powers, the plaintiff, is said to have joined one of the mystic psychology classes for the development of his mind. He was not present in court, but was represented to be undergoing treatment at the County Hospital.

On the Powers side it is contended that Brookhart gained control of Powers' mind and thereby gained control of his pocketbook containing $3660 therefrom in lots of $1000, $2000 and $660. In the Brookhart answer it is admitted he sold Powers one-quarter interest in the Rialto Theater for $1000 on June 13, 1926, but it is denied that he received an additional $2000 from Powers on June 14 and $660 more on July 1.

The first witness called in trying the case without attendance of plaintiff or defendant was Clovis C. Messner, who had been a member of a Brookhart class.

FARMING SEASON AHEAD OF TIME

LEMOORE, Dec. 27.—Farming operations in the San Joaquin Valley are several weeks ahead of normal, states County Farm Adviser Wallace Sullivan. A vast acreage of grain has been seeded in this county, especially in the Tulare Lake section, but seeding still continues. Pruning is also ahead of season. Planting of grain on the west-side plains has ceased, however, due to the dry frosty weather which for the past month has succeeded unusually heavy early rainfall.

The weather has of late been fine for the cotton harvest, the frost making the cotton bolls open up in fine shape. More than 80 per cent of the cotton crop has been in the gins and baled and the remainder is being harvested rapidly.

ARRANGE DETAILS OF FARM BANQUET

HANFORD, Dec. 27.—The annual banquet of the Kings County Farm Bureau, the big event of the year in farm-center circles, will take place near the end of January in this city, the date to be set for the convenience of a prominent speaker to be secured for the occasion.

One of the feature events of the program at the banquet will be a pageant participated in by all the farm centers of the county, depicting the work of the farm organization during the ten years the farm bureau has been operating in this county of Kings. County Farm Adviser Wallace Sullivan is arranging the program.

FINE HOME GIVEN CITY FOR PARK

Redlands Remembered in Will of Wealthy Woman Who Dies in Washington

REDLANDS, Dec. 27.—Executors of the estate of Miss Olivia Eggleston Phelps-Stokes, a sister of the late W. E. D. Stokes, are expected in Redlands within a few days on business connected with settling the estate. Miss Stokes died in Washington two weeks ago leaving about $820,000 of an estate valued at more than $1,000,000, to charities and educational institutions.

The beautiful home here near the country club, with its ten-acre orange grove, which is one of the best in the section, has been left to the city of Redlands for a park, according to the term sof the will. It is supposed that when the executors come they will turn the estate over to the city, according to the terms of the will, as a memorial to her sister, Caroline, who died here several years ago.

Miss Stokes was not a recluse, but for several years she had spent most of her time in her home and yet her will shows her interest in all educational enterprises. She left large sums to the Community Hospital, Associated Charities, California Indian Association, Y. W. C. A. and other associations in this city, including gifts for the library and Contemporary Club.

The home is a beautiful one and the furnishings are all valuable, gathered by Miss Stokes in her journeys up and down the world several years ago. She left $125,000 to Tuskegee Negro Institute and to Berea College in Kentucky, $100,000, and to Normal and Agricultural Institute, Hampton, Va., $100,000.

Where Desert Blossoms Like Rose Garden

PALM SPRINGS, Dec. 27.—A modern safari—or desert cavalcade—comprising 300 assorted cooks, pantry men, chambermaids, bell boys, clerks, waiters and sundry other hotel employees will set out from Los Angeles tomorrow mornin gfor Palm Springs, Cal., to make ready for the opening of the new El Mirador, the largest hotel ever built on the American desert. The formal opening of this new $1,000,000 hotel takes place next Sunday.

The chiefs of the caravan, which travels not by camel, but by motor stage, will be Messrs. E. B. Edmonds and E. P. Severcool, lessees and managers of the new hotel.

Already an advance crew has been working for weeks whipping everything into shape for the gala opening of El Mirador, which many prominent Californians and desert lovers all over the country will attend. Many of the novel entertainment features of the opening will be staged in the $75,000 desert garden which covers the western side of the hotel grounds and contains every species of desert plant known to horticulturists.

The hotel itself is a colorful combination of Indian and Spanish design well in keeping with its desert surroundings. The main hotel building and its two spacious annexes comprise more than 200 large and attractively decorated guest rooms and suites, many with private sun porches looking out over the beauties of both the desert and mountain. The interior of El Mirador carries out the prevailing Spanish motif found in the exteriors. The handsome main lobby is truly a masterpiece of the decorators' arts. Turquoise blue walls are topped by driftwood beams; on the planked Spanish flooring are hand tufted Spanish rugs and attractively arranged around the room is beautiful hand-carved period furniture. The main dining-room will comfortably accommodate 300 guests and features many novel and interesting things that will catch the eye of the California tourist.

AWARD CONTRACT FOR LANDING FIELD

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 27.—Work in improving Kern county's new airport will be started immediately. Bids for the construction of hangars and a machine shop of steel at the airport were received today by the Board of Supervisors.

The low bidder was the Western Pipe and Steel Company, offering to construct the hangars and machine shop for $17,600, equipped with concrete floors, or for $14,600 without concrete floors. The Supervisors chose the $14,600 bid and awarded it.

The building will have concrete bases and will be entirely of steel construction and erected in such a manner that nothing short of a cyclone could blow them over. The airport will be lighted with flood and landing lights and when completed will be one of the finest in the State.

RANCHERS GET RULES IN USE OF GASOLINE

CHATSWORTH, Dec. 27.—The limitations on the transportation of gasoline and storage of gasoline in San Fernando Valley by ranchers and farmers have been set forth by Inspector C. E. Maas of Los Angeles, in charge of fire prevention work. Fifty gallons may be delivered in the field to farmers if the so-called I. C. C. tanks are used for storing the gasoline. In other cases amounts of gasoline which exceed fifty gallons must be stored in underground tanks. When the amount is less than fifty gallons a tank above ground is permitted, but it must be properly ventilated, aloof and inclosed. The use of trap wagon transportation of gasoline by farmers is forbidden.

UNIVERSITY CLUB TO FOUND SCHOLARSHIPS

RESEDA, Dec. 27.—The San Fernando Valley University Club, members here say, is discussing a proposal to found a scholarship fund for the use of deserving students, either to assist while they are attending high school or to make it possible for them to continue work in college. The proposal of the fund is to be settled definitely at the next meeting of the club to be conducted in the Van Nuys Public Library on the night of January 4, next. The club, newly formed, is seeking to enroll all former college men and women in San Fernando Valley.

COMPROMISE IN WILL CONTEST

City of Pasadena to Receive Cash and Curios

Accept Gift in Lieu of Real Estate

All Part of Property Belonging to Club Woman

PASADENA, Dec. 27. — Pasadena will receive $45,000 in cash and a collection of valuable curios as the result of a compromise reached with other beneficiaries who were contesting the will of the late Emma H. Dickinson, formerly a prominent club woman and philanthropist of this city, it was revealed today by City Attorney McAllaster.

The curios, which had been collected by their owner in the course of many journeys around the world, were left to the city in a codicil attached to the will shortly before Miss Dickinson died about a year ago.

The legality of the codicil was contested by Mt. Holyoke College and the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, both of which shared in bequests from the $200,000 estate. Now it is stated that they will withdraw their objections if Pasadena will accept $45,000 cash for its claim to the former home of Miss Dickinson at 770 Arden Road.

The collection will be housed in the new City Hall, the Board of City Directors decided today, after approving the settlement reported by McAllaster.

The estate is not yet free of litigation, however, as four aged cousins are attempting to set aside the entire will on the ground that Miss Dickinson was unduly influenced at its signing and was unsound mentally at the time.

Quezon May Remain Here

PASADENA, Dec. 27. (AP)—Decision as to whether or not physicians will permit Manuel Quezon, Filipino Nationalist leader, to sail for Manila on January 6 will be reached at a consultation of doctors at the Pottenger Sanatorium Janury 1, it was announced today by the senor's secretary, T. Trion. Passage for the Quezon party has been booked on the President Madison, which leaves San Francisco January 6 for the islands.

Although Quezon's condition is not thought serious, the physicians will decide whether it would be better for him to remain at the sanatorium for a longer rest and further diagnosis than to return to the Philippines soon after the new year. In event he does return home, the doctors will recommend a long period of several weeks' rest there.

Quezon arrived at the Pottenger Sanatorium in Monrovia after a break in health while he was in Washington, D. C., on official business.

COLD PROTECTS LETTUCE CROP

EL CENTRO, Dec. 27.—Unless warm weather comes, Imperial Valley's $6,000,000 lettuce crop will not be seriously injured by the rainfall of the past three days, according to the prediction of County Horticultural Commissioner B. A. Harrigan.

Cotton men were not so fortunate, however, according to the report of field men who say that the downpour will reduce the grade on the 20,000 or 25,000 bales yet to be harvested on both sides of the international line.

Travelers arriving from Los Angeles today state that they were delayed several hours last night by washouts in the highway along Salton Sea. More than 200 automobiles were held up at Oasis during the early part of the evening.

Irrigation district headquarters at Imperial reported a total of 2.36 inches of rain during the storm. Unofficial gauges in the southern part of the valley indicated that the rainfall had been much lighter in that section.

COMMANDER TO VISIT PORTERVILLE

PORTERVILLE, Dec. 27.—Edward E. Spafford of New York, national commander of the American Legion, will visit Porterville Saturday morning, December 31, according to Robert Woods, local commander and chairman of the reception committee to welcome the visiting official.

Commander Spafford was elected in the recent national convention in Paris, France and is on his first tour of the United States. Preparations are being made for one of the greatest receptions en route from Los Angeles to Northern California when he stops in Porterville. He is expected to arrive here at 9:35 a.m. on the Southern Pacific train.

HUNTER SHOT BY COMPANION

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 27.—Accidentally shot by a hunting companion, George Moore, 17, lies near death at Bakersfield Emergency Hospital. According to Dr. C. S. Long, young Moore, who resides twelve miles south of Bakersfield on the Golden State Highway, was hunting with Roy Johnson shortly before noon today.

Johnson carried a revolver and as it was accidentally discharged, the bullet struck Moore in the right breast. The bullet did not pass through the body but is believed to have lodged in the right lung.

TAKE MONEY FROM SAFE IN GARAGE

PASADENA, Dec. 27.—Thieves broke into the garage of James H. Kindel, 348 West Colorado street, local automobile dealer, and escaped with $300 after breaking into a safe by knocking off its combination, police reported today.

The robbers gained entrance to the building by climbing a drain pipe in the rear and then jimmying open a second-floor window. They had wheeled a new automobile to the door, apparently intending to escape in it, but for some reason decided to leave the car.

HELEN MUST FIND HOMES
FOR 450 BABIES

HELEN TALKS. You must not think this is an orphan case when I talk about 450 babies, but I really have 450 sweet-voiced, dear, darling babies, baby grands, that will please the ear and eye of any woman. This big 10-story storage warehouse is packed with the high-grade, long-lasting, guaranteed grand pianos. Grands for the modest bungalow, grands that will grace any Cahuenga mansion. Prices start at $277, $297, $317, $347, $377 up to $1777. You can save from $200 to $1000 on your grand piano purchase. I have regular "Kathleen Mavourneen" terms—"It may be for years and it may be forever." If a grand is too rich for your blood, I have little practice pianos ranging in price from $17 up. Player pianos from $147 up. Usual low terms, as low as $5 down and $5 per month. Come see me and hear my babies sing. Just ask for Mr. Edwards at Piano Storage Company, 800 N. Spring st. at Alpine. THE "FOX"
Would surely attract a lot of speed in our car store. We are ready to have him here. However, the next best attraction is to give us some used car business. Come down, drag-'em-out used car lot gains, such as Cadillacs, Packards, Studebakers, Franklins, Stearns, Overlands, Chevrolets, Fords, etc. In fact, folks, if we don't have the car you want it isn't worth having.
WILSON SPEAKING:
The boss told me to come up about $1000 worth of cars by New Year's, and he doesn't mean maybe, I know! Because he said: "Wilson, if you don't get me anything you want, but get it!" So, folks, if that is not a real invitation to visit this great, big automobile store and at least see what we have to offer you, I don't know what is. You must be hard to please.
